BRITISH IMMIGRANTS COME VIA CANADA; AVOID ELLIS ISLAND

Two Shiploads Reach Montreal Intent on Early Entrance to States—Many More Expected.

1924 LIST IN FORCE SUNDAY

GRAND TOTAL STAYS SAME

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., June 27.—Ellis Island as a place of destination is being much avoided at present by British people going to the United States to settle or to pay visits, according to information obtained here. Next Sunday sees the opening of the next fiscal year's immigration quota, and British people bound for the United States are using the St. Lawrence route and waiting here to be ready to cross the border promptly.

The Metagama and the Montrose, with 3,518 passengers, will arrive here at the week end in time for most of the passengers to cross the frontier for the United States early. The passengers include brides-to-be, settlers and some citizens of the United States returning home who prefer boats under the British flag using the St. Lawrence route. There are no restrictions on this route in the matter of personal tastes.

On the Metagama, a C. P. R. boat, there are 595 third class passengers going to the United States by the way of Montreal, who will settle there, and it is the same with the Montrose, also a C. P. R. boat. On the Metagama there also are 205 first class passengers destined for various points in the United States and 83 first class passengers on the Montrose also bound for United States points.

The first class passengers will be taken off at Quebec, and rushed to New York on a special train from Quebec to Montreal and New York. It is expected by the Canadian steamship men that there will be a great deal of this business this year.

Quotas Assigned for New Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Immigration "quotas" for the next fiscal year were announced today by W. W. Husband, the Commissioner General of Immigration. They show no vitally important changes from the allotments for the fiscal year 1923, which ends Saturday night, but a few changes have been made as a result of political changes in Europe.

There is no change in the total number of immigrants that can be admitted during the new fiscal year. This is fixed by law and remains the same—71,561 aliens may be admitted monthly, or 357,803 for the year. Nor is there any alteration in the number of immigrants entitled to entry from the United Kingdom, Germany, Italy, Sweden and Russia—the countries ordinarily sending the most persons to the United States under existing conditions.

All told there is a shift in allotment of only 555 immigrants from the "quota" of one country to that of another. The regions involved in this change are Austria, Greece, Hungary, Lithuania, Poland, Syria, Turkey and other Asia." Another interesting aspect of the new quota regulations involves no change of allotment, but one of designation.

The British Isles are entitled to send 77,342 immigrants to the United States in the coming fiscal year, which was also their allotment for the current fiscal year, but the British Isles were designated in the 1922-1923 list as the "United Kingdom," whereas the new quotas designate that part of the world under the heading: "Great Britain and Northern Ireland; Irish Free State."

No attempt is made by the authorities to sub-divide the quota of 77,342 allotted to Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the Irish Free State. It makes no difference to the American Government whether all of these come from Great Britain, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland or the Irish Free State. The new designation for the British Isles is understood to have been made so as to conform with that of the British Government.

Change the Baltic States' Status.

Since the 1923 quotas were fixed, the former Russian regions of Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania have blossomed out into independent nations. For that reason they are not designated this year as sub-divisions of Russia. In the quotas for the current year they are designated under "Russia," as being the "Esthonian region," the "Latvian region" and the "Lithuanian and Memel regions." In the new quota list they are given independent status and designated as "Esthonia," "Latvia" and "Lithuania (including Memel region and part of Pinsk region)."

Another change of political designation is made. Last year "Africa" was designated as a continental entirety, from which a total of 122 persons could be admitted into this country. The 1924 quota list separates Egypt from Africa, because of the recent political change involving Egypt. "Africa (other than Egypt)" is allotted 104 admissible immigrants, and "Egypt" alone is allowed to send eighteen immigrants to the United States in the fiscal year 1924, but the total for Egypt and the rest of Africa remains the same—122.

The changes made for the smaller countries are the result of territorial readjustments in the map of Europe which were recognized by the American Government for immigration purposes. Australia's new quota is 7,342, or a loss of 258 compared with the fiscal year 1923.

Turtle Branded by Capt. Cook In 1773 Is Now Found Alive

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A turtle left in the Tonga Islands by Captain James Cook, the English mariner, in 1773, or 150 years ago, was found there last month by Captain E. T. Pollock, Governor of American Samoa, according to a report to the Navy Department.

Despite the established proclivity of the species toward records for longevity, the turtle exhibited signs of extreme age, Captain Pollock said, adding that it was "blind, and when walking creaks like an ox cart."

PRESIDENT RELAXES, SEES BIG UTAH PARK

LEAVES FOR IDAHO AT NIGHT

The President and Mrs. Harding and the members of the party had breakfast before leaving the special train at 8 o'clock for the automobile journey. The train departed from Cedar City at 9 o'clock tonight for Pocatello, Idaho

Senator Smoot and Governor Mabey of Utah, President Heber J. Grant of the Mormon Church and Mrs. Grant accompanied the President from Salt Lake City. Another of the party which made the Zion Park tour was Brig. Gen. Alexander, commanding the United States troops at Fort Douglas, who was responsible for the arrangements for the President's progress by automobile from Ogden and for the period of his stay in Salt Lake.

Today had been fitted into the Presidential itinerary as a day of recreation. It was hardly a day of rest, for the motor car trip through Zion Park covered 130 miles. If Mr. Harding had any regrets over the physical exactions of his adventure, he was in too happy a state of mind to voice them.

Salt Lake Meeting Best of Tour.

Last night's meeting in the President's honor in the great Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City was the most successful that Mr. Harding has addressed since he left Washington a week ago today, if success is to be measured by the enthusiasm which prevailed and the approval given to the utterances of the President. Not only at Salt Lake City, but at Ogden, where he left his train yesterday, and along the thirty-six-mile route of his progress by motor car to Salt Lake, he was made to feel that he had many friends among the people of Utah.

The striking feature of the Tabernacle meeting was the approving fervor which the President aroused in his huge audience by his references to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague. There had been no mention in the prepared text of his address of his proposal that the United States should become affiliated with this tribunal. The set address was a mass of facts and figures intended to show that the Federal Government had been conducted in an economical manner in contrast with heavy increased taxation and expenditures in States, counties and municipalities.

Occasional handclapping came with the citation by the President of statistics to show what his administration had done to reduce the burden of Federal taxation and keep the expenditures of the Government within its income. But for the most part the audience was left cold by the continued reading of hard facts.

No effort at oratory had been made by the President in the delivery of his prepared address. He read it in an even tone in a rather husky voice which would not have carried any considerable distance without the aid of the amplifying machine in front of him.

When he had concluded the reading Mr. Harding paused for a moment and then began his extemporaneous peroration on his World Court recommendation. The President spoke in a low tone but so close was the attention given him that his words carried through the vast hall. He seemed to have acquired new power to make his natural voice heard by all within the Tabernacle.

He spoke of "Utah's best crop," meaning the large number of school children who had given him a shrill welcome at Ogden and Salt Lake and along the route between the two places. Then he spoke of the future of these children with the prospects that if wars

MRS. BUZZI GUILTY IN FIRST DEGREE; JURY OUT 10 HOURS

PENALTY DEATH IN CHAIR

Nature of Verdict Apparent as the Jurors File In With Firm, Set Faces.

Mrs. Anna Buzzi was convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury last night in the Bronx Supreme Court for shooting Frederick Schneider in an automobile on Sound View Road, near Clason Point, on the afternoon of Feb. 26 last. Supreme Court Justice James O'Malley announced that he would pronounce sentence at 11 A. M. on July 9. The penalty in this State is death in the electric chair.

The jury returned its verdict at 10:10 o'clock last night, exactly ten hours after it had retired to the jury room after hearing Justice O'Malley's charge. The verdict was a surprise to the crowd in the court room because of the length of the jury's deliberation. A disagreement or acquittal had been expected.

Several hundred people, half of whom were women, thronged the court room, and another crowd, almost as large, stood in the corridor outside for hours yesterday afternoon and evening waiting for the verdict. The first notice that the jury had reached a decision came a few minutes after 10 o'clock, when Justice O'Malley ordered all the women to leave the court room. The Court is believed to have feared a demonstration by hysterical women.

Then the jury filed into the court room, headed by Foreman Edward A. Lynch. Their demeanor as they took their seats in the jury box indicated what their verdict would be. Jurors who acquit usually come in smiling; those for conviction are always serious. Every one of the twelve men in the jury box box last night had his face set in a grim and stern expression.

Woman Stands to Receive Verdict.

Mrs. Buzzi, calm, almost stolid, dressed all in black even to her necklace and earrings, was sitting in a chair at the counsel table, alongside her attorneys and the prosecutors. She had been brought upstairs from the jail in the basement of the courthouse by the matron, Mrs. Catherine De Witt, and two Deputy Sheriffs, who sat behind her.

The high court room was so quiet that the merest whisper could be heard. Suddenly Mrs. Buzzi was asked to stand up. She rose, with a Deputy Sheriff ready at each side to support her if she collapsed.

Gentlemen of the jury," asked the clerk of the court, "have you reached a verdict?"

Mrs. Buzzi stood motionless, expressionless, listening with her eyes resting calmly on the foreman.

"We have," the foreman replied.

"What is it?"

Appears Stunned at Verdict.

The eyes of the entire courtroom turned upon the condemned woman. She remained standing perfectly still, without a trace of understanding on her face, as if the words could not sink in upon her bewildered mind. There were no tears, no cries. For a long, tense moment she remained standing like this, while everybody gazed at her without a sound. Then a change came over her slowly. It began with her features working convulsively and her hands reaching instinctively toward her head. Then it spread over her whole body, which seemed to shake and sag with despair. The Deputy Sheriffs seized her, one by each arm, and she sank into her chair and fell forward as if stunned.

Her principal attorney, James P. Donnelly, brought her a glass of water, but she was unable to stretch out her hand to take it. She simply remained sitting there, hunched over her chair. There were still no tears or cries. She could not even speak when the clerk of the court came over with a printed form and tried to take her pedigree.

After a few minutes, during which her attorneys talked to her soothingly, she revived, and replied to the clerk's questions, giving her name, age, and so on, in a the same low, unemotional tone with which she had testified from the witness stand. Tears came to her eyes while she was answering these questions for the first time, but still she did not break down. Afterward, the matron and the Deputy Sheriffs helped her out of the court room, and

Wolf, son of Lad, is dead. The shaggy collie, with the eyes that understood and the friendly tail, made famous in the stories of Albert Payson Terhune, died like a thoroughbred, so when Wolf joined his father in the canine beyond last Sunday night there was no hanging of heads.

Wolf died a hero, but yesterday the level lawns of the Terhune home at Pompton Lakes, N. J., seemed empty and the big house was curiously quiet. True, other collies were there, but so, too was the big boulder out in the woods with just "Wolf" graven across it.

Ten years ago, when thousands of readers were following Lad's career as told by his owner, Mr. Terhune, an interesting event took place at Sunnybank. Of all the puppies that had or have come to Sunnybank, that group of newcomers was the most mischievous. Admittedly, Lad was properly proud, but readers will remember his occasional misgivings about one of the pups. The cause of parental concern was Wolf. He was a good puppy, you know, but a trifle boisterous; maybe—yes, he was, the littlest bit inclined to wildness.

In 1912 Lad passed on and the whole country mourned his departure. Wolf succeeded his famous father in the stories of Mr. Terhune. The son had long since abandoned his harum scarum ways and had developed into a model member of the Terhune dog circle. In fact, Wolf became the property and the pet of Mrs. Terhune.

As Mr. Terhune put it yesterday, he became the cleverest of all the collies. One could talk to Wolf and get understanding and no back talk. One could depend on Wolf and get full loyalty. One could like Wolf and say so, and the soft, cool nose would come poking around and the tail would begin to wag till it seemed as if Wolf would wag himself off his feet.

Wolf constituted himself warden of the Terhune lawns and custodian of the driveways. When motoring parties came in and endangered the lives of the puppies playing about the driveways, Wolf, at the first sound of the motor, would dash importantly down into the drive and every puppy would scurry out of harm's way.

Every evening it was the habit of Wolf to saunter off on a long "walk." The exercise, it seems, prepared Wolf for sleep. Three days ago Wolf ambled away and—

Down in the darkness at the railroad station some of the folks were waiting to see the Stroudsburg express flash by. It was a few minutes late. A nondescript dog, with a hunted, homeless droop to his tail, trotted onto the tracks. Far down the line there came the warning screech of the express. The canine tramp didn't pay any attention to it.

The headlight of the express shot a beam glistening along the rails. Wolf saw the dog and the danger. With a bark and a snap the son of Lad drove the stranger to safety. The express was whistling for a crossing far past the station when they picked up what was Wolf and started for the Terhune home.

PLAN UPTOWN ARENA TWICE GARDEN'S SIZE

Rickard and Other Promoters Expect to Close Deal for Title Today.

G. L. (Tex) Rickard, boxing promoter; John Ringling, circus owner, and associates expect to settle the matter of title today to nearly a whole block at Fiftieth Street and Seventh Avenue, within a stone's throw of Times Square, where they plan to erect what they describe as "the largest indoor arena in the world." The land, which is now occupied by the car barns of the New York Railways Company, is bounded by Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets, Seventh and Sixth Avenues.

The arena, together with a 26-story office building which will form a part of the proposed structure, and the land, will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000, according to information given to THE NEW YORK TIMES last night by one of those interested in the project. Four of the largest banking groups in New York are ready to underwrite the enterprise, it was said.

Negotiations for the car-barn site have been under way for several months. Difficulties in closing the deal have been due to complications of receivership. Any change in title to the property is subject to the approval of various groups of bondholders, especially the 4 per cent. group.

The arrangements which have been discussed by the representatives of bondholders' committees and the Rickard-Ringling group have not been disclosed in detail to Job E. Hedges, Receiver, who explained last night that the sale of the property would have to be approved by Judge Julius M. Mayer and that there were several other steps to be taken before title to the property could pass from the present owners to the New Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Not to Quit Garden.

The purchase of the site and the erection of the arena and office building will be handled by this recently formed Corporation. The papers of incorporation of the new organization were filed with the Secretary of State at Albany on May 31, when there was much speculation in sporting and financial circles regarding the future plans of Rickard, Ringling and their associates.

There were rumors then that Rickard and Ringling, holding a lease on Madison Square Garden with still eight years to run, would scrap the old Garden and build a bigger and finer amusement palace. Both Rickard and Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, lessor of Madison Square Garden, were questioned, but shed no light on the plans of the new corporation. It is now definitely announced that Madison Square Garden will not be abandoned by the New Madison Square Garden Corporation. The disclosure of the plans of the Rickard-Ringling group was made to a limited number of the friends of the promoters who were invited to share in the undertaking.

So sure are Mr. Rickard and Mr. Ringling and those backing their project that they will gain possession of the old car barn site that Mr. Ringling and Mr. Rickard have prepared a formal announcement which was to have been released for Monday. The identity of the four banking groups, of the associates of Mr. Rickard and Mr. Ringling, a detailed description of the projected arena and office building and the uses to which the new arena is to be adapted will be embodied in this announcement which will be given out soon.

The recently organized New Madison Square Garden Corporation will take over all the enterprises of Tex Rickard in the United States. Profits from his activities in America and in foreign companies will go to the new corporation, which he is under agreement to serve for a period of twenty years from May, 1923. The place of Chairman of the Board of Directors of the new corporation will be filled by Mr. Ringling. Men who are known in the financial and athletic worlds will have places on the board.

Projects in Other Cities.

The new indoor arena will represent only one phase of the activities of the corporation. It has taken over the

THREE GIRLS DROWN AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY

The clamorous happiness of twenty-four tenement children on a school outing, all girls between the ages of 10 and 15 years, turned with the tide at Weber's Beach, Sheepshead Bay, into tragedy yesterday. Three of the little girls were drowned when caught in a mudhole, four are in the Coney Island Hospital and one of the two teachers in charge of the party, who, though not a swimmer, attempted a rescue of her charges, is in a serious condition.

The children drowned were Rafaela Dumi of 33 Bedford Street, Manhattan; Mary Martella of 217 West Tenth Street and Frances Scurasi of 206 Thompson Street. Those in the Coney Island Hospital are Anna Caruso, 35 Carmine Street; Antoinette Iannacone, 216 Hancock Street; Florence Myers, 204 West Tenth Street, and Josephine Tomasuli, 106 Macdougal Street. The teacher is Viola Heiff, 32, of 1,118 Park Avenue, Hoboken.

It was the annual year's-end outing of 7-D Shop Class, the girl's workshop, of Public School No. 3, at the intersection of Grove, West Tenth and Hudson Streets. Articles made by the girls of the shop class are sold during the year and the proceeds are "blown in" just before vacation on an outing. The girls this year took a vote and elected to go to Sheepshead Bay. Most of them were on hand at the school in their best dresses yesterday morning long before Miss Heiff and her friend, Mrs. Marion Trato of Passaic, N. J., arrived to chaperone them on the trip.

Used Dangerous Beach.

About 9 o'clock they began a noisy journey to Sheepshead Bay, where they went to the Brooks bungalow, at the corner of East Thirtieth Street and Emmons Avenue, loaned to them for the occasion to save an outlay for bathhouses. But neither Miss Heiff nor Mrs. Trato knew that very little bathing had been done along the beach off Thirtieth Street during the last two years because of dangerous sand and mud conditions. Just why the spot had been selected could not be learned last night, for Miss Heiff's condition did not permit her to talk.

Anyway, when each little girl had donned a bathing suit there was a general scamper into the water. The tide was out and presently the shouting group were playing "ring-around-rosie" in the water. Miss Heiff put on her bathing suit, too, and stood by, mindful of her responsibility. Once two of the little girls ventured too far into the water and the teacher called them back.

The children had been in and out of the water from noon until 2:40 o'clock when Carl Zellner of 2,912 Emmons Avenue; David Holmes, a member of the Sheepshead Bay Yacht Club, and Jack Uliman, a plumber, of 744 Dunne Court, who were chattering near the beach, distinguished amid the shouts of the little girls, several cries for help. They saw Mrs. Trato running frantically up and down the beach shouting to a group of children about 75 feet out in the water. The tide had started to come in.

Dragged Teacher Under Water.

Running toward the scene Zellner saw Miss Heiff far out in the water surrounded by girls who were pulling and tugging at her, clutching their teacher to keep themselves afloat. The teacher, who barely could swim, found herself dragged beneath the surface. Then one or two of the little girls must have lost their holds and sank into a treacherous mudhole five or six feet over their heads.

Zellner, racing into the water with his clothes on, followed by Uliman and Holmes, managed to pull Miss Heiff and several girls to safety. Then he dived and found the body of the Dumi girl. Carrying her ashore he attempted to resuscitate her, but seeing that she was quite limp and dead, he ran back into the water and carried four other children to the beach.

Pachitch, Jugoslav Premier, Is Wounded In Hand by Serb Firing Six Shots at Him

BELGRADE, June 27 (Associated Press).—Premier Nikola Pachitch of Jugoslavia was attacked and slightly wounded today soon after leaving the House of Parliament. Six shots were fired at him, one of which struck his left hand as he was entering his motor car. His action in dropping to the bottom of the car is thought to have saved him from further injury or possible death.

His assailant, a man named Miliutone Raitch, a Serbian, was arrested. He ascribed his action to personal motives. Raitch lives in Budapest, where he is employed in a bank.

The attack on the Premier aroused great indignation among the people of the capital. No political significance is attributed to the incident.

Nikola Pachitch's chief title to fame is his success in bringing the Croats, Serbs and Slovenes to accept the present Constitution of Jugoslavia, thus insuring a greater Serbia, with the historic territories broken up into numerous election districts, instead of a Federation of Jugoslavs, as had been desired by the Croats. Thus his ideal, formulated in 1881, came to be realized. He is called alternately "the Grand Old Man of Serbia" and "the Father of the Constitution." He is 75 years old.

MAKE PLANS TO SEIZE SHIPS WITH LIQUOR AND HOLD OFFICERS

State and Treasury Officials Reported to Have Drafted New and Drastic Rules.

ENFORCEMENT IS IMMINENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The seizure of foreign ships bringing liquor in excess of the medical supply into American waters and the arrest of the vessels' officers is seriously being contemplated by the Administration if the practice continues.

At a conference today between S. Parker Gilbert Jr., acting Secretary of the Treasury and Secretary Hughes, it is understood, regulations prescribing these penalties, were approved with the idea of holding them for use in case ships continue to come from abroad during July with liquor for beverage purposes, whether sealed or unsealed.

This drastic step, it was said, would be made necessary by the deliberate, continued and increasing practice of foreign ships of bringing beverage liquors into the Port of New York. And the application of the penalty, it was stated, if the necessity for it was not promptly ended, was near at hand.

In one quarter it was said that the regulation would be made public through notification to foreign Governments that ships violating the Volstead law would be subject to seizure, but, on the other hand, it was strongly indicated that the Government, while within its legal rights in seizing ships if it found this necessary, would refrain from doing so unless forced to this course.

For the present, at least, it was ascertained in a high quarter, customs officers will continue to seize the beverage liquor under seal and let it go at that. It may be that, heeding today's warning, the foreign steamship lines will desist from the practice and will make test cases in court of the protests entered by the Captains of various ships, including the Berengaria and the Baltic. Assistant Secretary Moss received the protest of the Berengaria's Captain today and forwarded it to Secretary Hughes.

Expect Protests Will Be Dropped.

If the lines discontinue importation of liquors barred by the law, it is probable that nothing more will be done. But it was made plain this afternoon that if the steamship companies continued this practise, they would suffer the penalties indicated.

There seems a doubt in the minds of officials whether the lines will after all, go to court with their protests. There appeared to be a belief that the companies were undertaking a policy of irritation in the hope of breaking down the operation of the Volstead law. If officials are convinced that this is true, foreign steamship companies may expect a determined and immediate reply.

The Administration does not believe that foreign Governments are backing the moves of the steamship companies. Expressions from prominent Englishmen show conclusively that the steps taken by the Cunard line have not received Downing Street's approval, it was stated here today.

Conferences were held today between Mr. Gilbert, McKenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary in charge of customs, David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, James E. Jones, Assistant Prohibition Commissioner and J. J. Britt, counsel for the prohibition unit, and the question of seizure was thoroughly discussed.

It was said later that while some of the prohibition officials were inclined toward seizure of the ships, it was urged that this course should not be undertaken unless it became necessary. Representatives of the State Department who participated in some of the conferences were not enthusiastic over making such seizures, it was said.

Believe Mellon Indicated Step.

Secretary Mellon, who has not been in favor of such seizures, has gone abroad. It seems assured, however, that if Mr. Mellon were here, he would not condone continued violations by the steamship lines, and it was believed here tonight that he had probably indicated further necessary steps before he sailed.

Provisions of the Volstead act were quoted today, where they said that while officials had discretion in administering its penalties, yet when illegally transported liquor is seized the officer "shall take possession of the vehicle and train or automobile, boat, air or water craft, or any other conveyance, and shall arrest any person in charge thereof."

Pinchot to Name Only 'Drys' For Office in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 27.—Governor Pinchot, in a statement today, declared that no one would be appointed to any position under his administration who would not give his word of honor that through his term of office he "will support, defend and personally obey the Constitution of the United States, including the Eighteenth Amendment and the national and State laws enacted to carry that amendment into effect."

Governor Pinchot quoted from his inaugural address in which he said:

"I shall expect and demand from every public servant appointed by me or subject to removal by me, from the highest to the lowest, entire and ungrudging obedience to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law. They are part of the law of the land.

UNIONS APPROVED BY W. K. VANDERBILT

WITNESS AT STRIKE HEARING

William K. Vanderbilt approved the recognition of labor unions when he appeared at a hearing yesterday before State Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag at the Labor Department's office, 124 East Twenty-eighth Street. Mr. Vanderbilt testified as a Director of the New York Central and the Schenectady Railway, whose surface line employes have been on strike since May 16, and in which the New York Central has a half interest with the Delaware & Hudson. He was examined for three-quarters of an hour by Commissioner Shientag, Deputy Attorney General Martin Murray and James P. Boyle, counsel for Local 576 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railways. In contrast to the famous statement of his grandfather, William H. Vanderbilt, "The public be damned," Mr. Vanderbilt declared that the public interest must at all times be regarded.

In view of the attitude taken by the Directors of the Schenectady road in refusing to meet a committee of the striking employes, Mr. Vanderbilt was asked if he did not favor having this matter taken up by the board. Such a move, said Mr. Vanderbilt, might place the officers of the road in an embarrassing position.

Public Satisfaction Vital.

"We are not particularly concerned about the embarrassing of your officials," replied Deputy Attorney General Murray, appearing as legal adviser to Commissioner Shientag, "but we are concerned about the running of this railroad so that the public will be satisfied."

"That is the chief thing," Mr. Vanderbilt remarked.

Mr. Vanderbilt asserted he could not interfere at the present time in the controversy, but expressed as his personal opinion that the Directors should consider conferring with the strikers.

"I should say," declared Mr. Vanderbilt at this point, "that if the city officials and a citizens' committee ask that this matter be discussed before the Board of Directors, I don't see how the Board of Directors could refuse to consider it. I serve on the board, and I feel it certainly should be brought to its attention."

Since the 375 employes left their jobs, the Industrial Commissioner has held three hearings in Schenectady. Yesterday's was the first in New York. After a hearing tomorrow Commissioner Shientag will report to Governor Smith.

Differences of Officials.

When Mr. Vanderbilt was called to the stand his attention was called to the difference of opinion in regard to arbitration between James F. Hamilton, Vice President of the Schenectady lines, who favors collective bargaining, and Harry B. Weatherwax, the President, who opposes arbitration. Mr. Hamilton represents the New York Central, Mr. Weatherwax the Delaware & Hudson, and there are six Directors of each railroad on the Schenectady board.

"How do you feel about this controversy between the officials and the employes?" asked Mr. Shientag.

"Of course, it is a very disagreeable one for the employes and the company," Mr. Vanderbilt replied. "It is one that I would like to see settled as soon as possible. As I understand it, the employes were getting wages and the hours they wanted and this was a question of recognition of the union. And from all I know we have always gotten along very well, and then there came a misunderstanding with the leaders."

Vanderbilt Favors Unions.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, has been seriously ill from diabetes but is said by his physicians to have shown great improvement under the administration of insulin, the new remedy recently developed in Canada.

Unknown to any but his most intimate friends, Mr. Lansing has suffered from diabetes for several years and has confined himself to a severe diet, which resulted in a state of great physical debility. Six weeks ago he entered a hospital and under the care of Dr. Sterling Ruffin of Washington received the insulin treatment. He responded at once, it is said, and after he left the hospital continued the treatment at his residence here.

Not only has he gained greatly in flesh and in strength, but his dietary restrictions have been completely removed, so that now he is permitted to eat as much as he desires of all varieties of food. When he started last week for his Summer home at Watertown, N. Y., he was said to have appeared to be well on the road to complete recovery.

Miss Elizabeth Hughes, daughter of the Secretary of State, has also been taking insulin treatment for diabetes and is said to be practically cured.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lansing are at their Summer cottage, Henderson Harbor, where Mr. Lansing is enjoying bass fishing daily. They arrived late Friday by motor from Washington, having left the capital Wednesday. It was not known here, even by near relatives, that Mr. Lansing had suffered from diabetes although it was known he was not in best of health.

ENRIGHT POORER BY $10,000, HE SAYS, THAN 2 YEARS AGO

TESTIFIES IN GRAFT INQUIRY

COURT GETS POLICE FILES

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright furnished a climax to a day replete with important developments in Judge Thomas C. T. Crain's inquiry into the police graft charges and counter-charges when he took the witness stand yesterday afternoon. He submitted to a searching examination as to his property and income.

The Police Commissioner's appearance as a voluntary witness in the proceedings—which he himself instituted as a result of the publication of a telegram from Assemblyman Cuvillier to Magistrate Corrigan referring to "Enright and his graft collectors" came in the midst of the defense's presentation of evidence by which Magistrate Corrigan's counsel, John D. Lindsay, declared he expected to justify the alleged libel. Judge Crain suggested during the noon recess that the Commissioner consent to be examined by the Court and Mr. Enright immediately agreed to it.

Calm and self-possessed, the Police Commissioner answered every question which Judge Crain put to him, supplying figures and asserting that wherever possible he would produce records. The first part of the questions related to the Police Commissioner's property and income on April 4, 1921—the time the Mullan-Gage law went into effect, the second the property and income on April 22, 1923, the date of the telegram on which the libel charge is based.

Poorer Now Than Two Years Ago.

Mr. Enright's replies were to the effect that he is poorer now than he was two years ago by at least $10,000, of which $9,000 represents decreased value of stocks. The personal property which he said he owned April 4, 1921, totaled $29,300, according to his testimony. The only realty he owned, he said, was a farm in Steuben County, which was his father's and which rents for $300. Mrs. Enright, he testified, owns the house at 892 St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn, where he lives.

The personal property in 1921 accounted for in his replies to Judge Crain included: Bonds, $4,000; mortgages, $9,300; bank deposits, $5,000; stocks, $10,000; loan, $2,000; other personalty, $2,000. His stock was now worth only $1,000, he declared, and his bank deposits, he testified, were "not more than $2,000."

Replying to a question submitted by Mr. Lindsay as to whether he had received "directly or indirectly, any money from any person connected with the police force," Commissioner Enright, raising his voice for the only time during the examination, flashed back an emphatic "No!"

Other developments which had come earlier in the session included a decision by the Appellate Division sustaining Judge Crain's subpoena of police records asked for by the defense and opposed by the Corporation Counsel; a resultant widening of the scope of the inquiry by Judge Crain to include evidence which might prove "excusability" on the part of Magistrate Corrigan in the publication of the telegram; the producing by the Assistant United States Attorney of a transcript of the testimony at Chief Inspector Lahey's inquiry into alleged bootlegging charges against former Inspector Thor, Inspector O'Brien, Inspector O'Connor and Detectives Morrison and Lambert; and the repeated assertion of police witnesses in the face of the transcript that it was not the official one and did not correctly represent the testimony.

The announcement when the court convened yesterday afternoon that Commissioner Enright would take the stand created a stir in the court room. It developed that during the recess Judge Crain had summoned Mr. Enright and his counsel, Irving Gordon, and had suggested the step at that time.

"Although it would tend to put the complainant in the public gaze as a defendant," said Assistant District Attorney Pecora when the session opened, "without the slightest hesitation he indicated his willingness to adopt your Honor's suggestion. He is ready to be examined so far as his present facilities may enable him. Any questions which he is unable to answer now he will answer at a future hearing after refreshing his memory from documents. I hope that the gentlemen of the press will extend to the complainant every element of fairness, and that a fair report will be made by the press."

The "Common Sense Way."

Judge Crain then added:

"Commissioner Enright has taken the stand at the Court's suggestion, which is made as the outcome of considerable thought, and he will be interrogated by the Court solely respecting his property interests. This appears to be a common sense way in which to reach a conclusion as to whether the complainant has profited in property or money in connection with the enforcement or non-enforcement of the Mullan-Gage law."

"I believe that after the examination a substantial adjournment should be taken to permit the defendant to investigate the statements and verify them if correct or controvert them if incorrect."

"This suggestion was made with the consciousness that the proceeding was unusual and with the view of letting the complainant adopt the suggestion or not."

"I am going to examine [illegible] as fully as I can," continued Judge Crain, [illegible]

the Commissioner. "I shall press not to embarrass you. My first question will be as to what you owned April 4, 1921."

Q.—What property did you own on April 4, 1921? A.—In my own name? I was the owner of a farm in Campbell, Steuben County, this State. It was my father's birthplace.

Q.—Was it unencumbered? A.—At that time there was a mortgage of $600 on it, I think.

Q.—That was the only piece of real estate you owned? A.—That was all.

Q.—Were you in possession of any leaseholds? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Were you the owner of any bonds—or us take them in order—any city bonds? A.—None.

Q.—Any bonds issued by any State? A.—None.

Q.—Any bonds of the United States? A.—Possibly $3,000 or $4,000 in Liberty bonds.

Q.—Will you have the kindness to give me the next time you come to the witness stand the amount of Government bonds you owned on that day? Did you own any bonds of any foreign countries? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Were you the owner on that day of any mortgage on any property? A.—A mortgage of $2,500, on property owned by a friend of mine in the Detective Bureau.

Stocks "Mostly No Good."

Q.—Were you the owner of any stocks on that date? A.—Yes, some stock of a par value—

Q.—In answering these questions carry your mind back to April 4, 1921, if you can. You were the owner of some stocks? A.—Yes, mostly no good.

Q.—When you come again will you give us a list of whatever stocks you owned on April 4, 1921? A.—I will.

Q.—On April 4, 1921, were you a depositor in any bank? A.—One bank—the Mechanics Bank.

Q.—That was the only bank account you had at that time? A.—I'm very sure that it was the only one at that time.

Q.—Did you have any deposit in any trust company? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you have a deposit in any savings bank? A.—I did not.

Q.—Will you have the kindness before you come again to ascertain your bank balance of April 4, 1921? A.—I'll bring my bank book and show it to you, but I can say it was less than $3,000.

Q.—Did you own any household furniture? A.—No, not directly. The house I live in belongs to my wife.

Q.—Did you have any account with any banking or brokerage house? A.—No.

Q.—What other property, if any, do you now recall having owned on April 4, 1921? A.—A little personal property valued at not more than $2,000.

Q.—Will you please bring a statement of your stock? A.—Yes, of course. At the lowest guess my stocks weren't worth over $3,000. They wouldn't liquidate today for more than $1,000.

Q.—What was your salary then? A.—$7,000—it had not since been raised.

Q.—Were you in receipt of any dividends from stocks between April 4, 1921, and April 22, 1923? A.—No. I may have had a small number of coupons from Liberty bonds.

Q.—Were you the recipient of any rents? A.—Yes; the rent from my farm, $800 a year.

Q.—Were you in receipt of any mortgage interest? A.—Yes; from my $2,500 mortgage.

Lent $3,000 to a Friend.

Q.—Had you any other sources of income between April 4, 1921, and April 22, 1923? A.—No other income except some money I had loaned—$3,000—to a friend of mine in the confectionery business in Nyack. He paid it back in instalments and I may have received some of them during that period.

Q.—I would like you to prepare and submit to me two statements—one showing your property as of April 4, 1921, and the other a statement of income from all sources during the time that period. In the interval I have named, did you become the owner of any real estate? A.—I did not.

Q.—Any leasehold? A.—No.

Q.—Did you become the owner of any interest in bonds during that time? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Did you become the owner of any stock in addition to that owned April 4, 1921? A.—I do not think so.

Q.—Are you a depositor in the same bank now? A.—Yes.

Q.—Will you ascertain your bank balance on April 22, 1923? A.—I will, but it was more than $2,000.

Q.—Did you have any in any trust company, saving bank or brokerage house on April 22? A.—None.

Q.—Did you acquire the ownership of a house, furniture, &c.? A.—None. My wife owns it.

Q.—Did you have any other property than jewelry or personal wearing apparel on April 22, 1923, other than what you had on April 4, 1921? A.—I don't think so—no increase of any kind.

Judge Crain then asked Mr. Pecora and Mr. Lindsay to submit in writing any question which they wished to have the Commissioner answer.

Has Received No Presents.

Mr. Pecora submitted this question: "Have you been the recipient of any present in the form of money during the period named?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

Mr. Lindsay submitted this question: "Between April 4, 1921, and April 22, 1923, did you receive directly or indirectly any money from any person connected with the municipal police or your subordinates, including the uniformed force?"

"No, sir," declared Mr. Enright emphatically.

"Directly or indirectly?" added Judge Crain.

"No, sir," the Commissioner reiterated.

Q.—What is the address of the house which you own, belongs to your wife? A.—167 St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn.

Q.—When did she become the owner? A.—In the Fall of 1919.

Q.—Would you be willing to supply the Court with copies of your income tax returns for 1921 and 1922? A.—I don't think I have any copies, your Honor. I may have a copy of my State return.

Q.—What is the name of the man in Nyack whom you loaned $3,000? A.—William F. Campbell.

Q.—Is there any individual now who holds any money in trust for you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Is there anything that comes to your mind that you would like to say here that I have embraced in my questions? A.—I think you have covered it fully. It is a simple story.

The Commissioner was then excused until this morning. He promised to make an effort in the meantime to get the data which Judge Crain asked him to submit.

The announcement that Judge Crain's subpoena for the police records had been sustained by the Appellate Division was made as soon as Judge Crain had taken his place on the bench yesterday morning. The proceeding before the Appellate Division was an appeal from a decision by Justice Wasservogel denying the Corporation Counsel's motion to quash the subpoena.

The Appellate Division's action was a notification to the parties interested that they had affirmed Judge Crain's action. No opinion accompanied it.

The records called for, which Mr. Lindsay at each of the last few sessions of the inquiry had asserted were necessary for further presentation of evidence in Magistrate Corrigan's defense, concerned all complaints received by the Police Department in relation to non-enforcement of the Mullan-Gage law and the alleged taking of bootleg graft by the police.

Records Given to Court.

Judge Crain notified Grant Crabtree, chief clerk of the Police Department, who was present as a witness, to produce the records. Mr. Crabtree turned over to Judge Crain a batch of documents, which, he said, comprised all the records that he had been able to find.

"We want just as much light on these matters as we can get," said Judge Crain.

Martin Dolphin, Assistant Corporation Counsel attached to Police Headquarters, during an argument with respect to the nature of the documents to be produced, said: "Day after day it has been stated publicly in this court before a jury of newspaper men that witnesses have been threatened by members of the police force. When the counsel for the defense made this statement he knew it to be unfair and untrue."

"I am trying to conduct this hearing as unsensational a way as possible," said Judge Crain.

"I do not offer the slightest objection to the introduction of evidence of graft on the part of the Police Commissioner," said Assistant District Attorney Pecora. "But I do not believe your Honor should receive evidence of dereliction on the part of individual officers unless it is connected with the Commissioner himself."

"It may be," replied Judge Crain, "that there will be a judicial review of the determinations which shall eventually be reached by this Court. In the light of this the defendant should be allowed to introduce evidence, which he may regard as competent, of graft collection such as it might be reasonable to suppose the Commissioner was involved in and the alleged libel is excusable."

Mr. Pecora protested that there should be a statement by Mr. Lindsay as to whether his defense was on the ground that the statements in the telegram were true and therefore "justifiable" or whether the defense was "excusable publication."

John Holley Clark, Assistant United States District Attorney, appeared as a witness on a subpœna duces tecum and brought with him the record of the inquiry before Inspector Lahey which has been occasion for a great deal of testimony during the investigation. Inspector Lahey and other officials had declared that so far as they knew no record of the inquiry existed. It developed that when Mr. Lindsay examined a number of witnesses with regard to the inquiry he had read the transcript which Mr. Clark produced.

Truck Driver's Liquor Story.

The inquiry related to the alleged story of a truck driver who was stopped by two detectives in May, 1921, that he was "riding" liquor for Alfred W. Thor, then Chief of the Staff of the Inspectors' Bureau; Inspector John O'Brien and Inspector John O'Connor, and that Detectives Lambert and Morrison had accepted a $2,500 bribe in connection with the same incident.

Mr. Clark said that he had obtained the transcript from Deputy Commissioner John A. Leach. "I had heard," he said, "that there was some hearing in which Inspector Thor was implicated. I talked with Inspector Lahey about it and he said that he remembered the circumstances and added that it didn't amount to much.

"I had heard that Inspector Thor had resigned under fire. At the time I was investigating a man named Shevlin, a bootlegger, who was supposed to be associated with him—George J. Shevlin."

Mr. Clark said that about a month ago Mr. Lindsay had gone to the United States Attorney's office and had talked with Colonel Hayward, adding: "Colonel Hayward sent him to, saying that he saw no objection to letting him see anything he had." Mr. Clark added that Mr. Lindsay had known of the Thor case.

"Did Commissioner Leach give you the document willingly?" Mr. Clark asked.

"He hesitated about it. He said that Inspector Thor was a great friend of Commissioner Enright's. The next day he called me up and said that Commissioner Enright had said we could have anything he had."

"Did the United States Attorney take any action?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"He did not think the evidence sufficient to take before the Grand Jury."

William J. McCahill, a police stenographer, admitted that he took the record of the testimony before Inspector Lahey. That was all he did admit, however. When shown the copy of the record which Mr. Clark had obtained from Commissioner Leach, he declared he did not recognize it as one he made.

"This doesn't look like my work," he said.

"Do you say the form of the caption is one that you never use?" asked Judge Crain.

"Yes."

"No."

"Do you use paper like this?"

"I can say I never did use paper like this."

"How about the fastenings, are they the kind you usually use?"

"No, I generally use clips."

Inspector O'Brien was also called as a witness and confronted with the record. He admitted that he had been questioned before Inspector Lahey with regard to persons involved in the Thor incident, but said that he did not know that there was any charge that some one was "riding" liquor for him. Mr. Lindsay asked him to look at the record and say if he did not recall that his testimony had been as recorded. He replied that he did not. In fact, he declared, his examination was nothing like that shown by the record.

Reading the record, question by question, Mr. Lindsay asked the Inspector if he did not remember answering in such and such words. The Inspector replied that only did he not remember it, but that he was certain he never said anything of the kind. If he had been asked the questions shown, he said, his answers would have been about as the record showed. He declared that he never said that the charge of liquor "riding" was "a monstrous lie," but that would be the right way to characterize it.

Mrs. Margaret Lazzara, of 329 East Twelfth Street, was called by the defense. She testified that she was the widow of Joseph Lazzara, who was shot and killed by Jeremiah Haggerty, formerly a detective, on Gun Hill Road, the Bronx, Aug. 15, 1921. She said that Haggerty had pleaded guilty to second degree murder and had been sentenced to serve from twenty years to life in Sing Sing.

Mr. Lindsay said after the proceedings that Lazzara's murder had followed a complaint of bribery against Haggerty. The detective, it was said, had been tried and dismissed from the force before the killing.

The hearing will be resumed at 10:30 this morning.

TWO DETECTIVES TO BE TRIED.

Indicted for Assaulting Ex-Service Men—Policeman Fined.

Martin Price and James A. Butler, detectives of the Special Service Squad of Police Headquarters, were held in $2,500 bail each yesterday by Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions, on indictments returned Tuesday charging them with assault. The indictments were the result of an inquiry into charges brought by members of James J. Foley Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, through Louis A. Cuvillier.

Patrolman Alfred Wabo of the West New Brighton Station, Staten Island, who had been found guilty in Special Sessions of assaulting Thomas McDermott of New Brighton, on April 22, was fined $25 yesterday by Justices Herrman, McInesy and Murphy. McDermott said that Wabo had clubbed him when he protested against the treatment of an aged prisoner.

The fine, with an alternative of five days in jail, was imposed after a probation officer had testified that Wabo's previous record was good, that McDermott had figured in several other altercations with policemen. Wabo paid the fine.

NAVY YARD PAY RAISED.

Washington Thinks 10 Per Cent. Rise May Mean a Cut in Forces.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—An average of 10 per cent. over the prevailing schedule has been recommended by the Navy Wage Board in its report of a new scale for navy yard employes, effective July 1. It is understood that the report will be officially promulgated Saturday. Details of the changes as they will affect each yard have been sent to the commandants, who will make them public.

In view of the limitation on pay set by available appropriations, it was predicted at the department today that the increase recommended would necessitate a reduction in personnel at many of the shore stations.

Illinois Anti-Klan Bill is Law.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 27 (Associated Press).—The Anti-Ku Klux Klan bill today became a law by the Governor's approval. It makes it unlawful to appear in public places with evil or wicked purpose while hooded, robed or masked to conceal identity. It provides for penalties.

DRY LEAGUE MAY ASK ARMY AND NAVY AID

LAW 75 PER CENT. ENFORCED

Special to The New York Times.

WESTERVILLE, Ohio, June 27.—After receiving reports from State Superintendents indicating that in a number of States the Volstead act had become a dead letter through lack of adequate enforcement and that with prohibition in force for four years these Commonwealths, in some instances, were less than 50 per cent. "dry," the "council of war" of the Anti-Saloon League of America, in session here late this afternoon, was considering a proposal to call on the Federal Government to use the United States Navy and Army in a determined effort to block rum running on the two coasts and on the Canadian border line.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the League, said this afternoon after these reports were all in, that he would judge the United States, at the present time, was from 70 to 75 per cent. "dry." This was due, he said, almost entirely to the fact that in the large majority of States in the central part of the country, remote from the sources of supply, the percentage of "dryness" was as high as 90, 95 and in exceptional instances almost 100 per cent.

"I should say that in New York, for instance, which probably is the worst State when it comes to enforcement of the prohibition law, the percentage of law observance is less than 50 per cent. —considerably less."

The proposal to demand that the Government use the army and navy for enforcement will be thoroughly threshed out in the Committee on Resolutions of which Mr. Wheeler is Chairman and which probably will make its report tomorrow.

Mr. Wheeler is said to be strongly in favor of asking for the aid of the military and naval forces. The revulsion against prohibition which has been manifested of late in several provinces in Canada and which has resulted in the resumption in some sections of the traffic in liquor under Government auspices, as Mr. Wheeler sees it, has created the need for a blockade against rum running along the Canadian border from the Atlantic to the Pacific, far too extensive for the present prohibition agencies to maintain, even with the co-operation of the border States.

Another proposal advanced by Mr. Wheeler would call for action to extend the three-mile limit through Congressional action or undertakings by treaty with foreign nations. This proposal and another, calling upon the Federal Government to exercise its full powers under the Volstead law for protection against unlawful transportation of proscribed liquor on the part of foreign vessels within the territorial waters of the United States, and to seize vessels involved in such traffic has been the subject of considerable discussion in the Committee on Rules.

While many members expressed the view that extreme measures were justified, others urged caution on the ground that any action by the League might lead to propaganda which would seriously embarrass the Government and possibly endanger foreign relations.

Conditions in New York State following the repeal of the State prohibition law as outlined in a report made by Orville S. Poland, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of New York, were said to have weighed heavily in the decision to submit to the country the proposal for a demand on the Federal Government for use of its military and naval forces. Mr. Poland and Arthur J. Davis, regional directors of the New England district which includes New York, declared that bootlegging and rum running had assumed unusual proportions since the repeal.

Mr. Davis said that the New York-Montreal highway was no longer equal to the demand of the rum running traffic from the Canadian border to New York State. In a trip through New Hampshire which he had recently completed Mr. Davis found that the bulk of the liquor brought down from Canada over the main automobile traffic route through that State was diverted to meet the increasing demand in New York, while prior to repeal of the Mullan-Gage law nearly all the liquor coming in from Canada that way had gone to Boston and other industrial cities in Massachusetts.

"Bootlegging is still carried on to a considerable extent in Massachusetts, and that State will be a battleground for some time to come," said Mr. Davis. "I have no doubt that as a result of the repeal in New York State an attempt will be made by the 'wets' in Massachusetts to defeat the State enforcement code when it comes up on a referendum this fall for ratification. But the principal reaction in Massachusetts, as I see it, has been a feeling of satisfaction among Democrats of the better element, who realize that through his approval of the repeal bill 'Al' Smith has been eliminated as a Presidential candidate."

There was a touch of solemnity when, after the reports had been received all were called upon by the Rev. Purley A. Baker, National Superintendent and Chairman, to rise and with raised hands pledge themselves to consecrate their lives to defeat of the liquor forces.

One phase of the coming fight against the "wets" will be a moving picture campaign illustrating the evils of drink and the methods of the league. The first picture, "The Fatal Raid of Sheriff Kendall," was given tonight on the Otterbein University campus. The photoplay is based on real incident which ended with the killing of a sheriff and a clergyman, members of the league, in the course of a raid on moonshiners.

HOMERIC QUITS LIQUOR PLAN.

Liner Sails Without Home Trip Supply on Board.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 27 (Associated Press).—Despite great secrecy on the part of the White Star officials with regard to the liquor stores carried by the steamship Homeric, which left Southampton today for New York, it is unofficially stated that the company has abandoned its project of carrying sufficient liquors for the round trip, reverting to its original method of taking only sufficient stores for the outward run.

MAKE PLANS TO SEIZE SHIPS WITH LIQUOR

Legal proceedings must be begun against the arrested person and the confiscated carrier sold in case of a conviction.

It was indicated today that if seizures were begun, they would be actual and not technical; in other words, the liners would be held in American ports.

The outcome of the situation in New York is the key to the whole matter. Officials there will play a waiting game, unwilling to adopt drastic measures unless forced to do so, but entirely prepared if the need arises. If the steamship lines show respect for the American law, all will be peaceful, but if the practice of importing the barred liquors keeps up, the Treasury Department will move decisively.

WASHINGTON, June 27 (Associated Press).—The Government today prepared to take the extreme step, in enforcing the Supreme Court ban against liquor imports, of seizing ships which bring in intoxicating beverages, whether in cargo or under foreign governments' customs seals.

At a series of conferences of officials today a new Treasury regulation was reported to have been drafted, providing for additional directions to customs officers to seize all vessels found bringing in beverage liquors, even under foreign customs seals, after adequate notice to foreign governments of the new and more drastic policy. The instructions also would provide for the arrest of the Captains.

It was stated that an official statement of the ship seizure policy might be expected in a "very few days."

One official said that the foreign shipowners bringing in intoxicants under seal apparently desired to "test the nerve" rather than the law of the United States and had found neither impotent.

Virtually all of the participants in the conferences were said to have agreed that the law was explicit as to seizures and left officials no option but that of rigorous enforcement.

State Department officials were said to have been brought to this opinion with difficulty, because of their reluctance to take such a drastic step. It was contended, however, by those favoring the plan that foreign citizens should not be treated with more leniency than Americans.

CANADIAN DECLARES OUR DRY OFFICERS LAX

TORONTO, June 27.—Laxity on the part of prohibition enforcement agents in the Detroit district in fighting the beer smugglers was charged today by Chairman James Hales of the Ontario Bureau of License Commissioners, when informed that the owner of a 94-foot launch anchored in Canadian waters was taking advantage of Dominion export laws to sell many cargoes of the beverage.

"I think the precautions this launch owner is taking in remaining in Canadian waters under the cloak of our exports laws are unnecessary," Mr. Hales said. "My officers report to me that many boatloads of beer are being transported across the Detroit River into the United States in broad daylight.

"I am convinced, from what my officers report, that the American officers in the Detroit district could stop most of the beer running if they tried. Our provincial officers have become discouraged in trying to co-operate against the smuggling since the American officers apparently put forth such little effort."

PREDICTS 5 PER CENT. BEER.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 27.—United States Senator Couzens came out today for 5 per cent. beer and predicted that a definition by the next Congress of the term "intoxicating beverages" in the Volstead act would allow the sale of such a beverage.

"From my contract with members of Congress, I believe there is a large number of the members, not yet a majority, who favor the raising of the alcoholic content of beer from one-half of 1 per cent to as high as 5 per cent.," said Senator Couzens. "It is not likely action will be taken by the present Congress. Some members, including myself, believe the Volstead act with its strict interpretation of intoxicating liquor, was "put over" on the people during the fever heat of wartime patriotism, and that in its present form it could never be passed at this time.

"Under no conditions would I approve of modifying the act to legalize the manufacture and sale of whiskey. It would also be inadvisable, I believe, for Congress to place the alcoholic content so high as to allow the sale of wine."

Raid Old Marlborough Grill.

The Royal Grill, once known as the Marlborough Grill, in the basement of the Marlborough Hotel, Thirty-sixth Street and Broadway, was raided early today by prohibition agents. Three alleged proprietors, Robert Clifford, Charles Cormell and James Costello, were locked up. Two quarts of Scotch whisky were found in the kitchen.

Stokes Declines Liquor Debate.

TRENTON, N. J., June 27.—Former Governor Edward C. Stokes today declined the challenge of the Rev. James K. Shields, Superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, to debate the liquor question with him at Ocean Grove. He said that Mr. Shields did not want law enforcement but agitation, and that enforcement would mean the loss of jobs to both Mr. Shields and bootleggers.

CHICAGO DOCTOR FORMS CLUB TO BOOM FORD

Clark Maintains That He Has Semiofficial Encouragement From His Candidate.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Active campaigning for Henry Ford for the Presidency has been launched here with the formation of a Ford-for-President Club and the circulation of petitions whose aim is to put the Detroit automobile manufacturer in the 1924 race.

Dr. P. L. Clark is chief organizer and temporary President of the Chicago Ford boomers. Temporary headquarters of the club have been established in his offices. He had petitions for the Ford candidacy printed after a pilgrimage to Dearborn, Mich., where he conferred with a number of Mr. Ford's confidential aids. He expects to report encouraging progress in the Chicago campaign for Ford at the national round-up of Ford-for-President clubs, to be held at Dearborn next month.

"In my judgment," says Dr. Clark, "neither of the big political parties will nominate Ford, but he will be a candidate just the same. Henry's friends will vote for him whether he is a candidate of the Republicans, the Democrats or runs as an independent. And he has enough friends to put him in the White House regardless of the professional politicians."

In proof of his contention that the Ford campaign was receiving at least semiofficial encouragement, Dr. Clark showed a telegram just received from one of Mr. Ford's chief aids. It was in response to one from Dr. Clark asking whether newspaper reports that the Ford boom had Mr. Ford's sanction were correct.

The telegram read:

"Believe newspapers are rushing matters. Mr. Ford has never refused nor has he agreed to be a candidate, although his name has been used without objection by persons all over the United States."

union, does he not?" Mr. Vanderbilt was asked.

"Yes."

"And Mr. Weatherwax, representing the Delaware & Hudson, takes the opposite position?"

"I don't know about Mr. Weatherwax and Hamilton, but I know I am in favor of the unions."

At this point Mr. Boyle, representing the strikers, took up the questioning. Mr. Boyle told Mrs. Vanderbilt that cars were running up and down in Schenectady, without even stopping to see if any one wants to get on, and that last week, with Barnum & Bailey's circus in the city, only four passengers were seen riding in the street cars, despite the fact that 20,000 more persons were drawn to the city." He asked Mr. Vanderbilt if he still thought the strike was over in view of these statements and Mr. Vanderbilt replied he "certainly would not."

"Don't you, as a Director of the street railway, consider its duty to the public an important factor?" asked Mr. Boyle.

"Absolutely," said Mr. Vanderbilt.

"Do you know," asked Mr. Boyle, "that among the majority of workmen there are certain beliefs with regard to their rights to deal collectively? I think you approve of the idea in general."

"Yes," replied Mr. Vanderbilt. "I do."

Here Mr. Williams stated that as far as he was concerned there could be no settlement except the application of the individual applying to return to work."

Mr. Boyle explained.

"Has the Board of Directors refused to discuss this question?" asked Mr. Vanderbilt.

Mr. Boyle replied that at the last hearing of the commission, it was brought out that Schenectady city officials and a citizens' committee had asked the Board of Directors to consider the proposition, but they had not done so up to that time.

Mr. Vanderbilt was then asked if he did not believe an independent investigation of the strike situation should be made by some one, not closely affiliated with the employers or employes.

"I feel myself at this stage of the game," replied Mr. Vanderbilt, "you have got to stand by your officers in this matter. If this matter would be brought up by a citizens' committee and ask for a hearing of the Board, and so forth, I would feel the duty of the board to come together and discuss it. But so far as having confidence in the officers is concerned, I still have confidence in them."

"Is there some way for the board to meet with Mr. Shientag for the purpose of bringing to their attention the present situation?" asked Mr. Murray.

"Mr. Shientag got us all down here," replied the witness. "Furthermore, you can get more information out of us here than you would at a Directors' meeting."

"But," interjected Mr. Shientag, "I am not getting action."

"Is there any way we can get this board together in a room and discuss this matter?" asked Mr. Murray.

"You can get me at any time to discuss it," answered Mr. Vanderbilt. "I feel it is the duty of the Board of Directors to see what it can do."

AMERICAN LINER CAME ACROSS WET

POUR BEER INTO OCEAN

Contents of Three Casks Vanish Down Scuppers as Ship Nears Our Coast.

When the American liner Finland arrived yesterday with passengers and mails form Hamburg it became known that passengers on American steamships are being allowed to use liquor on the voyage if they order it in advance on the other side. The ships can also carry a certain quantity as medical stores, which puts them on the same footing as the foreign flag liners, except that they cannot bring the so-called "wet stores" into the three-mile limit along the coast of the United States.

Late Tuesday afternoon when Surgeon Patrick S. Burns started to check up the liquors on the Finland with Chief Steward Charles Matthews it was discovered that there were three casks of good German beer which were needed for the health of te crew but could not be classified under te heading of medical supplies on an American ship. The list was made out later in the evening and 80 bottles of brandy and 75 bottles of claret were placed under seal by Dr. Burns to fill the medical requirements for passengers and crew on the east-bound passage, when the ship is expected to be full.

After a consultation between the purser, L. J. Gallagher, the surgeon and the chief steward it was decided to take the three casks of beer on deck after it was dark and pour their contents down the lee scuppers as the casks were worth more than the liquor in Hamburg and had to be returned. The sad task was confided to the stalwart sailors in the watch on deck from 8 to 12 on Tuesday night and was successfully carried out according to instructions. The bungs were knocked out one after another by the storekeeper and the beer flowed into the sea between Nantucket Lightship and Sandy Hook. In addition to being necessary for the health of the crew in hot weather the German beer is needed for the third class passengers, it was said, who are subject to sinking spells at sea that can only be alleviated by draughts of cold lager beer at regular intervals.

When the decision of the United States Supreme Court was handed down in Washington recently the vessels under the American flag were given the same privilege as foreign ships outside the three-mile limit. The fact that this had been taken advantage of by American steamship lines in the passenger carrying trade was not made known until the Finland arrived yesterday with the report of the beer having been poured overboard outside Sandy Hook.

The White Star liner Olympic arrived yesterday from Cherbourg and Southampton with liquor supplies under the British Customs seal for the homeward voyage. According to J. A. Shepherd, the purser, the Olympic had listed as medicinal stores on her manifest, 130 gallons of spirits, 194 gallons of wine, 11 gallons of various liquors and 3,336 bottles of ale and stout. Very little liquor was actually sold at the bars on the voyage over in the first class as the passengers, it was said, had ordered the wines, spirits, &c., before leaving Southhampton or Cherbourg. Some overestimated their capacity, the stewards said, and after 11 o'clock Tuesday night as the liner was approaching Atlantic Highlands they went on deck and threw the remainder of their stock overboard. The wine thrown away included several bottles of champagne, the stewards said.

The French liner Chicago brought under seal of the Customs from Havre, 1,198 bottles of ordinary wine, 727 bottles of fine wines, 503 quarts of champagne, 90 bottles of cognac, 52 bottles of gin, 85 bottles of rum, 142 bottles of whiskey, 113 bottles of liqueurs and 64 bottles of beer.

Dr. E. K. Sprague will attend to these two liners after he has decided what quantity the Conte Verde and the Providence can carry as medical stores today.

Deputy Surveyor James F. Curran, in charge of the Chelsea District after receiving instructions from Dr. Sprague, went on board the Cunarder Caronia yesterday at pier 56 North River and seized 21 gallons of wine, 11 gallons of spirits and 1,100 bottles of beer which was placed in trucks and taken to the Knickerbocker bonded warehouse on First Avenue. The Deputy Surveyor then went to the French liner Guiena at pier 57 North River and removed several casks of crew wine and 24 bottles of brandy which were taken to the same warehouse. There was no ceremony in affixing seals when the casks, to which the British and French seals were attached, were cut. No notice had been received yesterday from the head offices of the steamship companies on the other side in regard to any legal action to make a test case over the seizure of the liquors on the Baltic, Berengaria or the Paris, it was said.

10 YEARS FOR BANK FRAUD.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Convicted on five indictments for fraud, Charles R. Kirk of Englewood, N. J., employe of the Chase National Bank of New York, was sentenced today by Judge Barratt to ten years in prison.

While employed as assistant auditor, Kirk learned that Robert P. Lister of Newark had $23,000 on deposit. The account had been inactive for fifteen years.

He opened an account here at the Producers' & Consumers' Bank by depositing $100 in the name of N. M. Munn and soon afterward the bank received four checks, purporting to be drawn by R. P. Lister to the order of N. M. Munn, for a total of $20,000. Soon afterward he presented checks for the payment of cash, totalling $20,100, to N. M. Munn. This left Kirk in possession of the money, but with the bank holding the forged checks.

Last February when Kirk, who had left the bank, had been all but forgotten the heal Mr. Lister asked for a statement, and protested when the balance was shown as $3,000 instead of $23,000.

LIMIT ON AIR FLEETS FAVORED BY FRENCH

Provided It Is Applied Now and in Proportion to the Nations' Existing Strength.

FRANCE WOULD BE SUPREME

Meanwhile British Pacifists and Militarists Alike Attack Baldwin's Plans.

BY EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 27.—Paris receives kindly and confidently Prime Minister Baldwin's proposal for limitation of air armaments on lines similar to the treaty at Washington in the case of the navy. But competent observers here say undoubtedly the French put a meaning on his words he did not intend and would not subscribe to. For the French argue that if air armaments are limited as naval armaments were the race will halt just where it is and apportionment will be applied in proportion to existing strength.

With an air force much greater than any other nation, or any other two nations, such an arrangement would assure to France air supremacy for an indefinite time and give her over England an advantage in airplanes about comparable to the supremacy in capital ship tonnage the Washington Treaty gave England over France.

Their argument is this:

"At Washington Mr. Hughes proposed that the race in battleships stop where it was and that the standing of the nations' battleship fleets should be fixed on the basis of where they stood in November, 1921. That worked against France because during the war, while England, America and Japan were building ships as the best way to serve the common cause, France made munitions for all the allies because that was how she could best serve the common cause.

Caught in Unfair Position.

"France was caught unfairly with her battleship tonnage at low ebb and Hughes, Balfour and Kato, shut in a room without Frenchmen present, decided the common rule should apply to us.

"Now it is proposed to limit air strength. If the Washington rule was good for battleships, let it apply now for airplanes. Let the wasteful race stop where it is. This time it is not America and England but France which has the advantage. Don't we deserve to profit by it? Americans spend money to build battleships and their fleet now equals England when once it was vastly inferior. France has spent money to build airplanes and isn't she entitled to reap the benefit of her standing? There is as much justice in our contention as in Mr. Hughes's limitation of battleships."

That is the French case. They do not believe their ideas will be accepted by England, but they say they certainly will not stand until England outstrips them and then proposes fixation on the basis of existing strength. France has now about 124 squadrons, approximately 1,400 military airplanes, and she is constantly experimenting, with the result that perhaps there is more study of air development in France than in any other nation. French military experts look forward to a great role for aviation in the next war and that explains why they are working so hard at it and are so anxious to retard Germany's air development.

It will be recalled that when the British delegates at the Washington conference intimated that French submarines were intended against England, M. Briand sarcastically replied that they were for studying flora and fauna at the bottom of the sea for the elucidation of French scientific societies. The French neatly turned the controversy today by asking to whom Premier Baldwin was referring if not to England's ally France when he said Great Britain must have an air force necessary to meet that of any other nation within striking distance. Paris points out that Germany has no air fleet and that now Russia is not dangerous, which leaves just France to whom Mr. Baldwin's remarks could have referred.

What the Press Thinks About It.

The press today gives great prominence to Britain's new air program, and while on the one hand writers see justification of the French policy of military defense, on the other they argue that France must try to keep abreast of England, if not ahead of her.

The Temps suggests that England and France at once get together in an air compact before entering into an airplane building race. The Temps does not suggest that France should reduce her air force to the level of England's as a start. The paper compares the new aviation expenditure of England with her project for a great naval base at Singapore, explaining that with Singapore it was a case of countering the naval strength of Japan, and asks:

"But when England turns her attention to her air force, what adversary or what rival has she in view? One may object that it is indiscreet to pose this question. That is a good suggestion for ostriches. Mr. Baldwin's explanation may apply one day to German aviation or to Russian aviation, but for the present it refers to French aviation.

"We have often recommended an air defense compact between France and England. We think this course would suit the interests of the two countries better than a race in airplane construction. Mr. Baldwin referred to a general treaty which might be negotiated for limitation of air armaments. That idea the Congress of the United States expressed last year. We do not know if this applies to a hard drawn line between military and commercial aviation. But in any case, before negotiating such a treaty, France and England should talk it over."

The Gaulois says:

"Thus we see a new race in armaments with attention focussed today on an arm which in the next conflict will be a decisive arm. There may be an agreement to prevent this contest. Mr. Baldwin referred to it yesterday, but he added it should be on the basis of the Washington treaty. If that means France must lose her rank of a great air power as she was forced to lose her right as a great sea power, the French people will never submit."

British Labor Against Big Air Force.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 27.—The question of an increase in the British Air Force is to be brought up at the Labor Party conference, which is now meeting in London. A number of delegates have filed the following emergency resolution, which probably will be moved at tomorrow's sitting:

That the proposed increase of the British Air Force in competition with France is the preface to a new era of war and the Labor Party calls upon the Parliamentary Labor Party to offer every resistance; declares that it is a crime against humanity to promote this new race of armaments within five years of the end of the last war, which the peoples of the world hoped was the beginning of an era of peace, and demands that an international conference should at once be called by Great Britain for the purpose of reducing and eventually abolishing by international agreement all air armaments.

The subject was brought up in the House of Commons today by a Dundee Labor Member, E. D. Morel, who asked whether before definitely committing the country to further heavy expenditure upon aerial war machines, and in order to prevent the development of international rivalry in air armaments, the Government would consider the advisability of inviting all the powers to a conference for the purpose of arriving at an agreement for international limitations of aerial warcraft construction.

The Home Secretary replied that the League of Nations Commission for the Reduction of Armaments was now considering the whole question of limitation of armaments, including air armaments. The Prime Minister was awaiting the result of these deliberations before taking any other steps.

LONDON, June 27 (Associated Press).—The Earl of Birkenhead in an address at Derby today declared that it ne understood the facts aright the Government's air force increase proposals would still leave England with 300 airplanes less than would be at the disposal of France. However, he accepted the Government's statement that if the present proposal did not prove adequate it would be rectified.

In the House of Commons today Home Secretary Bridgman, replying to a question, said that Great Britain would not delay carrying out the present aerial proposals until the League of Nations commission reported.

Dutch People Disappointed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 27.—Disappointment is felt here at the British Government's decision to increase its air fleet. Holland, which has always encouraged disarmament and was the first to resort to it after the great war, fears that a new period of acute competition in armaments is commencing, and after having had her hopes raised to such heights by the decisions taken at Washington now sees them dashed to the ground.

The Nieuwe Courant complains that the Washington conference appears to have had meagre results as far as disarmament is concerned; that one power has not even ratified the Washington treaty after a year and a half, and that in the meantime the powers which signed at Washington are increasing their expenditures as much as possible for all armaments which fall outside the Washington convention.

"America is increasing her fleet of small craft and France is building large numbers of submarines," it goes on. "England has just built a new cruiser surpassing all former sea monsters. Besides this a severe competition has commenced in the construction of aircraft, the weapon of the future, and France having set the example England must necessarily follow suit unless an agreement is reached with France, for which England has alerady paved the way by Mr. Baldwin's speech."

DEGOUTTE COUNTERS ORDER BY BERLIN

DUESSELDORF, June 27 (Associated Press).—The German bankers and money changers in the occupied area find themselves placed between two fires by the Berlin Government's order forbidding any but official bureaus to deal in foreign exchange and a new decree issued by General Degoutte today annulling this order in the Ruhr.

General Degoutte's decree forbids the German authorities to interfere with foreign exchange operations under a penalty of five years' imprisonment and a fine of 2,000,000,000 marks.

The decree asserts that the Berlin order would interfere with the provisioning of the forces of occupation and would be detrimental generally to the Franco-Belgian interests.

The Rhineland High Commission at Coblenz has likewise forbidden the enforcement of the Berlin order in the Rhineland.

The high price of coffee is driving economical persons to drink. Owing to the depreciation of the mark, coffee now costs 90 cents a pound, while excellent beer is still available at the equivalent of 2 cents for a large seidel.

Many persons are also developing into pedestrians, as the charge for a taxi has risen to 10 cents a kilometer. Beefsteak still sells on a gold standard, retailing for 50 cents a pound.

DELBRUECK ARRAIGNS FRENCH AS INSINCERE

He Says They Do Not Want Pay, but Only to Keep Germany Crippled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 27.—There are few Germans who are not firmly convinced that France does not want reparation payments at all and that her aims are purely political. This fixed idea in the Teuton mind has been a decisive factor in shaping Chancellor Cuno's Ruhr and Rhineland policy.

On this subject Professor Hans Delbrück said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"I have the impression that the real heart of the international situation has not been grasped with sufficient sharpness. Frequent reproach has been made against Germany, even in Germany herself, that she has not made sufficient efforts to fulfill the reparation obligations under the Versailles Treaty. This reproach, however, covers the real truth of the matter, that France does not want to be paid at all and therefore frames things up so that Germany can under no circumstances pay, but must permanently remain France's debtor.

"The world's illness would very quickly be cured if France permitted the use of a prescription of the best physicians, to wit, an estimate of Germany's apparation ability by a non-partisan neutral commission. Before and during the war the French championed the ideal viewpoint that justice must reign in the world. Now they stubbornly reject a just court.

BOERSE GOES WILD AS MARK COLLAPSES

CUNO'S FIAT SPEEDS FALL

Stocks Are Bought Frantically by Public, Anything to Be Rid of Paper Money.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 27.—The Boerse experienced another catastrophe today as the mark touched the lowest point ever officially recorded. Today's extremely stormy "flight from the mark" was a stampede, yet was merely symptomatic of the general German realization that all of the Cuno Government's measures to stabilize the mark, or at least to soften its fall, are futile, and that the very drastic new ordinance restricting trade in foreign exchange and bills, has, if anything, helped to put the mark still further down, instead of strengthening it as the Government had fondly hoped.

The mark rate today was officially fixed at 153,000 to the dollar, after the Reichsbank had drawn heavily on its holdings of dollars and pounds sterling, only thus being able to satisfy the clamor on the Boerse for real money.

While only a few dollars and pounds were offered for sale, on the other hand buying orders piled in from all over Germany, particularly from the Rhineland and Westphalia. What the Germans further think of the mark's immediate future was indicated by the so-called dollar treasury notes. These sold down to 174,000 marks, and, for delivery at the end of July, for over 200,000 marks.

All stocks boomed constantly, making one of the wildest markets in memory. The frightened public, eager to get rid of its paper mark, before being caught by the crash, in many cases gave the brokers blanket orders no longer to buy this or that stock, but to buy any stock whatsoever; merely to be rid of paper marks was the desire. Gains of 200,000 points were scored today. It was no unusual thing for stocks to double in paper value.

Commentators note that "the tempo of depreciation of all German values is rapidly increasing."

One feature of the Boerse today was the heavy foreign buying of stocks and the large purchases for foreign accounts of German state bonds. Economics Minister Becker today issued a dramatic plea to the Association of German Industries, national organizations of the wholesale and import and export trades, imploring them to help the Reichsbank check the mark's collapse, by restricting their foreign exchange requirements to the utmost, suggesting that imports of raw materials be restricted or put off until stocks in hand were near the exhaustion point.

"Such measures are a patriotic duty," he said, "in view of the grave dangers threatening if the collapse of the German currency cannot be checked."

TWO FRENCH SOLDIERS WOUNDED BY GERMANS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, June 27.—It is now learned that the bomb thrown at a Wiesbaden railroad station last evening was much more serious than first reported, two Germans having been killed and ten seriously injured.

The "infernal machine" was a time bomb. It was seen lying in a corner of the ticket office by an employe, who picked it up as several persons were buying tickets for an early morning train. The bomb exploded in his hands.

Yesterday and today two further attempts of a similar nature were made, one at Karlsruhe habor and the other on the railroad near Worms, but in neither case was anybody hurt nor was much material damage done.

The object of the outrages is thought to be to frighten the public and prevent them from patronising trains run under French control.

Near Witten yesterday a party of French soldiers was attacked by Germans with rifles and in broad daylight. The attackers included a woman who also used a revolver. A sergeant and a corporal were wounded, but not seriously, before the Germans were routed.

Several sentries also were fired at during the night, but there were no casualties.

Two more Germans have been killed by Belgians during the last twenty-four hours. One was shot while walking on the street in defiance of the curfew order at Buer. The other was killed by a Belgian officer who was insulted and attacked on the street.

There is no improvement in the economic and financial situation. The Duisbourg banks, for instance, are suffering from a great shortage of bank notes owing to the huge demands made by firms for advances to workers. This sufficiently illustrates the acuteness of the situation despite the speed at which the mark printing presses are running. As fast as the workers receive higher wages, given in order to pacify them, they demand further increases, asking raises of 25,000 marks. Meetings are being held throughout the Ruhr demanding this figure.

ENGINEERS AROUSED AT OUSTING OF DAVIS

SEN. PITTMAN CONCERNED

American Society of Civil Engineers to Investigate, and Other Bodies May Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Engineers who have been informed of the successful activities of private power companies to eliminate Arthur P. Davis as Director of the Reclamation Service, which ended in his dismissal last week, are greatly aroused over the matter.

Information tonight is to the effect that engineering bodies intend to take up Mr. Davis's dismissal and exert their influence on Congress for an investigation into the reported efforts of power companies in California and Colorado to control the reclamation service and prevent the Government building a Federal dam in the Colorado River.

Senator Pittman, the only member of the Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation in the city, said that the dismissal of Mr. Davis was most serious, but that he wanted to investigate the matter fully before discussing it in detail. Asked whether his committee would start an investigation, he replied that an investigation undoubtedly would be made if the facts were as stated.

One of the first protests against the removal of Mr. Davis came from James R. Freeman, consulting engineer, of Providence, a former President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Mr. Freeman wrote Mr. Davis under date of June 23 this letter:

"My Dear Davis:

"Nothing recently has so shocked me as tending to the destruction of public service of high quality as the announcement of the way you have been treated with dismissal after forty years of faithful service and a record of most admirable efficiency.

"I know of no one in the public service who has done more than you have toward demonstrating that construction work could be performed by the Government in a thoroughly economical and efficient way. It has seemed to me in my fairly close contact with many of your activities that you had all along abundantly demonstrated your capacity as a 'business man' with engineering training.

"I do not know what finer example one could have than your building of the cement plant and manufacturing cement for the Roosevelt Dam at far lower cost than was offered by the business concerns.

"In another way you have demonstrated remarkable capacity as a business man in developing the profound loyalty of your subordinates so that their best work is given to the service without stopping to reflect on meagre pay and the miscellaneous hardships of this work on the frontier.

"In all my wide acquaintance I know of no man at the head of large enterprises who has had more loyalty and affection from his subordinates.

"I have firmly believed that your 'batting average' has been remarkably good, considering the inherent difficulties of your problems.

"On the other hand, having been raised in the farm atmosphere and my father having been one of the pioneers of Northwestern Texas and Southern Kansas, I know something of the farmer's state of mind when it comes to paying assessments for cost of construction work, and there is not a man alive who can do that kind of work and escape criticism, and I trust you have learned to take it as part of the day's work and not let it get under your skin.

"I consider that the way this dismissal of yourself appears to have come about is an outrage and utterly subversive of developing loyalty and the highest ideals in the public service.

"I have no doubt you can reap a much more liberal pecuniary reward as a consulting engineer, and meanwhile escape many worries. And as to income, occasional leisure and freedom which a man enjoys when he reaches our age, I regard this change as a kick upstairs. But as a patriotic citizen, I am sorry that such things can be done and forty-one years of eminently successful service be forgotten and disregarded. I see now where the army engineers have the advantage.

"I am sorry that I do not happen to have personal acquaintance with either President Harding or the new Secretary of the Interior that I might come over and plead, not for you, but for the good of construction service under the Government.

"Very truly yours,

"JOHN R. FREEMAN."

Engineering Society to Act.

The ousting of Arthur P. Davis as Director of the Reclamation Service is to be investigated by the American Society of Civil Engineers, which has 10,700 members. This was announced yesterday by John H. Dunlop, Secretary of the society, who expressed the opinion that similar action might be taken by the 50,000 members of the Federated American Engineering Societies, which has its headquarters in Washington.

"The Executive Committee of our society," said Mr. Dunlop, "held a special meeting on Monday and decided to get at the facts in an impartial manner. Inquiries will be set up in parts of the country to find out what the sentiment is in places where Mr. Davis's work is well known. A special committee is to be appointed to make personal inquiry to find out what public sentiment is on the displacement of Mr. Davis.

"Those with whom I have talked are utterly at a loss to account for his resignation. The Reclamation Service is essentially an engineering enterprise and to place at the head of it a man without engineering training or experience is something that we can't understand. There must be some underlying motive and we purpose to find it out."

POPE MORE ANXIOUS OVER EUROPE'S FUTURE

Pleads That Pacification and Reparations Be Considered in Christian Spirit.

ROME, June 27 (Associated Press).—The Pope has written to Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, saying that, despite the attempts made since the beginning of his Pontificate to obtain the pacification of Europe, international relations had not improved, had even become worse, justifying graver anxiety for the future.

"While we are striving with all our strength and all the means our children place at our disposal for mitigation of the present serious general sufferings," writes the Pope, "we ought to take advantage of every opportunity to cooperate to bring about the desired pacification of peoples and individuals in Christ. We entreat those who hold the peoples' destinies in their hands to consider the various questions, and that of reparations, in that Christian spirit which does not separate the exigencies of justice from those of social charity, on which the perfection of the life of people is based."

"If, in the intention to repair the very serious damage inflicted, the debtor displayed real good will to reach an equitable and definitive agreement by invoking impartial judgment on the limits of his solvency and to undertake to supply to the judges every facility for careful and exact scrutiny, then justice and social charity, as well as the creditors' own interests, seem to require that more should not be asked of the debtor than he can give without completely exhausting his resources and productive power, to his own irreparable detriment and that of his creditors, not to mention social disturbances which might mean the final ruin of all Europe and resentment which would remain as a continual menace to fresh and ruinous conflagrations.

"It is just that creditors should have guarantees proportionate to the importance of their claims, insuring the latter's recovery, on which their vital interests depend, but we leave to them to consider if it is necessary to maintain to that end occupations, imposing grave sacrifices on the occupied countries, and whether it would not be better to substitute, even progressively, other guarantees not less efficacious, and certainly less painful.

"If both parties agree on these specific bases it would not be long before territorial occupation could be gradually reduced until it ceased, and at last could be attained real pacification and the economic restoration so ardently desired by all.

PLAN UPTOWN ARENA TWICE GARDEN'S SIZE

management not only of old Madison Square Garden, but of Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, where Rickard staged his biggest championship fight in July, 1921, when Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier were the contenders. Rickard's lease on that property has been transferred to the new corporation, which will also have control of the big open air arena which Rickard has announced he will build next Winter for use next Summer as a place to stage boxing bouts, bicycle races and other athletic contests.

The promoters plan to build big open air swimming pools in eight cities throughout the United States. Cities said to have been chosen already are Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha.

The new indoor arena here will not be used for prizefights, if the present intention of Mr. Rickard and Mr. Ringling and their associates are carried out. It is to be what they describe as a "great amusement centre." It will be equipped with a swimming tank twice the size of that in Madison Square Garden. It will be offered as a home for the Horse Show, the Automobile Show, the Motor Boat Show, the Silk Show and all the other big shows held every year in New York City. It will house the circus on its annual visit to Manhattan, and the promoters say they will make every effort to complete the arena in time for its use by the Democratic National Convention if the convention is held in New York City.

If the title to the land is definitely settled today the backers will go ahead with their plans at once. They intend to purchase the site outright, and the architects' plans for the arena and office building already have been completed. Everything is ready for construction to begin within two to three months, according to THE TIMES informant.

The plans for the new arena, drawn by Thomas Lamb, call for a seating capacity of 26,215. The drawings now leaning against the walls of Rickard's office, where their identity has been disclosed to only a few of the promoter's intimate friends.

BRITISH IMMIGRANTS AVOID ELLIS ISLAND

This is due to the fact that the Sopron (the Odenburg) district has been shifted from Austria to Hungary, whose quota is increased 109—from 5,638 for 1923 to 5,747 for 1924.

The next change involves an increase in the Lithuanian quota at the expense of Poland, as a result of the territorial readjustment by which part of the Pinsk region has been merged into Lithuania and lost to Poland, increasing the Lithuanian quota 169 and taking that number from the Polish allotment.

The greatest gain is made by Turkey, whose allotment is increased 266 as a result of the Turk-Greco War. The new allotments for immigration from that part of the world are: Turkey, 2,654, as compared with 2,388 in the current year; Greece, 3,063, as compared with 3,294; Syria, 882 in 1924, compared with 928 in 1923, and "other Asia," 92 in 1924, compared with 81 in 1923.

MRS. BUZZI GUILTY IN FIRST DEGREE

took her back to her cell in the basement. She walked very slowly and leaned weakly on their shoulders.

Justice O'Malley discharged the jury after thanking them and complimenting them for the serious way in which they had considered the case. The jury handed to Justice O'Malley a letter of appreciation for the courteous treatment which they had received and approval of the way in which the Court had conducted the case.

Mr. Donnelly asked if he might postpone any motions he might desire to make until the day on which sentence was passed. Justice O'Malley granted the request and adjourned the case until July 9.

The crowd received a thrill when Mrs. Vivian Turc, a sister of Mrs. Buzzi, became hysterical on the sidewalk in front of the court house, as she was leaving with another sister, Mrs. Sophie Dickie. Mrs. Turc had testified against her husband, William Turc, a taxicab driver, trying to save her sister at her husband's expense. She began screaming and collapsed in the street, but was revived and taken away in a taxicab by Mrs. Dickie.

Six policemen were sent from the Morrisania police station to keep the crowd away from the jail.

Judge O'Malley's Charge.

Judge O'Malley delivered a two-hour charge to the jury yesterday morning. In view of the alibi presented for Mrs. Buzzi, he said, the most important thing for the jury to consider was the time the murder was committed and whether Mrs. Buzzi would have had time to return home between that time and the hour she was shown to have been in her apartment.

The Court also instructed the jury to consider whether Turc, Mrs. Buzzi's brother-in-law, conspired with Mrs. Buzzi to commit the crime. He said that the State, which called Turc as its star witness, contended that Turc did not aid or abet the murder, but that it was for the jury to decide whether he did or not. If they decided that he did, the Court added, they must disregard his testimony, which was the most damaging of all the evidence against Mrs. Buzzi.

Referring to Turc's silence for several weeks after the crime, the Court directed the jury to consider whether this silence indicated that Turc felt guilty, that Mrs. Buzzi felt guilty, or that both felt guilty.

Justice O'Malley told the jury not to be swayed by sympathy because the defendant was a woman. He also warned it to disregard the character of Schneider and Mrs. Buzzi together with the fact that they had lived together, although Schneider was married to another woman.

Jury Makes Several Requests.

The case went to the jury at 12:10 P. M., when it retired to deliberate behind closed doors. At 4:35 o'clock the jury made several requests to Justice O'Malley. Charles Nicholas, juror No. 5, explained that the jury wanted to know when Nicholas Fulmer, the farmer living near the scene of the murder, first notified the police about Schneider's automobile stopping near his farm.

Foreman James A. Lynch made the second request, asking to have read the testimony given by Turc about his movements between 5 and 6 P. M. on the day of the murder. The testimony was read.

Juror No. 9, Edward P. Schell, who asked most of the questions from the jury box during the trial, then asked to have read the reply made by Turc to one of his questions.

Foreman Lynch later asked if the jury could inspect Schneider's automobile again as it did on Tuesday, but Justice O'Malley said he did not think it necessary. The jury then returned to its room, remaining until 7 o'clock, when Justice O'Malley announced a recess for dinner until 8 o'clock, after which the jurors remained in the jury room till 10:10 o'clock.

WARNS COAL MINERS TO HEED THE PUBLIC

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 27.—Public opinion cannot be opposed, William Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, warned the 500 delegates of the Tri-Districts scale Convention of Anthracite Miners at the second day's session this afternoon. Meanwhile leaders of the three districts had virtually agreed to demand a wage increase of possibly 20 per cent. and at least 10.

An inevitable event awaited the miners, Mr. Green declared. If the convention defied public sentiment in whatever new contract was demanded of the mine owners next month in place of that expiring August 31.

Rinaldo Cappellini, Militant President-Elect of District 1 saved his strength, for tomorrow he will face in Mr. Lewis the man whose gavel drummed him down to defeat in September when he led an abortive attempt to prevent a settlement of the anthracite strike.

Thomas Kennedy, President of District 7 and Acting Chairman for Mr. Lewis, disclosed today the five major demands the Scale Committee would submit to the convention for decision. They are:

Ten to 20 per cent. wage increase.

Weighing of coal mined in computing miners' pay.

Universal eight-hour day for pumpmen, compressors and other special employes.

A resolution approving the project of municipal coal yards throughout the country, to be recommended by the coal commission, was adopted. Then word filtered into the convention hall that the National Retail Coal Merchants Association had been assured in their convention that the Municipal Coal Yard at Washington was to be shortlived. Secretary Work, according to a committee report, was on record as favoring "a return to normalcy in the relationship of 'Government' and 'business.'"

Sees Blow Aimed at Union.

Chairman Kennedy interpreted the formal proposal of the coal retailers for the incorporation of trade unions as especially aimed at the United Mine Workers of America and assailed the organization as influenced by "the unseen hand of the anthracite operators."

Applause at the conclusion of William Green's address scarcely matched that of yesterday when Cappellini worked the delegates to a high pitch.

"There is something in America very tender and sensitive, and that is the great unseen force of public opinion," said Mr. Green. "Just now we want to feel the pulse of public opinion. Some say that no industrial struggle could win against an adverse public opinion. While I do not wholly subscribe to that, I do say this—I do not believe it is possible for any group of men to win a struggle in America provided public opinion is crystallized against them.

"We should measure our ability to do things, and be guided by circumstances. We are religiously committed to no backward step and no reduction in wages. But we are men of intelligence as well as passions and feeling.

"We must occupy a strategic position. Let us formulate our plans and policy carefully. When we place our case before the bar of public opinion let us be strong and united—confident that the great American people will rise up with us to see that our wrongs are righted."

Cappellini for 20 Per Cent. Rise.

Chairman Kennedy in discussing the five demands for the new contract indicated distinct likelihood of a protracted debate on wages. He admitted that a minimum of 10 per cent. would be formulated, but granted that there was strong sentiment against the delegates for 20 per cent.

It is general belief that Cappellini and his followers will make the principal stand for the higher rate. Cappellini's overwhelming victory recently for the Presidency in District One was largely the result of wage gains he had secured in his own Pittston district. The numerical strength of the miners that have rallied to him is not known, although his having a floor majority in the convention has been frequently heard.

On the other hand, Cappellini yesterday pledged himself to place no obstacle in the way of the Administration.

Today there were several tests of the leadership of Chairman Kennedy, all of which he surmounted without sign of interference from Cappellini.

It was particularly noticeable that when a resolution urging reinstatement of Alexander Howat, deposed Kansas leader, went by the board Cappellini, who was supposed to be in sympathy with Howat, refused to be drawn into the issue.

HUNTING G. S. WARD IN JURY'S INQUIRY

George S. Ward, President of the Ward Bakery Company and father of Walter Ward, who killed Clarence E. Peters, cannot be found by process servers armed with subpoenas from the Extraordinary Grand Jury convened at White Plains to investigate the killing of Peters. The general expectation at White Plains yesterday was that it would be impossible to reach him before the Grand Jury had concluded its deliberations.

Ralph Ward, Walter's elder brother, who dispatched several cable messages to his father regarding the alleged blackmail plot while the senior Ward was in Europe, has been subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury. It was learned yesterday, and probably will prove an important witness if the cable messages are presented to the Grand Jury as evidence.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury heard the testimony of four witnesses during its session of two hours yesterday. These witnesses were Dr. John P. Black, who examined Peters's body after it had been discovered on the Chappaqua Road near the Kensico Reservoir; Dr. Henry A. Vier, and two employes of the Westchester Lighting Company who were among the first on the scene after Peters's body had been found.

Other witnesses on hand but not called were Lieutenant Roberts of the State Troopers; Ray Hill, fingerprint expert of Westchester County, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eckhart of Valhalla, whose home is near the spot where Peters's body was found.

Former Supreme Court Justice Isaac N. Mills, chief of counsel for Ward, appeared at the Court House yesterday and went to the witness room, leaving soon after. Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner, who is in charge of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, did not appear. He is holding the Ward "mystery" cable messages pending his formal decision on their disposition, although he has indicated that he will rule that they are not privileged and may be presented to the Grand Jury.

It was reported yesterday that at the end of this week the Grand Jury would adjourn for one week, resuming its deliberations a week from next Monday. Frederick P. Close, Chairman of the Westchester County Board of Supervisors, received a letter from Attorney General Carl Sherman yesterday asking for an appropriation of $5,000 from the county to defray the expenses of the investigation. Under the law the Board of Supervisors must act upon this request at its next meeting, which will be held on July 2.

Republicans Choose Mrs. Warburton

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, Vice Chairman of the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee, today was appointed an associate member of the Republican National Committee. Mrs. Warburton was named by Senator Pepper, who was asked by John T. Adams, Chairman of the National Committee, to select Pennsylvania's representative under a plan to appoint from each State a woman as associate member. Mrs. Warburton is the daughter of the late John Wanamaker.

Showed Feeling on World Court.

The President appeared to be laboring under deep emotion, and the impressiveness of his words and manner imparted itself to his hearers.

When he made his first reference to the World Court there was a burst of applause, but it was not of a character to indicate that his whole audience was enthusiastic. Another reference brought shouts and tremendous handclapping. After that he had his hearers with him.

The President has begun an active campaign in behalf of his World Court policy. In his principal speech on that subject, delivered in the Coliseum at St. Louis on the day after he left Washington, he indicated that he would have more to say in behalf of American participation in the League's tribunal during his westward tour, but it was the understanding that his references would be few and far between. He has taken occasion, however, in nearly all his addresses in the last few days to include extemporaneous advocacy of his proposal.

The responsiveness of his audiences has been encouraging, and it is evident that he has become convinced that the Far West is fertile ground for sowing the seed of his World Court idea.

Piutes Greet the President.

When the Presidential train arrived it was the first passenger train ever to come to Cedar City and the first to travel over 35 miles of new track, just completed by the Union Pacific system between Lund and this place.

Coney Island and the Sheepshead Bay Station. After calling an ambulance from Coney Island Hospital they joined in the task of bringing the four unconscious girls and their teacher back to life. Hundreds of persons gathered at the scene as the reserves, in charge of Inspector Byron E. Sackett, with Captains James H. Gillen and Patrick Gillen, arrived and held the crowd back.

Count Shows Two Missing.

Then Mrs. Trato began counting heads. She discovered that two of the little girls were missing. She quickly imparted her discovery to the police and Inspector Sackett sent for Police Launch 6, stationed half a mile away, while Dr. Korn and Dr. Wax of the Coney Island Hospital bundled Miss Helff and the four rescued girls in an ambulance and took them to the hospital. Policeman Patrick MacDonald an hour later, after grappling over the mudhole from the launch, recovered the body of the Nortillaro girl from the water and soon after that of the Scursni girl. The ambulance surgeons were called back to the scene only to pronounce both girls dead.

Miss Trato had telephoned Miss Martin, an assistant principal of Public School No. 8, who asked the police to say nothing about the drownings to reporters and directed the children to say nothing about it to any one. She accompanied Miss Trato and the seventeen remaining children back to New York. Miss Loretta Rochester of 940 Lexington Avenue, principal of the school, when reached last night by telephone refused to discuss the drownings, referring inquirers to her official report, which she said would be filed today.

Word of the fatal outing was carried to the homes of the children by Policeman Farley of the Charles Street station. Mrs. Floretta Dumi, mother of the Dumi girl, fainted. When she recovered she went to Coney Island Morgue, where the body of her daughter was taken. She has four other children, three boys and a girl. Mrs. Mary Scurano told Farley she did not know her daughter had gone to the outing. She said the children were supposed to have obtained written consent from their parents and that she had signed no permit. She said she thought her daughter in her eagerness to go either had signed the permit herself or had persuaded some one to sign it for her. The mother of Mary Martella is a widow and has three other children, two girls and boy.

W. S. ROSE FOUND DROWNED.

Patchogue Banker Had Been Ill—Five Other Drownings Reported.

Walter S. Rose, 52 years old, one of the incorporators of the Union Savings Bank of Patchogue, L. I., and until recently its Vice President and Secretary, was drowned in Great South Bay at Water Island, opposite Patchogue, yesterday. He resigned from the bank a few weeks ago because of ill health. He had been President of the Village of Patchogue and was a brother-in-law of Supreme Court Justice Walter H. Jaycox.

Yesterday morning his body was found, clad in pajamas, floating on the water. Relatives believe he had fallen from a boat.

The body of a man in a bathing suit was found in the Kill van Kull at the foot of Nicholas Avenue, Port Richmond Staten Island, early yesterday by a policemen of the Marine Division. It was taken to Port Richmond. The man was about 25 years old, and weighed about 140 pounds. He had brown hair, was clean shaven, and wore a white bathing suit with the letter "G" stitched on the front.

Joseph Morgan, 23 years old, was drowned while swimming in Matawan Creek at Matawan, N. J., yesterday. His body was recovered by friends two hours after he was drowned.

The authorities at Somerville, N. J., received word yesterday of the drowning of Ferdinand E. R. Gerlich, 21 years old, of South Somerville, in the Raritan River at South Branch Tuesday. Gerlich, who was at the head of the News Distributing Department of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Jersey City, was attending a Sunday school picnic at South Branch, and, accompanied by a friend, swam across the Raritan River. Half way across on the return trip he suffered a cramp and sank before aid could reach him. His body was recov-

Creditors' Attorney Calls on Federal and County Prosecutors to Investigate.

EX-MANAGER SURRENDERS

REVEALS CAUSE OF CRASH

Firm Did Legitimate Business, He Is Reported to Have Said, Until Caught in the Market.

William M. Chadbourne, counsel for the 4,000 creditors of E. M. Fuller & Co., the brokerage firm which failed a year ago for $6,000,000, sent communications yesterday to United States District Attorney William Hayward and District Attorney Joab H. Banton informing them that examination of the papers of the bankrupt firm indicated "that crimes other than bucketing" had been committed. Mr. Chadbourne did not indicate in his letters the character of these acts, but he requested each prosecutor to assign an assistant to investigate the matter with a view to bring the data in the possession of the Fuller bankruptcy officials to the attention of the Federal and local Grand Juries.

He said that his request for an investigation by the assistant prosecutors had the full approval of George C. Sprague, Federal Trustee in the bankruptcy case, and his counsel, Francis L. Kohlman and Carl J. Austrian. Trustee Sprague said last evening that Mr. Chadbourne told him that he intended to communicate with the prosecutors, but he would not discuss the nature of the crimes which the Fuller documents were believed to have uncovered.

Think Firm Was Looted Before Crash.

It was understood, however, that the letters were based on data contained in seized letters and documents indicating that Edward M. Fuller and his partner, William F. McGee, had turned over large sums of money to supposed outsiders shortly before the brokerage firm went to the wall. It is known that Harold P. Coffin, the Federal Referee in the Fuller & Co. bankruptcy proceeding, endeavored to obtain information about the disposal of this money from Fuller, after he and McGee on June 19 last had pleaded guilty to one of twelve bucketing indictments returned against them and each was sentenced in General Sessions to from fifteen months to four years in Sing Sing.

The two brokers had previously received an indefinite commitment to Ludlow Street Jail for contempt of the Federal Court by Judge Goddard. After Judge Nott had imposed sentence on them in General Sessions they were remanded back to the jail on the contempt commitment, and later that day Fuller was taken to the office of United States District Attorney Hayward and questioned until late into the night.

Fuller Has Not "Squealed."

Reports were circulated that Fuller had made up his mind to "squeal" on his partner and others who were suspected of being secret members of the firm, but when Fuller was called at a hearing in the bankruptcy investigation last Monday he refused to answer questions, asserting his constitutional rights. His examination was put off until today, when he explained to Referee Coffin that he had retained new counsel and had not had an opportunity to confer with them.

Mr. Chadbourne's communications were sent not long after William McHugh, formerly office manager for E. M. Fuller & Co., surrendered to District Attorney Banton on an indictment in connection with the bucketing operations in the firm. McHugh was indicted about a month ago with two other former employes of the firm, Sylvester Fahey and David Greenberg.

Fahey pleaded not guilty several days later in General Sessions after he made a complete statement of what he knew about the bucketing activities of Fuller & McGee. Greenberg is still a fugitive. When McHugh was arraigned late in the afternoon before Judge Koenig in General Sessions he also pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,500 bail for the trial.

Confers With Mr. Wintner.

McHugh then went with Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner, who prosecuted Fuller at three unsuccessful trials, to the latter's office. It was said later that he told Mr. Wintner all that he knew about the bucketing of orders by Fuller & McGee. He was alleged to have stated that Fuller and McGee conducted their firms in a legitimate manner up to the Spring of 1922, when the market went against them. At this time, he is understood to have said, customers began to demand stock which they had purchased or its equivalent in cash, and that when these demands grew in number Fuller and McGee called him into their private office, said that they would have to adopt illegitimate methods to carry on the business and thereafter began to bucket customers' orders.

It could not be learned whether McHugh's statement encouraged Mr. Chadbourne in the belief that Federal and local Grand Jury investigations would develop evidence on which indictments could be returned against others suspected of being in collusion with the two brokers in loofing the firm immediately before the failure. It was understood, however, that Federal Prosecutor Hayward was asked to participate in the new investigation in the hope that evidence would be revealed that many of the customers of the firm had been defrauded through the use of the mails and that other evidence might be found which would lead to Federal indictments in connection with the disappearance of a considerable sum in bonds and securities a few days before the bankruptcy and which should have been turned over to Samuel Strasbourger, the Federal receiver for the firm.

NEW McMASTERS CHARGES.

Broker Pleads Not Guilty to Five Superseding Indictments.

John F. MacMasters, a partner in the brokerage firm of R. H. MacMasters & Co., which failed in February last for $8,000,000, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned yesterday before Judge Koenig in General Sessions on five superseding indictments charging bucketing, and was released in $10,000 pending another arraignment on July 5.

MacMasters and his stepson, Roy H. MacMasters, were indicted and held in $7,500 bail each for bucketing and grand larceny soon after the failure. Two weeks ago the stepson made a statement to Assistant District Attorney McKenna on which a new Grand Jury investigation of the firm was started. Roy H. MacMasters and William S. Silkworth, until Tuesday President of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, were the principal witnesses against John F. MacMasters at this inquiry, which resulted in the new indictments being returned and in which R. H. MacMasters was not involved.

TWEEDY ASSUMES OFFICE.

New Consolidated President to Name Committees Today.

John J. Dwyer, Deputy Attorney General in charge of the State's bucketshop investigation, said yesterday that it looked as if none of the stock exchanges intended to comply with the Attorney General's request that they compel their members to sign a waiver of immunity if called upon to testify or produce their books before the Attorney General under the Martin law. He said that he had counted on an example being set by the Consolidated Stock Exchange, which seemed anxious to restore public confidence in itself, and that this example would be followed by the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb. The Consolidated, he declared, had not even gone as far as the other exchanges, which directed their members not to refuse to testify or produce their books on the ground that it would incriminate or degrade them.

Laurence Tweedy, who succeeded William S. Silkworth as President of the Consolidated at the close of business Tuesday, received many messages of congratulation and offers of co-operation yesterday. Odgen D. Budd, Chairman of the special committee of five which is said to have forced Silkworth to resign, said:

"All I have to say is that I will co-operate with Mr. Tweedy to the best of my ability and that I am pleased with the present situation. I think that our troubles are over and that the future is very bright."

The Board of Governors of the Consolidated will meet this afternoon and Mr. Tweedy will announce the appointment of committees.

FALLON AND M'GEE REPORT BOND THEFT

Unable to Return Securities to Woman Client When Ordered by Court.

The application of Mrs. Mildred Adams of 304 West Eighty-ninth Street for an order substituting Isidor Gainsburg as her attorney in place of William J. Fallon and Eugene F. McGee was granted by Supreme Court Justice Lydon yesterday. Mrs. Adams charged that Fallon and McGee had not cared for her interests satisfactorily in a suit she brought against the Stock Exchange firm of J. S. Bache & Company to compel the return to her of certain stock which she claimed, and in a suit against her by Colonel Samuel L. James, a racing man.

The Court also signed an order directing Fallon & McGee to deliver to Mrs. Adams or her attorney before noon today certain property she claims she turned over to her former attorneys, including a marriage certificate, $1,000 in Liberty bonds, certain stock of a fur company having a face value of $150,000, and two diamond rings.

Late yesterday afternoon Fallon & McGee notified the office of Mr. Gainsburg that they were prepared to deliver such property as they had, and when a representative of Attorney Gainsburg called there they turned over stock of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company demanded by Mrs. Adams.

Mr. McGee then swore to an affidavit explaining that the property, including an "alleged marriage certificate of Mildred Adams and Samuel L. James," signed by City Magistrate Peter T. Barlow in 1918, was in a locked cabinet in the office of Fallon & McGee on May 27 last; that both members of the firm were out of the office that afternoon, and that on returning at 6 P. M. they found that the cabinet had been broken into and all the property, including the marriage certificate, had been stolen.

Mr. McGee swore that he notified the West Thirtieth Street Police Station that the offices of the firm at 152 West Forty-second Street had been entered and the cabinet rifled. He said that two detectives investigated the robbery and made a complete report concerning it. For this reason Mr. McGee said that he and his partner were unable to deliver any of the property sued for except the stock.

Plans New Effort to Get Back on Curb

When the suit of Benjamin Alexander for a writ of mandamus to compel the Board of Governors of the New York Curb to reinstate him came before Supreme Court Justice Lydon yesterday it was withdrawn by agreement of counsel for both sides. Nathaniel P. Schmidt, attorney for Alexander, stated that the attorneys for the Curb market wanted an adjournment and he decided to make a similar application later on new papers.

ARREST MEN ON STREET CAR

Passengers Fear Hold-Up When Detectives Close All Exits.

Passengers on a southbound Avenue B surface car were thrown into a commotion late yesterday afternoon when three detectives stopped the car, closed the exits and arrested two alleged jostlers who attempted to get away.

Detectives Charles Frank, Edward Goodwin and Thomas Webber of the special service squad were riding on the car and were watching two men who, they alleged, jostled two men passengers, whose names were not obtained. Goodwin was near the centre of the car and Frank at one exit and Webber at the other. Goodwin shouted to the other detectives "to stop the car and close the exits."

Passengers for the moment thought a hold-up was being staged, and women screamed and a general scramble for the exits began. The passengers were reassured by the detectives, who disclosed their identities. The alleged jostlers tried to battle their way to the exits, according to the detectives, but were quickly subdued and taken to Police Headquarters.

The men described themselves as Max Turner, 25 years old, of 17 and 19 West 106th Street, and Samuel Marks, 24 years old, of 10 Ridge Street.

SIGNS FARRAR DIVORCE.

Judge Forbids Tellegen From Remarrying Without Permission.

Supreme Court Justice Tierney confirmed yesterday the report of Thomas H. Mahony as referee, recommending a divorce for Geraldine Farrar from Lou Tellegen, and signed an interlocutory decree in her favor. The decree permits Miss Farrar "to resume her maiden name or to remarry but forbids the defendant from remarrying any other person during the lifetime of the plaintiff except by express permission of the court."

The decree also states that it is to become final as a matter of course in three months "unless for sufficient cause the court in the meantime shall have otherwise ordered." Justice Tierney taxes $250 costs against Tellegen, but this sum does not include the cost of the trial before the referee. The decree, which is the only document in the Tellegen case filed in the County Clerk's office which is unsealed, does not disclose the name of the person or persons with whom Tellegen was found guilty of misconduct.

LABOR BOARD SHARP TO PENNSYLVANIA

DECISION IN CLERKS' CASE

Attention of Congress Is Called to "Flouting" of the Law and the Supreme Court.

CHICAGO, June 27 (Associated Press).—The Pennsylvania Railroad System, after ignoring the decision of the United States Labor Board in refusing to acknowledge the elected representatives of the clerks' organization, "has persisted in such violation in contempt of the unanimous decision of the United States Supreme Court," which sustained the board's jurisdiction, the board declared today in a decision.

The castigation of the Pennsylvania system, the second of a similar nature within eleven days, resulted when the system refused to deal with the elected representatives of the clerks' organization as officials representing an employes' organization, although the system was ready to consider them as individuals. The first reprimand was given June 17 in the case of the shop crafts unions, toward whom the Pennsylvania had pursued earlier the same course as toward the clerks.

In its opinion the board says:

"The position of the Pennsylvania system in this matter is devoid of intrinsic merit, violative of the will of Congress and destructive of the rights of the employes. The employes were not seeking any advantage over the carrier and the Railroad Labor Board had not presumed to encroach on the prerogatives of the management in any sense. The public should also understand that no question of wages, rules, discipline or management was involved.

"The mooted question of the open or closed shop was not at issue. There was no proposal to arbitrarily require the carrier to deal with any particular labor organization. The only issue was one of such insignificant import to the carrier as to make its flagrant course one of astonishment to disinterested citizens. The issue is tersely stated, stripped of all surplusage, in the following question and answer quoted from the record of the statement, at the hearing, of a Vice President representing the Pennsylvania system:

Question: Simply drawing this distinction, that if they will agree to deal with you as individuals you will deal with them; but if they deal with you as officials representing employes' organizations, you will not deal with them?

Answer: You have stated it correctly.

Says Workers Are Oppressed.

"In the face of this statement of the carrier's position, the fact remains that the carrier has negotiated agreements with the four train and engine-service brotherhoods which are now outstanding and on file in this case, and which are signed by the officials of those organizations as such and not as individuals. This inconsistent course involves the admission on the part of the road that it respects the rights of employes when they are backed by the four powerful train and engine brotherhoods, but not when they have only the support of the newer and less potent clerks' organization.

"The Railroad Labor Board cannot subscribe to such a doctrine. It is contrary to the very essence and spirit of the Transportation act, 1920, which is predicated on the idea that the rights of neither the carrier nor the employes should be dependent upon force and power, but upon justice and reason. If the same just recognition had been accorded to the clerks' organization that was conceded to the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen, this dispute would never have arisen and the Pennsylvania System would not now find itself in the lone attitude among all the great railroads of the United States of attempting to nullify the Transportation act, and that, not in the defense of its rights, but in the oppression of its employes.

Employes' Conduct Commended.

"Throughout this controversy the employes concerned and their representatives have borne themselves in a manner worthy of the highest commendation. Deprived of their rights, they did not strike and visit their grievances upon the heads of an unoffending public. Sustained in their requests by the Railroad Labor Board, which in turn was approved by the courts of the country, they have proceeded quietly about the performance of their duties, awaiting ultimate justice.

"Surely, the Congress of the United States when it reconvenes will take proper steps to guarantee to the employes and to the public that no carrier, however great and powerful, shall again propagate industrial discord and endanger public tranquillity by flouting the will of Congress as interpreted by the established courts and tribunals of our country. This thought is embodied here in response to the petition of these employes that the Railroad Labor Board formally call the attention of Congress to this situation."

BOY, 14, SAYS MOTHER KILLED HIS FATHER

His Testimony That Mrs. Lonergan Shot Husband Is Modified Under Grilling.

Mrs. Mary Lonergan, 46, mother of fourteen children, who was on trial before a jury in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of murdering her husband, John Lonergan, in his bicycle shop at 261 Bridge Street, on May 10, heard her son, William, 14, accuse her of slaying his father. The mother and most of her neighbors in the court wept while the boy testified. This testimony was slightly modified when the boy admitted on cross-examination that he had been coached to say where he and his mother had stood while in the shop.

"Did your mother have anything in her hand?" asked Assistant District Attorney Kopf, when William had described his mother's entrance to the shop, behind his father's back.

"Yes, she had something shiny."

The boy said he heard a shot. He seized his mother, he said, and the "shiny" object fell to the floor. In reply to Edward U. Reilly, attorney for Mrs. Lonergan, William admitted he was the favored child of his father, but denied he loved his father more than he did his mother.

"On the night of the murder you were taken to Police Headquarters and some one slapped you in the face a couple of times?" questioned Mr. Reilly.

"No, the man said he would slap me."

William denied he had been told how to testify. Mr. Riley asked:

"Didn't he say to you, 'your mother stood here, and you stood there?'"

"Yes," replied the boy, who also recalled that he was threatened with imprisonment in a reformatory if he didn't tell the story as it had been described for him.

Mrs. Lonergan, denying her son's statement of the shooting, testified that her husband, a former prize fighter, had beaten her in the Summer of 1922.

"He beat the children so often I guess it was a habit," she declared.

The trial was adjourned until today.

"Put Your Thinking Cap On, Sir," He Said

Sure enough, if men did more hard thinking upon important matters, things would clear up and almost everything would get on better and faster.

Loose and lazy thinking is a common habit and one of the chief difficulties of these unsettled times.

The deadlock in our heads would sometimes disappear if we could calm down the disturbances in our hearts.

PORT BOARD AGAINST RAILROAD CONTROL

COHEN ANSWERS A. H. SMITH

Port Counsel Says Single Paramount Influence Would Endanger Entire Plan.

Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the Port Authority, denied yesterday the charge made on Tuesday by A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central Railroad, that the Port Authority, while opposing the railroad's plan to take over the Central of New Jersey Railroad, had failed to oppose the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for the consolidation of the Jersey Central with the Baltimore & Ohio. Mr. Cohen said that the Port Authority, at the recent consolidation hearings held by the Interstate Commerce Commission, opposed giving control of the Jersey Central to either the New York Central or the Baltimore & Ohio. According to Mr. Cohen, the Port Authority is opposed to granting any one carrier a monopoly of the terminal facilities of the port and the waterfront frontage, dominating the service to piers and industries along the waterfront. His statement follows:

"President Smith seems to think that the counsel and the engineering staff of the Port Authority love the Baltimore & Ohio better than they love the New York Central. As a matter of fact, we love all the girls. They are all nice. But we haven't married any of them.

Jersey Central Essential Factor.

"Speaking seriously, let me emphasize that both in the motion papers and in the argument of counsel, as well as in the testimony of the witnesses, it was made clear that the Port Authority regarded the Central Railroad of New Jersey facilities as so essential to the effectuation of the comprehensive plan that no trunk line should be given control of them. In answer specifically to the questions of counsel for the New York Central it was stated that the Port Authority was opposed as well to the Baltimore & Ohio securing control of the Central of New Jersey under the plans proposed by Professor Ripley and the Interstate Commerce Commission. President Smith was absent from these proceedings, so we had no opportunity to cross-examine him and he had no opportunity to hear our position stated; and he is so busy a man that he doubtless has not yet had opportunity to read the printed motion papers.

"I note in one sentence of his statement President Smith says it makes no difference in the effectuation of the comprehensive plan what road gets the Jersey Central, but in another paragraph he says it makes a big difference if the Baltimore & Ohio gets it, because if the Baltimore & Ohio got it that line would be induced to divert business from New York to Baltimore.

Domination Dangerous to Port.

"We may concede that the New York Central is more interested in bringing business here than the Baltimore & Ohio, but the power to divert through control of terminal facilities is also the power to control for competitive purposes, and if one road controls so much of the terminal facilities as to give it a dominating influence—dominating, moreover, so much of the waterfront for the service both of piers and industries as those terminal facilities could serve—that is a situation dangerous to the entire port.

"The Port Authority, therefore, is consistently opposed to any of the trunk lines acquiring so great an influence as would be involved in the ownership of the Central of New Jersey facilities, those facilities being essentially terminal facilities necessary to the development of the comprehensive plan.

"President Smith modestly admitted before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the recent hearings that he was a fine 'horse trader.' Whatever else is in dispute, that fact must be conceded. Inasmuch as President Smith is pleased to level his shafts at me, I wish to make it clear that the engineering staff of the Port Authority and its counsel appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the proceeding for the consolidation of railroads by direction of the Commissioners of the Port Authority, under a resolution adopted June 20, 1923, which instructed counsel to bring to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission the legal status of the comprehensive plan, as approved by Acts of Congress, the potential conflict between the comprehensive plan and the consolidation plans as affecting the Port of New York District, especially with reference to the belt lines and terminals embraced in the comprehensive plan, and to take such steps as he may deem appropriate to make clear to the Interstate Commerce Commission the effect of the laws and the pending concurrent hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Port Authority, especially the features of the proposal of President A. H. Smith that lines of the Central Railroad of New Jersey be consolidated with the New York Central Railroad.'

Smith Criticised Engineers.

"Upon this resolution the formal motion made asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to 'exclude from consideration * * * (in the consolidation proceeding) the lines of railroad and the terminals embraced in the comprehensive plan, and that the * * * Port Authority be treated as a party to this proceeding, with right to appear at the hearings, introduce testimony, cross-examine witnesses and appear on brief and by oral argument.'

"President Smith criticises the engineering staff of the Port Authority for not having previously taken an active interest in the consolidation plans of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He may be right upon this score, and counsel for the Port Authority publicly acknowledged his indebtedness to Mr. Smith for directing attention to the relationship between the terminal facilities and the line haul.

"Up to the time that Mr. Smith gave his testimony it seemed to be tolerably clear that the Interstate Commerce Commission would separate the consideration of the terminal problem at each port from the general consolidation scheme, but reading Mr. Smith's testimony in the light of the Chicago junction case, the potentiani danger to New York of conflict between the comprehensive plan and the consolidation of railroads became real.

Says Staff Is Overworked.

"The overworked engineering staff of the Port Authority has been busily engaged in preparing for matters of immediate constructive relief to the Port of New York. While engaged in the garden raising Summer vegetables, the cow broke loose in the corn. The staff just had to stop attending to the garden long enough to tie up the cow.

"If Mr. Smith's railroad appears more conspicuously in Port Authority hearings than any other carrier, it is because both he and counsel for the New York Central openly contest the wisdom and legality of the first principle of the comprehensive port plan, namely, the unification of terminal facilities.

"Every other congested centre in the country has accepted this principle as a matter of sound economics, but Mr. Smith contests it in New York. In every congested centre it has come to be realized that open access of every shipper to every trunk line and intensive use of existing capital investments by all carriers is the only safe policy for the community and in the end the only wise policy for the carriers. New York is the last of the congested centres to awaken to this economic necessity, and the Port Authority is the agency of the two States and of Congress to effectuate the policy."

LAND OWNERS WIN AFTER TEN YEARS

What is considered one of the most remarkable cases of real estate litigation that has ever been presented to the Courts for adjustment was settled yesterday after a ten years' journey from the lowest to the highest tribunals in the country.

As a result of the settlement more than one thousand persons, many of them school teachers and clerks scattered throughout the United States, who have contracts or titles to land located at Massapequa, Long Island, bought ten years ago from the Queens Land & Title Company of New York, and held in litigation so long that they came to regard their loss as total, will receive at once clear titles to their holdings valued in the aggregate at $578,000.

2,400 Persons Affected.

The mass of litigation involved in the case was amicably settled through the office of Charles B. Van Valen Inc., of New York City, and affects not only the 1,000 deed and contract holders but 2,400 owners of land at Massapequa and releases 7,123 lots. It further validates 2,545 acres of undeveloped property. The lowest appraisal ever made on the realty in litigation was $2,400,000 and ranges up to $4,500,000.

The Massapequa case was one of several similar cases which brought about the passage of the law regarding the sale of land held under a blanket mortgage. In 1911 and 1912 Massapequa was advertised throughout the country as one of the coming high-class home centres and the best real estate buy on Long Island for the homeseeker.

The land was held under a blanket mortgage and as a lot was sold it was supposed to be released from under the blanket mortgage and title given to the buyer.

In 1913, when litigation was started between the Queens Land and Title Company, of which Dr. Allen T. Haight was President, and the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, as trustee of the bonds held by the Kings County Trust Company, of which Julian D. Fairchild is President, there were outstanding approximately 600 partially paid installments on contracts for lots at Massapequa and 400 deeds that were in effect void. It appeared as though the owners, men and women of moderate means, had lost everything they had put into the venture.

The contract holders were not permitted to pay further installments and the deed holders naturally feared to build on their property for reason of defective titles. The development, covering one of the most promising locations on Long Island, came to a dead stop.

This not only indirectly affected the contract and deed holders, but also 1,400 owners many of whom had already built.

Title Now Guaranteed.

During the past ten years numerous efforts were made to settle the litigation out of court, restore the property to its original owners and continue the retarded development, but they came to nothing until the Charles B. Van Valen Corporation became interested.

Since then negotiations have progressed rapidly and were concluded yesterday, when the deed to the property was transferred from the N. & K. Holding Company (Kings County Trust Company) to the Massapequa Holding Corporation, of which Dr. Haight is President. Title to the property has now been guaranteed by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. and this assures proper title to all interests affected.

Those who hold deeds affected by the litigation will receive correction deed from Dr. Haight, and holders of contracts will receive their property on the payments of balances without interest. During the litigation all taxes have been paid and the property, according to well-informed real estate men, has increased materially in value. Within the last two years building all about Massapequa has greatly increased.

Nathan Hirsch, who as Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation did what he could to aid in the settlement at the time he was relinquishing office, said yesterday he was exceedingly pleased at the outcome of the Van Valen Corporation's efforts.

"It is almost too good to be true," he said. "I didn't think it could be done."

The counsel of record for Dr. Haight in the litigation was Prince & Loeb. Counsel for the Massapequa Holding Corporation, which has its office in the Times Building, is Green & Hurd. The counsel for the mortgagee is Thomas J. Meehan, and the Kings County Trust Company was represented by Brower, Brower & Brower.

IN ARMY FOR 51 YEARS, SERGEANT IS RETIRED

Master Sergeant William C. Garthwaite, said to have been the oldest man on active duty in the United States Army, was retired yesterday at the Army Building, 39 Whitehall Street, with a pension of $113.67 a month, after fifty-one years' service. Garthwaite's discharge, the tenth which he has received, was presented to him, with other official papers, by Brigadier General William Weigel.

"The separation from the army of men of your type," said General Weigel as he handed to Garthwaite the testamentary evidence of half a century of faithful service, "is a great loss to the army. Your record, your character and your soldierly qualities have been an inspiration to the younger men with whom you served."

Born in New York sixty-nine years ago, Garthwaite first enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1872, doing duty on shipboard. He was assigned to the China squadron and spent five years in that branch of the service, most of the time being in foreign lands.

In 1887 he enlisted in the Seventy-first Regiment, N. Y. N. G., and served as a non-commissioned officer until 1898, when he was commissioned a First Lieutenant. Following the Spanish-American War, he entered the regular army, enlisting in the Ninth Infantry. Thereafter he served with the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Infantries, participating in the campaign against the Moros in Mindanao.

Returning to the United States, he was sent to the School for National Guard Instructors at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and passed his examinations with an average of 93, ranking third in a class of nearly two hundred. He was then sent on detached service as instructor with the Wyoming National Guard.

In 1919 he re-enlisted with the Eleventh Infantry, and was transferred to recruiting service. When the United States entered the World War he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant. Later, as a First Lieutenant, he commanded Company F of the Forty-third Infantry. The regiment did not get overseas.

Garthwaite intends to live at Wichita, Kan.

JUDET, PARIS EDITOR, ON TRIAL AS TRAITOR

Former Director of L'Eclair Denies the Charge That He Aided Germans During War.

HE THREATENS REVELATIONS

But Says That He Will Not Name "Highest in the Land" Unless He Is Pushed to It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 27.—Six years after the date of his alleged crimes of high treason Ernest Judet, former Director of the Paris newspaper L'Eclair, appeared today here for trial. M. Judet, who is 76 years old, was smiling as he informed the court he was glad to appear before a jury of his countrymen. He intended, he said, to defend himself as steutly as he could without bringing into the case the names of others; but if he were pushed to it he threatened revelations.

The crime of which M. Judet is accused is that of having had relations with the enemy during the war, of having revealed important information to the Germans and of having spread German propaganda.

When Clemenceau came to power in France in 1917 and started to clear out all the Bolos, Almeyredas and others, had Caillaux arrested. Judet was among those suspected. But before any action against him was begun he left France and established himself in Switzerland, in a villa next door to the German Ministry. Letters of Von Jagow, Chief of the German intelligence Service during the war, telegrams and notes of Von Lazenken, a prominent German propagandist, seized in their passage between Judet in France and Swiss intermediaries have all been collected in the past five years and were laid on the table in court today, forming a huge pile.

The task of proving the old man's guilt is going to be a long and formidable one. After the usual reading of the text of the accusation and a statement by the Judge, Judet was asked if he wished to make any statement.

"Yes," he replied, "I have an important statement to make. I have come back from Switzerland because my honor was at stake. It is said that I know a great deal and will make a scandal. It is true that I know a great deal. I have been the confidant of men who have been the highest in the land. But they need not be alarmed. I do not seek to make any scandal, and unless I am pushed to it I shall keep silence.

"As always in cases in which the accusation is one of treason, the evidence turned almost at once on the question where Judet got his money. Accusations that he had spent enormous sums he described as lies and calumnies. The whole treason charge made against him, he said, was that he had defended the Republic against all its internal enemies, both on the Right and Left.

The prosecution has summoned five witnesses and the defense seventy-seven, among whom are a former President of the Republic, Emile Loubet; a former Premier, Paul Painlevé, and many other well known men such as Gabriel Hanotaux, Jules Cambon, Albert Thomas and Generals Malleterre and Lapauze.

PARIS COURT JAILS ROYALIST EDITOR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 27.—Charles Maurras, the real brains of the Royalist Party in France and Director with Leon Daudet of the newspaper Action Française, was condemned today by the Correctional Court to four months' imprisonment and a fine of 500 francs for having organized and given order for attacks on the Socialist Deputies Marius Moutet and Merk Sangnier, and former Minister Nollette last month when they were going to attend an anti-Royalist meeting.

With Maurras three young members of the Royalist League were also sentenced to terms of imprisonment and fined for their part in those incidents.

When the latter were arrested and sent for trial Maurras immediately came forward and declared that he must be tried with them, as it was he who gave the order for and organized the attacks.

Before the Court today he made a speech which was a political declaration in keeping with the Royalists' argument that they are not against the Government but simply critics of the Government because the latter does not sufficiently defend the interests of France. The demonstration of the "Camelote du Roi" on May 21 was absolutely necessary, he said, because the Government was doing nothing to check the spread of Bolshevism. "We succeeded to show to the adversaries of the constitution that they were running risks and that others were watching while the police were asleep," he concluded.

He made the claim for his followers that they, like the King, should be above the law, saying: "When the social contract is broken men return to a state of nature and retake their liberty. Resign yourselves, therefore, gentlemen, to having to allow us to act."

To this thesis the Public Prosecutor replied:

"If we apply these ideas we will end in civil war. Our social relations must be free. No group, no party or no individual is above the law, and it is for this tribunal to make that fact respected." And this the tribunal did by imposing the sentences mentioned.

URGE CENTRAL TICKET PLAN

Augustus Thomas, speaking for the Producing Managers' Association, said yesterday that the central ticket agency plan was certain to be put into operation at the beginning of the new theatrical season, despite recent reports that the idea had been dropped. At a meeting of the managers, held yesterday, a committee that has been working out details of the plan reported its findings to the organization, and urged the workability of the plan as originally outlined.

The central agency plan calls for the sale of tickets to all theatres over a common counter, and the consequent closing of theatre box offices during the hours when the central agency is open. One of the results of the new plan, if it is carried out as originally intended, will be the elimination of the present ticket brokers, but it is possible that a compromise will be arrived at whereby these will continue in existence.

CONFER ON I. R. T. PAY PLEA.

Decision on New Wage Scale Goes Over Until July 10.

A wage conference lasting six hours was held yesterday between a general committee of employes and President Frank Hedley of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. Another will be held on July 10. It was reported after the meeting that considerable progress had been made, but that there were several matters that had to be adjusted before definite conclusions could be reached.

A year ago when the contract expired the men voluntarily took a wage cut of 10 per cent., and it is understood that they want to recover this amount.

THE SCREEN

A War Against Narcotics.

HUMAN WRECKAGE, with Mrs. Wallace Reid, James Kirkwood, Bessie Love, George Backathorne, Claire McDowell, Robert McKim, Eric Mayne, Otto Hoffman and others, written by C. Gardner Sullivan, directed by John Griffith Wray; "Sea of Dreams," a fantasy; special prologue; "Ballet of the Addicts." At the Lyric.

To deliver a lecture through a motion picture against the traffic in drugs, Mrs. Wallace Reid appears in a film called "Human Wreckage," presented last night at the Lyric Theatre. It is a story that might appeal to an audience of those who need narcotics, but to the average person who has a night off and goes to the theatre for entertainment it is not pleasing.

A valiant attempt has been made to render this production effective, and James Kirkwood's performances in certain sequences is unusually good. The story, however, wanders along until it becomes tiresome, and the dramatic climax is spoiled. C. Gardiner Sullivan, who is responsible for the scenario, has at times left certain characters out of the story for so long that they are almost forgotten. One realizes throughout the story that there must be a great deal of truth in some of the details of the drug addict, inasmuch as Mrs. Reid has undoubtedly put in her personal experiences with other persons addicted to drugs.

The drug peddler is symbolized through double exposure by a hyena, who prowls throughout the scenes in ghostly form. Efforts are made to show how the drug is delivered to the various purchasers, either through hollow chocolate creams, the sole of a shoe, the legging of a boot and the inside of a book; but all seem to make so much fuss about getting the little piece of paper that through their suspicious conduct they might be more easily detected by the narcotic squad than if they brazenly took the drug by a shake of the hand. It seems rather overdrawn when the head of the drug ring sends an emissary miles to see that "Alan McFarland has what he needs."

The story concerns a tired lawyer who receives relief from a drug-taking physician, and eventually becomes an addict. After struggling and battling he is finally cured through the belief that his wife has also taken to the morphine habit. He officiates as the attorney for the narcotic squad and the head of the drug ring, once before acquitted, is finally convicted.

To last night's audience it brought neither tears nor sighs. The production is much too long, and certain sequences could easily be eliminated to the benefit of the film and thus give better continuity to the story.

Bessie Love is capable as one of the drug addicts, and Mrs. Reid's performance is appealing. Some of the city, State and Federal officials in the vicinity of Los Angeles have appeared in minor parts in the film. George E. Cryer, Mayor of Los Angeles, has the part of a city official; Judge Benjamin Bledsoe of the Twelfth Federal District is a jurist; Dr. E. R. Von Kleinsmid, President of the University of Southern California, is an educator, and Martha Nelson McCan, Los Angeles Park Commissioner, is a police official.

At the expiration of the show, Mrs. Reid was called upon to speak. She thanked her audience and hoped that the message through the screen would have effect.

Wm. A. Brady's First Productions.

William A. Brady's first productions of the new season will be a dramatization of Robert Keable's "Simon Called Peter," by Jules Eckert Goodman, with Kenneth McKenna in the leading role; "Chains," also by Jules Eckert Goodman, and in association with Wilmer and Vincent, "The Little Bigamist," by Barry Connors. William A. Brady Jr. will offer "The Earthquake," by Theodore Liebler Jr.

Craig Biddle Jr. to Make Film Debut

Craig Biddle Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle of Philadelphia, and well known here, will make his film debut as an "extra" in "Wandering Daughters," the screen version of Dana Burnet's story, which is to be presented at the Strand, beginning July 3.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Give and Take" and "Uptown West" will end their respective engagements this week.

Minta Durfee (Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle) will have a part in Will Morrissey's "The Newcomers," due here about July 23.

RESERVE BOARD SAYS INDUSTRY IS STRONG

MANY WAGE ADVANCES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Federal Reserve Board made public today a summary of general business and financial conditions based upon statistics for May and June which was interpreted here as an indication that the board did not find any alarming elements in the situation which might threaten a collapse of prosperity.

The board summed up its findings by declaring that the production and shipment of general orders continued in heavy volume during May, with the volume of employment sustained and many ward advances reported. The reports received showed that wholesale commodity prices declined during May and the early weeks of June.

As to the agricultural situation, the board found that the condition of Winter and Spring wheat was less favorable than a year ago and the condition of the cotton crop slightly better. Banking and credit conditions were reported to be in a highly satisfactory state.

"Production of iron and steel, cement and petroleum was larger in May than in any previous month, and mill consumption of cotton was close to maximum," the board says. "The high level of production in these industries, together with increases in practically all other reporting lines, is reflected in an advance of 2 per cent. in May in the Federal Reserve Board's index of production in basic industries.

"In the building industry there was a further decline in principal cities in the value of permits granted which represent prospective building operations. Contract awards, however, which represent actual current undertakings, continued to increase, though declines are reported in the New York and Chicago districts.

More Employed in Industry.

"This industrial activity has been accompanied by a slight increase of employment at industrial establishments. The demand for labor was also reflected in a larger number of wage advances during the thirty-day period ending May 15 than in any earlier month this year, and average weekly earnings in all reporting industries increased by 3.8 per cent. The advances were most general in the cotton, steel, meat packing and sugar refining industries.

"In agriculture the condition of both Winter and Spring wheat is reported less favorable than a year ago, while the condition of the cotton crop is slightly better than last year, owing entirely to more favorable growing conditions in Texas. A shortage of farm labor is reported from most sections of the country.

"Active distribution of commodities is indicated by heavy movement of merchandise and miscellaneous freight, and car loadings continued to exceed all previous records for this season. In certain lines of trade a decline in the volume of manufacturers' orders for future delivery is reported.

"The volume of both wholesale and retail trade was larger in May than in April. Among the wholesale lines sales of meat, hardware and shoes showed particularly large increases, while sales of clothing and dry goods decreased. The Federal Reserve Board's index of wholesale trade, which makes no allowance for seasonal changes, was 3 per cent. higher than in April and 14 per cent. higher than a year ago.

"Sales of department stores increased about 9 per cent. in May and all reporting lines of chain store business reported increases. Mail order sales were 6 per cent. less than in April, but were larger than in any previous May.

"Price declines were reported during May and the first three weeks of June for a large number of commodities. All of the nine groups in the Bureau of Labor statistics index, except food and housefurnishings, show decreases for May and the average for all commodities declined by 2 per cent.

Decline in Bank Loans.

"Loans of reporting member banks in principal cities, which had been increasing since the early part of the year, declined by $115,000,000 between May 16 and June 13. Bank holdings of Government securities, which increased by over $100,000,000 in connection with the Treasury transactions of May 15, later declined as the securities were distributed by the banks.

"These decreases in loans of member banks and the receipt during May of $45,000,000 of gold from abroad were accompanied by a decrease in the earning assets of Federal Reserve Banks of $130,000,000, for the four weeks ended June 21. At that time the volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit in use reached the lowest point since the opening of the year and approached the low point reached in August, 1922. Reserve Bank holdings of bankers' acceptances and Government obligations are now lower than at any time since early in 1922.

"The total volume of money in circulation increased by $38,000,000 between May 1 and June 1, the increase being chiefly in gold and silver certificates, rather than in Federal Reserve notes.

"Money rates continued to show a slightly easier tendency. The June 15 issue of $150,000,000 six months' Treasury certificates carried a rate of interest of 4 per cent., compared with 4¼ per cent. on a similar issue sold in March."

FIGHTS CORT'S DIVORCE.

Former Wife Charges She Never Heard Action Was Pending.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 27.—Maud Pealy Cort, former wife of John Cort, of Darien, today filed a motion in Superior Court asking to have a judgment by which her husband was granted a divorce vacated. Cort is the son of the New York theatrical manager.

Cort charged desertion. Mrs. Cort says she never received notice of the action and that she lives in the same block in which her husband resides. She further maintains that her husband has not been a legal resident of the State for three years, as he set forth in his divorce petition and testified in court in order to get the decree. She declares that she has lived with Cort in this State within the last two years.

Gladys Walton, Just Divorced, Weds

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 27.—Gladys Walton, motion picture actress, and Henry M. Herbel of New York, assistant sales manager of the company starring Miss Walton, were married here late last night. Refusal of the first three ministers sought to tie the knot delayed the ceremony. Miss Walton obtained her final decree of divorce from her first husband, Frank H. Liddell Jr., less than three weeks ago. The Rev. E. P. Hyland, pastor of a Hollywood Congregational Church, said the wedding ceremony at his home.

—it staggered New York!!

Blasé New York—or at least that portion of it which managed to pierce through the surging crowds trying to gain entrance to the Lyric Theatre last night—was staggered when it saw Mrs. Wallace Reid's tremendous photodrama, "Human Wreckage."

Never in history has any production made such an impression as did "Human Wreckage."

They sat spellbound as, with mighty crashes of human emotion, there was told on the screen the story with which Mrs. Wallace Reid is fighting the terrible monster which robbed her of everything.

"Human Wreckage" will play twice daily at the Lyric at 2:30 and 8:30 P. M. You, too, will acclaim it as a truly staggering spectacle of humanity's deepest weaknesses and most glorious strengths.

TRACY QUITS AS MANAGER

KEARNS SILENT ON PLANS

Special to The New York Times.

SHELBY, Mont., June 27.—Dan Tracy, recently appointed head of the Dempsey-Gibbons bout which is scheduled to be held here on July 4, resigned late this afternoon and returned to Great Falls. Tracy gave as his reason the apparent failure of the bout, the fact that the third $100,000 due Dempsey was not in sight and his disinclination to be a last-minute "goat" in the failure of the undertaking.

Just what effect Tracy's resignation will have on the ultimate holding of the bout is problematical. Jack Kearns, who is now in Shelby, refused to comment on the situation further than to say that he would demand the full payment of the third $100,000 on July 2, the date on which it falls due according to the original contract. Kearns, however, sent a wire tonight to a Mr. Grossman in Los Angeles asking him to come here at Kearns's expense and handle the moving picture situation. This is the only evidence available as to whether or not Kearns believes that the bout will be held.

Tracy was in Shelby as the representative of the Great Falls business men who subscribed $17,000 of the second $100,000, paid Dempsey on June 16. These men put up the money only after they had received a written agreement from the original promoters of the bout that Tracy would be allowed to come to Shelby and collect the first $17,500 which came in from the ticket sale.

Dismal Outlook.

Tracy stayed here ten days, and only a few hundred dollars were received. Figuring that there was no chance for him to get $17,500, he resigned and went back to report to his friends in Great Falls. Tracy is understood to have subscribed several thousand dollars toward the sum raised in Great Falls. Tracy said before leaving here that there was less than $300 in the fight treasury.

Railroad information here is that not more than 1,000 persons have signified their intention of coming to Shelby for the championship bout. This practically means that if the promoters and principals go through with the contest it is doomed to financial failure.

Mayor Jim Johnson, who probably is the most heavily involved of the various Shelby backers of the bout, said that Tracy's resignation would not affect the holding of the contest and that while he was sure now that the undertaking could not succeed financially, he was determined to go through with it. Johnson is understood to have given security for the $50,000 which was put up by George H. Stanton as half of the second payment.

Johnson said that he did not know where the third $100,000 was coming from but that he believed it would be available by July 2. Sheriff Joe Speer, another Shelby man who was connected with the origial promotion of the contest, also said that the contest was sure to be held as it was too late now to back out.

Tracy's resignation was not the only blow which the bout sustained today. Arthur Kelly, bookkeeper for the bout, today filed an attachment for $1,005 which he claims is due him for his services. It is learned on good authority here that Kelly's attachment may be withdrawn now that Tracy has resigned, since there has been some feeling here in Shelby that the Great Falls people were too insistent on the payment of the $17,500 to them and were showing more to say about handling the situation than their financial participation warranted.

Fred Searles, who came to Shelby with Tracy as assistant treasurer to Mayor Johnson and a member of the new business administration which took over the bout, will remain in Shelby and look after the Great Falls interests.

Speculation is rife here as to whether Jack Kearns will make good his threat and pull out if his third $100,000 is not forthcoming. Legally there would be nothing to prevent his doing so, it is said, but many seem to think that such action would have a bad effect on Dempsey's popularity in the sporting world and that Kearns would hesitate to take such action for that reason. Others argue, however, that Kearns has $210,000 in hand now and that withdrew there would be no chance of Dempsey's losing the championship. A Dempsey-Gibbons bout would be worth a great deal somewhere else and from a financial standpoint Kearns would be better off if the contest went by the board. Just what he will do is problematical, however, and says he will have nothing more to say until July 2.

"Kearns Will Be Paid."

Mayor Johnson gave out a formal statement to newspapermen late tonight in which he said:

"I have stated that the claims of Manager Kearns would be paid in full on July 2. I cannot change that. This little trouble arose over a labor bill which Mr. Tracy would not O. K., so payment was refused. Tracy was sent up from Great Falls to attend to these things and refused. The claim will be paid now.

"Tracy resigned to me. I appointed him, although it was said he was appointed by Great Falls business men. I met him at the station and he said: 'Jim, I've resigned.' I asked the reason and he said, 'Jim, there's nothing the matter. I am busy and cannot attend to this. Mr. Searles is here and will attend to all the details. Everything is entirely satisfactory. The money is not all here now but it will be here by July 2. We have lived up to all our obligations and will continue to do so. I am worth $310,000 in property and will willingly put it up to-night. I am confident that it will come back, but unfortunately it is not cash money. I have assurances that the final payment will be in hand. We have only heard from about $25,000 now—but it will be here.'

"The fight positively will be held. The ticket sales on July 4 will pay everything."

Gains Decision Over Beecher in 12 Rounds at Velodrome.

Vincent Pepper Martin, the Brooklyn lightweight, won a popular decision over Charlie Beecher of the east side in the twelve-round feature at the Velodrome last night. The verdict of Referee Eddie Purdy and Judges Mathison and Sussman came as a surprise and the crowd expressed its disapproval.

The referee cautioned Martin several times for hitting low. Martin weighed 131 pounds and Beecher 128. Beecher sustained a cut over the right eye in the third round while Martin suffered a bruised right ear in the tenth session.

There were 5,220 paid admissions and the receipts totaled $8,724.97.

The opening twelve-round bout brought together Terry Martin of Providence, 130½ pounds, and Harry London of Harlem, 131 pounds. The former won the decision. Al Norton of Yonkers, 182 pounds, and George Lavigne of California, 143½ pounds, came on the scene for the second six. Lavigne won the decision.

St. Paul Offers Jack Kearns $200,000 for Dempsey Bout

ST. PAUL, June 27.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, has been offered a $200,000 flat guarantee, with the privilege of 50 per cent. of the gate receipts, for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in St. Paul, if the promoters of the Shelby fight are unable to make good their contract, Jack Reddy, matchmaker of the St. Paul Boxing Club, has wired Jack Kearns this offer, according to a special dispatch to The St. Paul Dispatch today from Great Falls, Mont.

SHELBY, Mont., June 27.—No consideration is being given to offers for the Dempsey-Gibbons bout at this time, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, declared today, in connection with an offer from Jack Reddy, St. Paul promoter.

GREAT FALLS SEES END OF BOUT NEAR

From what can be learned, the only hope of saving the proposed contest from abandonment is the acceptance by Kearns of a financial adjustment which will relieve the tense money situation which now exists with regard to the bout. The withdrawal of Dan Tracy from the management of the bout, announced by Tracy this afternoon at Shelby, is accepted generally as a forerunner of an official announcement that the bout is off as far as Shelby is concerned.

Tracy's withdrawal stresses the precarious financial condition of the bout and the complicated state of affairs which surrounds the proposed match. One man who was associated closely with raising the money for the payment of Dempsey's second $100,000 on June 16 said tonight that the only hope of saving the bout is for Kearns to accept what amounts virtually to an exclusive right in the motion pictures of the fight in lieu of his third $100,000. This solution is improbable. At this writing it appears as if the bout will be declared off.

Tracy was on the train from Shelby which arrived here tonight at 8:30 (12:30 New York time), but left the train before it reached the regular station. It was said he left the train at West Great Falls, across the Missouri River, ostensibly in response to an urgent telephone call.

From another source, however, came reports of a fiery verbal clash between Tracy and State Senator James W. Speer, attorney for the promoters who resented Tracy's withdrawal at this stage of the bout as a death blow to the bout. The men are said to have exchanged heated words in an outbreak which probably would have culminated in a fist fight between Tracy and Speer but for the intervention of friends.

Art Strain, local department store owner, and John O'Neil, oil man, both of whom contributed toward the second $100,000, made the trip from Shelby with Tracy and Speer. Beyond admitting that the outlook for the bout was extremely dubious, neither would discuss the proposed contest.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, who was expected to return on the same train, was not in evidence. Kearns, according to Strain, missed the train in Shelby.

DEMPSEY WORKS OUT ON SLIPPERY CANVAS

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 27.—Skid chains were desirable equipment at the training camp of Jack Dempsey this afternoon, but since the non-skid apparatus was not available, the heavyweight champion had to proceed with his daily training stunt at the mercy of a canvas-covered outdoor ring which offered treacherous footing. Like the country hereabouts, Dempsey's open air training platform was drenched last night in a heavy downpour of rain. Not even the warm rays of a shining sun could repair the damage, and Dempsey had to add about an inch to his pedal extremities with no more sense of security than a flivver traveling the dangerous mud-soaked roads leading from the city to the camp.

Despite the handicap of poor footing, Dempsey got in a good workout. The titleholder went through nine fast rounds of actual work, six of which were spent in light sparring against the smaller boxers. Working in the outdoors Dempsey perspired freely and treated the gathering to an exhibition which convinced onlookers he was in shape and ready for battle. The champion's work was mostly of a defensive nature and for the purpose of increasing his speed.

Dempsey's workout consisted of two rounds of light bag punching to start the proceedings, followed by one round of shadow boxing and sparring two rounds each against Bermondsey Billy Wells, English welterweight; Lee Moore, Los Angeles featherweight, and Connie Curry, Sioux City bantamweight.

GIBBONS IMPRESSES IN TRAINING BOUTS

Special to The New York Times.

SHELBY Mont., June 27.—There are boxing critics who say that Tommy Gibbons cannot hit, but they will never convince Tillie (Kid) Herman of California and Chicago. The shifty Coast welterweight caught a right hook from Gibbons on the point of his chin this afternoon and toopplied into a clinch, saved from a knockout only by the leniency of the St. Paul boxer. The blow was typical of the eight rounds Jack Dempsey's challenger boxed this afternoon before the largest crowd which has been inside his training stockade. More than 1,000 persons, including a score of Blackfeet Indians in full war paint, braved a blazing sun to watch Gibbons do his daily stunt.

Chief Curly Bear and Chief Many Tail Feathers, with four of their favorite braves, sat close to the ringside. Stoically they watched the two white men inside the ropes. Not a sound did they make until Gibbons clipped Herman. Then, "Uh!" grunted Chief Curly Bear, and "Uh!" echoed each of his braves in turn.

Tomorrow Chief Curly Bear will adopt Tommy Gibbons into the Blackfoot tribe as the opening ceremony of the Shelby stampede and round up advertised as "The Last Great Romance of the West."

WILL PLAY SOCCER AT POLO GROUNDS

MAY GET YANKEE STADIUM

N. Y. S. C. Is Expected to Use American League Park—Also After Ebbets Field.

Professional soccer football is to hold sway in at least one of New York City's big baseball parks when the championship season of 1923 is ended. This was assured late yesterday when officials of the National Exhibition Company, owners of the New York Giants, and Secretary Thomas W. Cahill of the United States Football Association, the body governing the kicking game in this country, concluded negotiations which have been under way many months and which are calculated eventually to establish league soccer in all major league ball parks from the close of each baseball season to the start of the next.

The 1922-23 national soccer champions, the Paterson Football Club, will be the home club at the Polo Grounds, where soccer has not been played since the tour of the famous Pilgrims of England in 1905. Probably renamed more appropriately, the kicking machine owned by Adolf Buslik, will play its home games in the American Soccer League and in the national championships, known as the National Challenge Cup Competition, at the Polo Grounds.

May Get Yankee Stadium.

Following the lead of the Giants' management in establishing the leading Fall-to-Spring team sport at the Polo Grounds, it is expected that the Yankee Stadium will be made available to New York Soccer Club, which has had New York Oval for its home field, and that the Brooklyn National League Ball Park will become the home stand of the Brooklyn Wanderers, who have been campaigning on Hawthorne Field.

President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants last Fall sought to introduces soccer at the Polo Grounds, but no franchise in the Eastern professional league was available to him and insufficient time remained for him to have developed independently a first-class team for the season then getting under way. New York Soccer Club, with its own park across the Harlem, and protected by territorial invasion restrictions of a clause in the league rules, declined to sell out to the Giants' owners.

In a prolonged reorganization meeting of the League at the Hotel Astor last Saturday night and continuing far into Sunday morning, a new set of officers was elected and the territorial protection clause was altered, over the New York Soccer Club's protest, to permit of the transfer of the franchise held by the National title-owning Paterson club to New York City.

In a conference on Tuesday attended by Buslik, Cahill, Stoneham, Jim Coffey, Secretary Tierney of the Giants and Sam Crane, veteran baseball player and writer and professional soccer enthusiast, arrangements were made for the Paterson club's use of the Polo Grounds on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays throughout the Winter season of 1923-24, and articles of agreement were signed by the Paterson club owner and the owners of the Polo Grounds yesterday, according to an announcement made last night.

Ebbets Field May Be Secured.

New York Soccer Club's retaliatory move, it was said yesterday by Manager Hugh Magee, will likely be to arrange to play its home league and cup competition matches in the Yankee Stadium, and Jonathan Agar, who heads the Brooklyn Wanderers, expressed the view that Ebbets Field would be procured for the home games of his team.

"I believe soccer is the coming Fall-to-Spring outdoor sport of the nation," said Stoneham last night. "It is one of the most thrilling of all team sports and has come to be played with great proficiency by American young men, and dozens of the leading stars of the game in England and Scotland and Sweden have come to this country in the last year. Thus a high standard of play is assured to American fans, and I am confident the game's presentation under suitable conditions in the big league ball parks will vastly increase its public following, which has grown to goodly proportions in recent years."

Fred J. Smith of the Todd Shipyards Athletic Association, Brooklyn, is the newly elected American Soccer League President, succeeding W. Luther Lewis, Auditor of Bethlehem Steel Company. T. W. Cahill of New York City and W. C. Cumming of Pawtucket are Vice Presidents, and M. F. Kelly of New York City, Secretary.

ATHLETICS TO OPEN SERIES AT STADIUM

After a day of idleness the Yankees will return to the stadium this afternoon and the first attraction will be the Athletics, leading contenders in the American League race. Connie Mack and his band of pennant chasers will open a four-game series. Thus far the Athletics are leading in the series, having won four out of the six games played.

The Athletics are only five games behind the Yankees and a sweep in the series for the Philadelphians will do much to tighten up the race in the junior circuit. The Athletics have been crippled for the past two weeks, having Hauser, Bush man; Miller, outfielder, and Hale, third baseman, on the injured list. In addition, Naylor, the star pitcher of the year for Manager Mack, has been crippled, having pulled a tendon in his right leg. Rommel, last year's sensation, also has been ill, but has returned to the game and is reported ready to take his regular turn.

Hasty and Harris are ready for pitching service and there is a chance that Rube Walberg, the Portland southpaw who was turned back by Manager McGraw a few weeks ago but picked up by the Athletics, will get into one of the games during the series. Walberg has won a regular berth by his sensational work during his brief stay with the Athletics. Naylor also may be in condition to start one of the games.

The Yankees will not be caught napping. Shawkey probably will draw the opening assignment. Joe Bush also is a likely selection. Bush has been pitching brilliantly of late and is the most reliable man on the staff. Mays and Jones will be ready for emergency roles. Pennock is almost certain to start one of the games.

This is one of the most important series of the year for the Yankees. It is their chance to break the spirit of the Philadelphians and thus eliminate one of their most dangerous opponents. Huggins fully realizes the importance of the series and has his men on edge for the clash. Ruth will be ready, and judging from the form he displayed against the Red Sox last Tuesday in Boston, will do his part.

Yanks Win Exhibition Game.

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 27.—The New York Yankees defeated the Haverhill All Collegians in an exhibition game here today by a score of 12 to 5. Pipgras and Ruth pitched for the Yanks and Bengough caught. Horan twirled for the local team.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

VICTORS' NINTH STRAIGHT

Six Pitchers, Three for Each Club, Work in Game In Which 36 Hits Are Made.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 27.—In an eleven-inning game here today the Giants won from the Braves by a score of 15 to 8, the champions making seven runs in a rabid attack on the offerings of Joe Genewich in the eleventh. The most potent blow in this attack was a home run by Ross Young, which, coming with two men on the base paths, really settled the combat in the Giants' favor. It was the ninth straight victory for the champions.

Genewich was the third Boston pitcher to face the Giants, Rube Marquard having been knocked out in the seventh inning and Harry Benton having been withdrawn because of his wildness in the ninth. The victors were not without their pitching troubles, either, for Jack Scott, who started, was battered savagely in the sixth inning, and Bill Ryan, his successor, could not survive the seventh inning. Ryan's defection caused Hughie McQuillan to be inducted into the game, and so well did McQuillan pitch that the Braves were stopped short and thereafter could make only two inconsequential hits.

It was a game which was marked by ragged fielding by the Braves and spectacular fielding by the Giants—Frank Frisch in particular, making two remarkable plays. One of these was his stop of a smash by Felix in the third inning and the other a running one-hand catch of Marquard's liner in the fifth. The game was prolonged by Ryan's ineffectiveness in the seventh inning and by McQuillan's failure to touch second base, thus breaking up a Giant rally in the tenth inning.

Giants Get Busy.

Each side missed scoring chances in the first three innings, but the Giants went into action in earnest in the fourth. Frisch singled to right and Meusel beat out a hit to Conlon. Young tossed a sacrifice into the offensive and Kelly completed it with a single to left, on which Frisch and Meusel scored.

This lead was wiped out when the Braves amassed five runs in the sixth. Nixon led off with a single to left. Fe-lix was hit on the right arm with a pitched ball, the injury forcing him to retire from the game at the close of the inning.

Southworth attempted to sacrifice but converted his bunt into a base hit because Scott failed to field it, waiting for Jackson to do it himself. Jackson had gone over to cover third base. Mc-Innis lifted a sacrifice fly to Meusel on which Nixon scored. Earl Smith walked, and for the second time in the inning Conlon's throw to Kelly was late and scored two more runs. With one out, Bancroft singled off Genewich's gloved hand. Ruether fouled to Rapp and Neis singled. Johnston tripled, scoring Berg and Neis.

Neis and Johnston Lead Attack on Three Pitchers—Each Makes a Home Run.

RUETHER TWIRLS STEADILY

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—The Phillies opened a long home stand this afternoon, and took a trouncing at the hands of the Brooklyn Robins, who won the game by a score of 15 to 5. In hanging up their one-sided victory the Robins fattened their batting averages by collecting twenty-one hits. Neis made a home run, two doubles and a single and Johnston picked up a homer, a triple and a two-bagger and drew one pass. Weinert, Head and Mitchell were the pitchers who performed for Arthur Fletcher's team, and Dutch Ruether twirled all the way for the Robins. The Brooklyn southpaw went along smoothly.

Moe Berg, the shortstop recently obtained by the Robins from Princeton University, who yesterday played against Yale, made his debut in the seventh inning and made one hit. He ended the game by catching a line drive off Williams's bat, and threw to first for a double play.

The Robins did not lose any time in starting their assault on Weinert, as in the opening inning they launched five singles and added a pass, scored four runs. Neis was disposed of, but Johnston drew a pass and took second when Wheat bounced a single past Rapp. Fournier singled and Johnston scored. Bailey sent Wheat home with a single, and, after Taylor filed to Lee, McCarren singled and Fournier counted. Olson followed with another one-bagger, and Bailey scored. Ruether closed the frame by striking out.

Two more runs were chalked up by the Robins in the second inning. Neis led off with a double to left and Johnson followed with a drive into the left-field bleachers. The ball was tossed out on the field by a spectator, but Johnson was allowed to go around the base paths and Neis scored in front of him. After Wheat was retired, Fournier made his second single of the game, but there was no further scoring.

In their half of the same inning the Phillies picked up an earned tally after two were out. Holke doubled off the scoreboard and came home when Rapp bounced a single off Johnson's gloved hand. Weinert was chased off the slab in the third session. McCarren and Olson walked, and then Neis hit to left field. The ball bounced into the stands for a home run. Ralph Head succeeded Weinert and the Robins did not score off him until the next inning, when they pounded him off the mound. Bailey singled and Taylor doubled. Both scored when Olson singled. Neis and Johnston followed with doubles, and two more runs scored. Johnson's blow sent Head out of the game, and Clarence Mitchell, the former Robin twirler, was called to the box.

Mitchell walked the first three men to face him in the seventh, but a double play started by him helped retire the side scoreless. In the eighth frame, however, the Robins bunched three hits and scored two more runs. With one out, Berg singled off Mitchell's gloved hand. Ruether fouled to Rapp and Neis singled. Johnston tripled, scoring Berg and Neis.

AMERICANS ADVANCE IN WIMBLEDON PLAY

JOHNSTON ALSO TRIUMPHS

MRS. MALLORY VICTORIOUS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 27.—The Americans had another good day at Wimbledon. The lawn tennis tournament program was diversified by earlier matches in the women's singles, and Mrs. Mallory and other American women were just as successful as their countrymen, W. T. Johnston, Vincent Richards and F. T. Hunter. Miss Ryan was also a victor.

Some of the most interesting games of the afternoon were provided by the male stars who held their own in popularity even with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen. That famous star made her first appearance in England this season and easily beat Miss Peggy Ingram, a young English girl, by two love sets. Miss Ingram, however, made a better fight than the score suggests. She naturally was a bit overwhelmed by playing in the centre court against a woman champion, but her neat backhanded placing suggests that there is a fine tennis future in store for her. The feature of the matches which Johnston and Richards won was the astonishingly stiff fight which both their opponents put up in the last sets. There was never any doubt that the Americans would win, but the Englishman in each case betrayed the strongest kind of objection to being out.

Johnston had against him R. D. Watson, a player of merit from New Castle but not of outstanding reputation. He took the first set, 6 to 3, and the second, 6 to 4, and it then seemed all over, but Watson declined to admit it and in the final set kept equalising the score, game by game, until he had actually brought it to 7 all before Johnston's real superiority won. He could not have done this if the American had been showing his form of two years ago.

Watson a Sound Player.

Watson is a sound player but would never be expected to show himself equal to the hurricane tactics with which Johnston is associated. Yet today he did not hesitate to take the offensive and scored frequently by driving hard to his opponent's left. Johnston was indeed putting out more energy than in his easy victory over E. Higgs yesterday, and his forehand drive and cross volleying were as deadly as ever but the general idea was that he was deliberately saving himself for tougher matches yet to come. Nevertheless, Watson may well congratulate himself on that third set. Johnston had got away comfortably with the first two and coming up a little from the baseline easily dominated the play in the first game of the third set, but then Watson captured the next two and came out splendidly in a long smashing rally at the beginning of the first.

Four times in succession Johnston from the back of the court tried to hit over Watson's head and four times the Englishman made hard returns. The last one beat the American and he was able only to hit into the net. However, Johnston then recovered and took that and two other games. Watson then brought the score to 4—all and the fortunes of fight oscillated till 7 all was called. Both players were hitting their hardest and placing cleverly. The match was lost and won in the fifteenth. With long, exciting rallies the score went to deuce. Watson lost the advantage and Johnston got himself to win in the next rally. He kept working nearer and nearer to the net and at last flashed an impossible one past his opponent.

The final game was short. Johnston let loose his swiftest service. He made a double fault, but it made no difference. Watson was beaten but not disgraced. Curiously similar was Vincent Richards's experience with S. M. Jacob, All-India player, whom he defeated Saturday in the final of the London championship at the Queen's Club. He took the first two sets at 6—3 each, but the last cost him 8 to 6 before he could gather it in. Jacob is a strong, steady player who delights in a baseline game. He hits hard the full length of the court and places well. His weak point is a tendency to hit out, and today it was accentuated by finding himself opposite a young man who likes to battle him. The first set was hardly well begun when Richards, tired of fielding long drives, started to work netward. This annoyed Jacob, and he tried to do so, too, but Richards was smarter at this style of play and easily kept the upper hand.

Richards Captures the Set.

The score stood in the American's favor by one point, but then Jacob took one more game. With his honest, sober driving Richards came back in the next and so captured the set. He took, likewise, the first three games of the second set. He had discovered that if he were content merely to play Jacob's long-distance drives the Anglo-Indian was sure to hit out sooner or later, but these defensive tactics were not so easy. Jacob is a master of placing, and Richards could never have kept rallies going were it not for his backhand work, for in this he was superb and it carried him to victory again and again.

Jacob got the fourth game by quick hitting past Richards as he came up, and fortune began to alternate. Jacob started in to try forcing tactics also, and the next few games were much more lively, but the American's superior quickness could not be denied and he took the second set also. Then he struck a bad interval and the supporters of Jacobs felt their hopes run high as he reeled off three games in succession. Richards seemed more anxious than at any other period, and it was only with effort that he pulled himself together and equalized. His service was now bothering Jacob. Jacob did his best. As he increased his vigor his opponent did likewise. From then until Richards captured the match by taking the third set, 8 to 6, there was really little to choose between the players. The victor perhaps congratulated himself on the curious vein of inaccuracy which seems to crop out in Jacob's play at the most critical moments.

Other Americans playing today got through their rounds without much difficulty. Miss Leslie Bancroft indeed had to go out to beat Mrs. McTiguharn 2—6, 6—0, 8—6, and Francis T. Hunter surprised the spectators by losing his first set to V. Burt, 6—7 before taking the next three, 6—0, 6—1 and 6—3, but Mrs. Mallory found no difficulty in putting out Miss H. L. Eddis, 6—3, 6—2, while Miss Ryan disposed of Mrs. G. B. Goodes, 6—1, 6—0.

Tomorrow on the centre court Richards will play J. Brugnan, French star, and Mrs. Mallory will meet Mrs. Edgington.

Mlle. Lenglen Easy Victor.

WIMBLEDON, June 27 (Associated Press).—There were no surprises in the play for the world's tennis championships at Wimbledon this afternoon, and only one big thrill—this was when Suzanne Lenglen, appeared in the Stadium, which was crowded almost to capacity, to start after her fifth successive world's title. She began in characteristic manner, winning every game of the two-set match from Miss Peggy Ingram, the daughter of one of England's old international players.

Miss Kachleen Mahaney, Great Britain's best woman player and the one who is considered to have the best chance of dethroning the long reigning Lenglen, was responsible today for the only setback suffered by the American delegation of eleven players—eight women and three men. Miss McKane pushed aside Miss Katherine Gardner, of Cambridge, Mass., with the loss of only one game out of thirteen. Of the other Americans, three were idle today and all the rest won their matches, most of them without much difficulty.

If Johnston and Richards win their matches tomorrow they will meet in the next round. There is another game in which an American will eliminate an American, as Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston and Miss Martha Bayard of New Jersey, both of whom won their games today, seem headed for a collision the latter part of the week. Miss Bayard plays Miss E. H. Clark tomorrow.

The three Americans whose first matches are delayed until tomorrow are Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Eleanora Sears and Miss J. L. Mumford of Boston. It was hoped to reduce the survivors in the men's singles to thirty-two by tonight, but more rain fell, delaying play in the afternoon. The survivors include Lacoste, Campbell, Brugnon, Wheatley and Norton, as was expected.

B. I. C. Norton of South Africa and W. C. Crawley, British Davis Cup player, both of whom intend to go to the United States soon to enter the championships, advanced another round today. Count de Gomar defeated T. Bevan of England, 4—6, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3, and Carl Caminos, the last of the Argentine Davis Cup players entered, was eliminated by J. T. Baines, the old English star, at 6—4, 6—4, 6—3.

SWEETSER IS GOLF VICTOR.

Jess Sweetser, National Amateur Golf champion, was the victor in the one-day tournament which was played on the course of the Quaker Ridge Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., under the auspices of the Westchester County Golf Association yesterday. Sweetser was playing from scratch in the handicap event, but accounted for a splendid 72 which gave him low net honors. The champion went out in 37 and came in in 35, being just 2 over par for the course. In view of the strong wind that was blowing across the course throughout the round, Sweetser's performance was the more remarkable.

Leo Oppenheim of the Quaker Ridge Club was the winner of second honors, his card being 82, 15—73. Johnny Anderson was third on the list, with a 17, 2—75. Fifty players competed in the event.

TWO COLUMBIA MEN TENNIS SURVIVORS

JERRY LANG ELIMINATED

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 27.—The semi-final round of the national intercollegiate lawn tennis championship was reached today on the courts of the Merion Cricket Club, with two Columbians and one representative each of Harvard and the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy constituting the occupants of the four brackets.

Frank T. Anderson, No. 1 man on the Blue and White team, who put out the titleholder, Kuelen Williams of Yale, on Tuesday, advanced after a severe struggle with John Howard of Princeton at 4—6, 8—6, 6—3.

Gerald Emerson, captain of the Columbia team, gained a splendid victory over James Davies of Stanford at 6—4, 6—2.

Jerry Lang, the third member of the New York team to reach the round before the semi-finals, went down before W. W. Ingraham of Harvard in an unusual three-set match that was decided at 6—1, 3—6, 6—1.

Carl W. Fischer of the College of Osteopathy was the fourth survivor. He eliminated Phillips Bettens of California, 6—4, 6—2.

Tomorrow at 4 o'clock Emerson will meet Ingraham, and at 5 Anderson will face Fischer.

Team Survivors in Doubles.

The play in the doubles has reached the round before the semi-finals, with the following colleges represented by the teams left in the running: Harvard (two teams), Pennsylvania, Yale, Stanford, Texas and Columbia. Wallace Bates and Bettens of California will meet W. S. Watt and A. N. Wilder of the Oxford team tomorrow to determine the occupant of the eighth bracket.

The conditions of the play today were ideal for tennis. The heavy rainfall last night brought the torrid heat to an end and there was just enough wind to make it cool. By the time that the Anderson-Howard match went on, 5 o'clock, the wind had died down almost completely.

Anderson was in the mood and condition to play his best tennis in this contest. Against Williams yesterday he had suffered considerably from the weather and was tired and worn after the first set. From the manner in which he started again it looked as though he would race through to victory. He took the first eight points in the match, sending his crashing service across for seven and kibbing off what few good returns Howard made.

The ease with which he had won these two games made the Columbian a bit overconfident, and when Howard suddenly speeded up his play Anderson was caught unprepared and lost the third game at love, hitting into the net twice. Howard's work in this game and for the rest of the set was strongly reminiscent of Vincent Richards, whom he resembles in appearance. His service flashed across the net with almost as much speed behind it as Anderson put on his, and the manner in which he followed in behind it and finished off the returns was as pretty as anything Richards has done.

Anderson Loses First Set.

For the next four games the play was even, Howard broke through in the eighth, which he won at love, when Anderson volleyed the ball into the net four times in succession in returning service, and the score stood four-all. The Princeton man broke through and broke through again in the tenth for the set when Anderson made two double faults.

It looked bad for the Blue and White representative when he lost the first two games at the second set, the first entirely on errors and the second partly on Howard's dazzling returns of service. Now was the time for Anderson to show the fighting spirit that had carried him through to victory against Williams. He won the third, when Howard made three double faults, and the fourth with the help of a placement and a service ace. The next four games went on service, Anderson winning the eighth after Howard had the advantage.

The Princeton player now ran into a streak of errors, many of them forced, as Anderson picked the openings for his shots with accuracy. The Columbian broke through for the ninth, after trailing at 0—40, Howard volleying the ball into the net four times and hitting out once. Anderson took the set in the tenth, when his crashing service won two points for him.

The third set found the Columbian in his best form. He had little difficulty in going through it quickly, allowing Howard only three more games.

Emerson in Fine Form.

Emerson's brilliant work at the net and his strength off the back hand stood out in his victory over Davies. His work within the service court was the best he has shown all week. Davies found it almost impossible to get anything past him. And anything the New Yorker got his racquet on was put away in conclusive fashion. The Californian played to the other's back hand constantly, hoping to find a weakness there, but instead it proved to be one of Emerson's best hitting weapons. It was with his back hand passing shots with which he put Davies's net attack to rout, crossing him again and again as he sought to reach the barrier.

Lang never was able to find himself against Ingraham except for a part of the second set. He made errors constantly and double faulted on service in the most discouraging manner. In the fifth game of the third set he made five double faults.

Ingraham's decisive stroking and good work at the net enabled him to smother all opposition in the first set. Lang's returns were hitting the top of the net and he seldom was able to do what he wanted to do, even when he had a clear court before him.

In the second set the Blue and White man dominated the play from the barrier, where he volleyed and smashed overhead in highly effective fashion. But after taking this set at 6—3 he fell off again in the third, which was a repetition of the first. Ingraham ended matters quickly at 6—1.

The match between Fischer and Bettens was the longest of the day and furnished tennis of the most spectacular character. It was Fischer's brilliant work at the net that enabled him to finally overcome the Californian. After they had held the gallery absorbed for close to two hours.

The summaries:

Singles, Fourth Round—Gerald Emerson, Columbia, defeated James Davies, Leland Stanford, 6—1, 6—3; W. W. Ingraham defeated Jerry Lang, Columbia, 6—1, 3—6, 6—1; Frank Anderson, Columbia, defeated John Howard, Princeton, 4—6, 8—6, 6—3; William Fischer, Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, defeated Philip Bettens, California, 6—4, 6—2.

Doubles, Second Round—Lucien Williams and Arnold Jones, Yale, defeated Louis B. Dailey Jr. and Richard Lewis, Princeton, 6—2, 6—3; Andrew Morgan and William Lingelbach Jr., Pennsylvania, defeated J. N. Lowry and J. Lesard, Cambridge-Oxford, 7—5, 6—4; W. W. Ingraham and Morris Duane, Harvard, won by default from Alan R. Devine and E. F. Young, Colgate; George Guild and Karl Pfaffman, Harvard, defeated E. S. Baker and Linton, Swarthmore, 6—3, 6—4; Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer, Texas, defeated M. P. Horne and C. Ramaswami, Cambridge, 6—2, 7—5.

KYNASTON REACHES SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Defeats Kuhn in Queensboro Tennis Tourney, 6-3, 6-4—Major Advances.

Percy L. Kynaston, the defending titleholder, and Douglas Major earned the right to meet this afternoon in the semi-final round for the Queensboro championship by winning their fifth round matches in the tennis tournament at the Kew Gardens Country Club, Kew Gardens, L. I., yesterday. Leonard Knox also won his way into the semi-finals and will fight it out this afternoon with Howard Voshell who won his way into the round earlier in the week. In the doubles play the feature came when Hugh Oakley and William M. Fischer eliminated Anton F. Von Bernuth and Knox in their second round match after three hard-fought sets.

Kynaston secured his fifth round match by defeating E. H. Kuhn in straight sets at 6—3, 6—4. The titleholder was on his game yesterday which turned out to be a good thing, as Kuhn furnished the stiffest opposition he has had to face so far in the tournament. However, Kynaston was able to keep the ball in hand by his splendid forehand volleying and his ability to make seemingly impossible gets from all angles of the court. Kuhn was kept constantly on the defense by the champion's placements which were accurately cut to the open spaces of the opposite court and on the base lines.

Singles, Fifth Round—Leonard Knox defeated Hugh Oakley, 8—6, 6—2, 6—1; Percy L. Kynaston defeated E. H. Kuhn, 6—3, 6—4; Douglas Major defeated William M. Fischer, 6—3, 6—4.

WHITBECK ANNEXES LAWN TENNIS TITLE

Both of the youthful contestants showed an all-round proficiency that compared favorably with the work of collegians. The stroking on both sides of the net was clean and severe at all times, neither man showing any hesitancy in hitting boldly for the point, no matter how much was at stake. The service of both carried sting, though at times it was a bit wild, and splendid recoveries were the usual thing. Playing at a fast pace and giving frequent exhibitions of spectacular volleying at the net, the two schoolboys put up a match that held the close attention of the large gallery.

Whitbeck, bending low in a crouching position, was an interesting figure as he followed in behind his service and forcing shots to the net, where he gave one of the best exhibitions of volleying seen here all week. It was his decisively angled placements made from the barrier that enabled him to take the first set, after Watson had held his own in the back court driving, in which the Andover youth showed a beautifully effective backhand crossing shot. The first three games of this opening frame went to deuce.

In the second set Watson went to the front and dominated the play so convincingly after the second game that it looked as though he would be the ultimate winner. After the Loomis youth had taken the first and second games Watson captured three in a row. Whitbeck took the sixth and seventh games, but the Andover player came back strong and ran out three games in a row for the set, taking the eighth at love with a brilliant exhibition of volleying and overhead work. In the ninth at 5—1 when his opponent made two double faults and an out and a net, and the tenth at 5—3, after Whitbeck had pulled up to deuce from 15—40. Two backhand shots by the latter that went into the net gave the game and the set to his opponent.

In the third set the first three games went to deuce. After trailing at 15—40, Watson broke through for the first at 5—3, lost the second at 6—4 and took the third at the same score. He increased his lead to 5—1 in the fourth, entirely on errors, three of them off service, and was leading at 40—15 in the fifth, only to lose the game at 7—5. Whitbeck now went to the front again and captured the next four games in a row for the set at 6—3.

The fourth set went quickly. Whitbeck ran out three games in a row, doing fine work overhead and profiting by his opponent's errors. Watson sent across two passing shots in the fourth, playing his opponent's back hand, and took the game at 40—15. The next two went to Whitbeck, each at 4—2. Watson made a last fine effort to stave off defeat. After double faulting for the first point in the seventh, he made two volleys and a kill and took the game when Whitbeck returned his service into the net. He then broke through for the eighth at 6—4, and it looked as though there might be a chance of the match going to five sets when he led at 40—30 on the other's service in the ninth, but Whitbeck steadied and took the next three points for the game, set and match.

Herbert Bowman won two matches in the Travers Island tennis tournament yesterday on the courts of the New York Athletic Club and gained a place in the semi-finals along with Walter Merrill Hall and Alexander Iler, who were also successful in their matches yesterday. Bowman won a decisive victory in the fourth round when he met and conquered Charles Anderson at 6—0, 6—0. He had little more trouble in beating Manfred Goldman a little later at 6—2, 6—4.

Iler's success came at the expense of Paul Martin, who gave the winner a hard battle all the way, but finally succumbed at 4—6, 6—3, 14—12, while Hall eliminated Hugh Tallant in the round before the semi-finals at 6—2, 6—3. The only bracket to be filled in the semi-finals is the one in which Dr. Rosenbaum and Isadore Blitchik will strive to place their names in the play this afternoon.

The Iler-Martin match was easily the most exciting of the day and at times the most brilliant. Iler dropped the first set at 4—6 after working his service with splendid success in the early games. Martin finally broke through and, by his strong work at the back court, where he volleyed to alternate corners of his opponent's baseline with strong, accurate drives, captured the games which accounted for the set. Iler came back in the third to win the second set, and twice broke through his opponent's service, capturing the set at 6—3. The third set was the one that caused the excitement. Both players were striving with their best strokes to take the match, but each was winning on service with systematic regularity.

Iler finally broke through and won the deciding game after the set had been extended to 26 games, the final score being 14—12.

The summary:

Fifth Round—Walter Merrill Hall defeated Hugh Tallant, 6—2, 6—3; Herbert Bowman defeated Manfred Goldman, 6—2, 6—4; Alexander Iler defeated Paul Martin, 4—6, 6—3, 14—12.

NAVY VARSITY FAVORITE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27.—The fifteen crews which will compete in varsity, junior varsity and freshman intercollegiate races on the Hudson tomorrow had their last light drill this afternoon.

Swinging the stroke oar in the Washington shell was Dow Walling, the oarsman whose condition has caused much speculation in the rowing camps and among the followers of the water sport who have already arrived here. It was the first time since last Saturday that Walling has been in the Purple and Gold shell, as he has been severely troubled with an infection in his right knee.

"Walling has lost a great deal through the injury and by being forced to remain idle," said Coach Russell Callow as he stood on the float after having taken his crew a mile and a half up the river and back at an easy 32. "As things stand now, however, Walling will stroke the Washington varsity tomorrow. We thought that we had a good chance when we came here from the coast, but our opportunity to win has been taken away. We will do the best we can. I hope that we won't disappoint the people back home."

The carbuncle on Walling's knee has swollen that part considerably. It was securely bandaged when he stepped into the finely built Pocock shell this afternoon for the final practice to the event for which the Huskies have traveled across the continent. After the spin he said that he felt all right and that his leg was not stiff. His face showed, however, that his knee was giving him pain.

France, who has been stroking the varsity in Walling's absence, went back to his old seat at No. 4, and Keith Enloe, the substitute at No. 4, went out of the boat. It depends on Walling's condition tomorrow whether he will row. He probably will. Washington's chances are not entirely wrecked.

Poughkeepsie in Regatta Attire.

Tonight Poughkeepsie is beginning to take on a regatta day aspect. But the crowd will not arrive until tomorrow—and then thousands of persons will come into this city. By nightfall most of them will be on their way home again. Special trains and special steamers, private yachts, private automobiles and buses will bring in a crowd which is expected to eclipse the record. It is predicted that more than 50,000 persons will see the regatta.

On the eve of the event the Navy rules favorite. Yet there are many who do not believe that the performance of the service crew this season justifies that choice. The Navy adherents stand by their offer of even money against one designated crew. They demand odds against the field. There have been wagers placed at 7 to 5 and at 8 to 5 on this basis. But in general there is little betting to do. Every one expects that the race will be extremely close. It is believed that there will not be open water between any of the first four crews.

Young Dick Glendon says that his eight is not so good as last year's. Studies of their record this season and of their exhibitions on the river here seem to justify this assertion. Yet the Navy is fast. Whether it is fast enough to achieve a third successive victory for the midshipmen in as many Poughkeepsie starts is the question which is being argued intently by groups in the hotel lobbies here tonight.

Indications are that the weather will be favorable for the races. It was much cooler here today with a refreshing breeze blowing from the northwest, and if conditions tomorrow equal those of today, water and weather will be fine for the regatta.

The first race will be the two-mile contest for the junior varsity crews of Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Columbia. This will start at 4:15 o'clock, daylight saving time, with Cornell in the No. 1 lane, which is nearest the observation train on the west shore; Pennsylvania in No. 2 position, Syracuse in No. 3 and Columbia in No. 4.

The freshman race, also over the two-mile course, will be started at 5 o'clock, with Penn rowing nearest the bank and Cornell, Syracuse, Washington and Columbia in that order.

The start of the three-mile varsity race will be made at 6 o'clock if conditions are satisfactory. Referee Julian W. Curtiss and Morton G. Bogue, Chairman of the Board of Stewards, spent this morning in calling at the boathouses, giving the coxswains instructions. Washington has the inside course in the senior event, with Penn in favored No. 2 position and Cornell, Navy, Columbia and Syracuse ranging outward in that order.

Syracuse, unheralded earlier in the season, has loomed as a possible winner. The big, heavy eight which the veteran Coach Ten Eyck has developed may make a strong bid for first place. The Orange flotilla was on the river late this afternoon practicing starts, as were the eights of the other colleges, and the senior combination looked fine. It has more than looks. It has the brawn to carry it over the three miles in the varsity race and the power to give battle to the best on the stream.

Columbia men are hopeful. They believe that they have the best varsity since 1914. Their high riding shell gives the Blue and White a certain advantage in rough water and the crew has made excellent time rowing under such conditions. Coach Rice gave the oarsmen two light workouts today. The men are in perfect condition. Columbia may come into its own tomorrow.

Cornell an Enigma.

Columbia's old rival in rowing, Cornell, is even more of an enigma. Maybe the big red varsity, recently shaken up, may prove to be the sensation of the regatta, and possibly it will have a battle to keep from being a tail ender. Pennsylvania, with its lightweight varsity is not rated among the probable leaders. Three miles may prove to be a killing distance for the Red and Blue oarsmen.

Not for many years has the business of picking the likely winners been more problematical. The upset of the Washington boat has aided in producing this situation.

In the junior varsity contest Syracuse is favored by the majority. Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania are rated in that order. The rangy Washington freshmen, averaging well over six feet to the man, may beat the Cornell first-year men, but if they do the young huskies will have to row in very fast time.

Coach Joe Wright has replaced Rose, the coxswain of the Pennsylvania junior varsity, with Edward Shumway. The new coxswain was in his place today as the juniors went through the light practice sessions.

The coast guard cutter Seneca arrived off the Highlands late this afternoon and will patrol the course tomorrow. All yachts and excursion boats have been ordered to get in position to the eastward of the course one hour before the start of the first race. On board the stewards' boat will be members of the Board of Stewards, a delegate from each institution represented in the races, and Referee Curtiss.

Targets bearing the numbers of the courses have been affixed to the railroad bridge as a guide to the coxswains. The varsity race will start from a line off the Columbia boathouse and will finish a little below the Cornell quarters. The finish for the junior and freshman races is at the same point. But the start is one mile further south.

The best courses in the races depend entirely upon the weather and the tide. The tide will be at its height about 3 o'clock tomorrow, and the varsity contest will be rowed at the full strength of the ebb. The Hudson at this point has queer pockets and eddies. All of the lanes pass under the second span of the railroad bridge. Usually those nearest the middle have the advantage of the weather and besides, such a position enables them to observe more easily what the other eights are doing. The outside lanes are usually roughest, but with the tide there it should be swifter.

WALKER CAPTURES 2-MILE BIKE RACE

NEWARK, June 27.—Cecil Walker, Australian sprinter, won the two-mile national championship race at the Newark Velodrome tonight. Walker defeated Willie Spencer, American champion, and Arthur Spencer, twice American title holder. Goullet won the heat to decide fourth place, beating Bobby Walthour and Pete Van Kempen.

The race was the fifth of a series of eighteen to decide the American championship and it was the first time this season that Art Spencer has been beaten in a championship race.

The standing in the championship now reads: Arthur Spencer 22, Cecil Walker 12, Willie Spencer 9, Ray Eaton and Mario Bergamini 3, Palmero Mori and Orlando Piani 2, Alf Grenda and Alf Goullet 1. Willie Spencer defeated Mario Bergamini and Alf Goullet in the first semi-final. Spencer rode from in front and held Goullet and Bergamini off. Walker won the second semi-final, riding around Eaton and Walthour on the last lap. Art Spencer took the third semi-final by beating Van Kempen and Piani.

PRINCETON RETAINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

CUMMINGS TAKES MEDAL

Special to The New York Times.

BRONXVILLE, N. Y., June 27.—The Princeton Tigers, winners of the intercollegiate golf team championship at Garden City last year, successfully defended their title in the 1923 tournament which was completed at the Siwanoy Country Club here this afternoon. When the public accountants had figured up the four low totals for the 72 holes at which the event was played, the first two rounds yesterday and the last two today, it was reckoned that the Tigers had retained their laurels with a margin of twelve strokes to spare. The total rolled up by the Nassau quartet, composed of Rudy Knepper, transMississippi and Iowa State champion; A. J. Shannon, H. G. Davis and Baxter Sparks, was 1,286.

The Yale team which was bunched with the leaders at the end of the first thirty-six holes yesterday and which looked dangerous throughout most of today was forced to content itself with second place, its total being 1,298. The Elis found at least a little balm in the fact that they took second place by a commanding margin from their Harvard rivals from Cambridge. Seventeen points represented the difference between the two totals, Harvard's being 1,315. Williams came next with 1,346, University of Pennsylvania followed with 1,358 and Dartmouth was sixth with 1,368. Penn State was seventh with 1,380 and Cornell eighth with 1,469. Columbia, which started in the event, failed to figure because only two of the Blue and White representatives went the entire route.

At the same time that the team event was being completed, the players were struggling along in an effort to qualify for the individual championship which gets under way tomorrow morning. The low thirty-two scores turned in today constituted the qualifying round and once more the Orange and Black triumphed. Seven of the Princetonians got into the championship division, one more than the Crimson qualified and two more than did the Blue. Pennsylvania qualified four and Penn State and Dartmouth three each. Syracuse succeeded in getting two players into the match play flight and the following institutions qualified one each: Alabama, California, Chicago, Columbia, Tulane and Williams. One of the Princetonians was forced to withdraw and two of the Pennsylvanians, and as a result of a tie among seven players, two of them Harvard representatives, and one each representing Princeton, Dartmouth, Penn State, Yale and Pennsylvania, there will be further changes before the man-to-man struggle gets under way tomorrow.

Cummings Shows Form.

Her honors were shared by four players, one a lone Eli, Dexter Cummings, who seems destined to carve a niche for himself in the national hall of golf fame before he has many more birthdays, and three Princetonians—Knepper, Shannon and Davis. The Yale youngster, in his first national tournament, romped off with the qualifying medal in such impressive fashion as to stamp him as a future champion who hasn't very much distance to travel before he will be in among the blue bloods of the links. He had two rounds of 74 each today for a total of 148 for the 36-hole qualifying test, getting him an even 300 for the 72 holes. Two years ago when the same course was the scene of the metropolitan open championship which attracted the country's leading professional players only two of the paid gentry succeeded in doing better than that. Bob McDonald, the winner, had a total of 294 and Pat O'Hara, runner-up, had 298.

Three strokes back of Cummings came Knepper, who set a fine example for his men by turning in a 73 this morning, the lowest mark made by any of the players to date. It was largely through this exceptional scoring rampage of the Tiger leader and a 74 turned in by Shannon, that the Princetonians succeeded in opening up sufficient distance between themselves and the Elis and Crimson to practically insure their victory. Largely through the labors of Knepper and Shannon, the Tigers jumped over the heads of the Cambridge golfers who led at the end of the first day and outdistanced the Elis. At the conclusion of the fifty-four holes completed at noon today, Princeton's total was 963, eleven shots better than Yale's while Harvard had dropped to third with 970.

When Cummings, one of the early finishers, returned with his 74 in the afternoon it caused some anxiety in the Princeton camp, and for the matter of an hour or so there was quite a little arithmetic indulged in by followers of the two rival institutions. The Orange and Black stock slumped a trifle when Knepper came in with a 78, failing to hold the Yale ace. But the matter was settled once and for all when J. G. (Laddie) McMahon brought home an 83, his worst card, and when H. G. Davis, one of the lesser-known of the Princeton golf army, brought in a welcome 79, clinching the victory for Old Nassau.

Cummings Under Par.

Cummings was a stroke under par for the first nine holes in the morning, getting birdies at the fourth and ninth holes. At the 493-yard fourth he was on the green with a drive and a mashie and at the ninth he was aided by a ten-foot putt. His only mistake on the outgoing journey was a 6 at the fifth, where he drove to the rough from the tee and was twice short. At that he hit the hole for a par 5, but his ball refused to stay in. He got down a fifteen-foot putt for a 3 at the twelfth, but lost two shots to par at the short thirteenth when he pulled to the rough at the left and in attempting to reach the green played through the trees. His ball hit a limb and bounced back into the tall grass, from where it took him another shot to get home. His worst hole was the fifteenth, which cost him a 7 against the par 4. Here he topped his tee shot into the rough, required three more to reach the green and wound up by taking three putts.

His morning card:

Out	4	4	3	4	6	3	4	4	3—35
In	4	3	3	5	4	7	4	4	5—39—74

In the afternoon he was exactly par for the first nine holes. He again got his 4 at the fourth hole, which on the opening day cost him an 8. He wasted a shot at the fifth, where it took him four to get on, but he holed a twenty-foot putt for a birdie 2 at the sixth. Three putts were responsible for his 5 at the eighth. He was short on his second at the tenth after slicing to the rough off the tee, using up a 5, and he counted another 5 at the twelfth, where he again sliced his drive and then missed a short putt. A great second shot over the trees enabled him to get his par 4 at the seventeenth after he had played his drive far off to the right. He lost his chance for par at the home hole by getting into the rough on his drive and failing to reach the green on his third from just short of the creek.

His afternoon card:

Out	4	4	3	4	6	2	4	5	4—36
In	5	5	5	3	4	4	4	4	6—38—74

Takes 5 at the Seventeenth.

After reaching the turn in 38 on his brilliant 73 round in the morning, Knepper made only one serious blunder on the remaining holes. That was at the seventeenth, where he sliced his drive, costing him a 5. He raced over the first four holes after the turn at an expenditure of only thirteen strokes, getting a birdie 3 at the tenth and par at the next three.

His card with par:

Out—
Par	4	4	3	5	6	3	4	4	4—37
Knepper	5	4	2	5	5	4	4	5	4—38
In—

AMERICAN GIRL OUT OF CHANTILLY GOLF

Miss Cummings Is Eliminated in International Tourney by Miss Fowler, 2 Up.

CHANTILLY, June 27 (Associated Press).—Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago, the only remaining American, was eliminated from the women's international golf championship here today by Miss D. R. Fowler of England, who won by 2 up.

Miss Cummings, although two down at the twelfth hole, had a number of excellent chances afterward to win. She got bad lies on two of her drives, however, and seemed unable to do better than keep pace with her opponent throughout the remainder of the match.

Miss Fowler, however, failed to survive in the semi-final, being beaten later in the day by Miss Molly Gourlay of England, 3 up and 2 to play.

In the other semi-final match Mlle. de Bellet of France defeated Mrs. Morvice of England, 4 up and 3 to play. Miss Gourlay and Mlle. de Bellet will meet tomorrow in the 36-hole final.

HAGEN LOSES FOURSOME.

With Topping, He Is Beaten by Nicholls and Standifer, 1 Up.

Gil Nicholls, former metropolitan open champion who has been located in New England for the last few years, celebrated his return to the local district by administering a trouncing to the former British open champion, Walter Hagen, at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club yesterday. It was Hagen's first match since returning from the British open championship where he finished a stroke behind the winner, A. G. Havers. Hagen was partnered by Henry Topping, former North and South amateur champion. Nicholls's partner was Guy M. Standifer, who went abroad with the American amateur this Spring.

The match was decided on the home green, Nicholls and Standifer winning by 1 up. The winners had a best ball of 71 and the losers, 72. Nicholls and Hagen both had individual cards of 77 while the two amateurs were two shots more.

DENIES HOCKEY CHARGE.

PITTSBURGH, June 27.—The charge that all teams in the United States Amateur Hockey Association, excepting the Boston Hockey Club and the St. Nicholas team of New York, are professional, made by Francis J. Sullivan, is "absolutely wrong," W. S. Haddock, President of the Association, declared in a statement today.

Sullivan announced last night at Boston that he would make a formal protest to the American Olympic Committee against participation of the Boston Athletic Association hockey team, winners of the Association title in the Paris Olympic games.

"In the first place," said Mr. Haddock, "it has not been decided who will represent America at Paris. We may send the Boston A. A. Club or select an all-star team from players in the association. There is nothing professional about the association. A player, in order to get in, must prove his amateur standing."

THREE N. Y. GOLFERS SURVIVE 2D ROUND

DOLP ALSO VICTORIOUS

Portland Youth Faces McAuliffe Today—Two New Yorkers to Meet in Third Round.

WASHINGTON, June 27. — Three golfers from New York City, two from Philadelphia and one each from Buffalo, Portland, Ore., and Boston remained in the second national public links championship at the conclusion of play today at East Potomac Park here. Two of the New York players meet in the third round tomorrow in the top half of the draw, while one New Yorker, Richard Walsh, runner-up at Toledo last year, is still in the lower half of the draw.

The first and second match play rounds of the tournament today were marked by extra-hole matches—five in the morning and one in the afternoon. Ray J. McAuliffe of Buffalo, who won the medal in the qualifying round yesterday, figured in extra-hole matches both morning and afternoon, winning from J. G. Frazer of New York on the nineteenth, while E. B. Lloyd of Chicago later took him to the twentieth hole before McAuliffe won.

McAuliffe will meet Frank Dolp, the 19-year-old Portland, Ore., lad, tomorrow morning, while Harry Scharff of New York will play J. Stewart Whitman, also of New York, in the other half of the draw. In the other half Walsh will play John MacAndrew of Boston, caddie champion of Massachusetts, while Joseph Cobie of Philadelphia will meet R. F. Hamilton of Philadelphia.

McAuliffe and Lloyd figured in the best match of the day, the Buffalo entrant finally winning. Beginning at the twelfth, Lloyd won six holes in a row, halved the eighteenth and nineteenth, but lost the twentieth when his ball found a bad lie at the 157-yard second hole.

McAuliffe failed to negotiate a stymie that would have made him dormy two up on the sixteenth, and then laid Lloyd a stymie on the seventeenth. The Chicago entrant jumped over the ball with a niblick and won the hole, and then nearly holed a thirty-foot putt on the eighteenth to win the match.

None of the other matches this afternoon was close, although Frank Dolp had to shoot a 75 to win by 3 and 2 from Ed Curtin of Newark, the New Jersey player carrying the rangy boy from the Pacific Coast along at a fast clip. Walsh had to play an extra hole this morning to win from Fred Hannon of Boston, but had an easier time this afternoon against Lawrence S. Ottell of Baltimore, winning by 3 and 2, with a score of 74.

Fifty-five of the tournament entrants who failed to qualify in the championship played today in a special four-round event at the Columbia Country Club. The players were divided into sixteens according to the scores made in the qualifying round yesterday.

First Round—Ray McAuliffe, Buffalo, defeated J. G. Fraser, New York, 1 up, 19 holes; E. B. Lloyd, Chicago, defeated Ed Hayden, Milwaukee, 1 up, 19 holes; Frank Dolp, Portland, Ore., defeated Bernard McFarland, Pittsburgh, 3 and 4; Ed Curtin, Newark, defeated William F. Serrick, New York, 2 up; Harry Scharff, New York, defeated Gordon Haw, Seattle, 1 up; Walter Crowe, Chicago, defeated C. E. Sommer, New York, 1 up; Samuel Graham, Pittsburg, defeated L. A. Thoren, New York, 1 up, 19 holes; J. Stewart Whitman, New York, defeated Carl F. Kauffmann, Pittsburgh, 3 and 2; John Dawson, Chicago, defeated Joseph Sahre, New York, 4 and 3; L. S. Ottell, Baltimore, defeated Edgar Simes, Buffalo, 3 and 2; Richard Walsh, New York, defeated Fred Hannon, Boston, 1 up, 19 holes; John MacAndrew, Boston, defeated David O'Connor, Chicago, 1 up, 19 holes; Earl McAleer, Washington, defeated J. H. Boyd, Philadelphia, 4 and 3; Joseph Cobie, Philadelphia, defeated R. B. Curran Jr., 3 and 1; R. F. Hamilton, Philadelphia, defeated George J. Voight, Washington, 1 up; Lawrence Mules, Baltimore, defeated G. T. Colburn, Toledo, 6 and 4.

Second Round—Frank Dolp defeated Ed Curtin, 3 and 2; Harry Scharff defeated Walter Crowe, 3 and 2; Ray McAuliffe defeated E. B. Lloyd, 1 up, 20 holes; Stewart Whitman defeated Samuel Graham, 3 and 2; John MacAndrew defeated John Dawson, 8 and 6; Richard Walsh defeated L. S. Ottell, 3 and 1; Joseph Cobie defeated Earl McAleer, 5 and 2; R. F. Hamilton defeated Lawrence Mules, 2 and 1.

END OF THE EXPERIMENT.

It is plainly indicated in dispatches from England that no more British ships, after those already on the sea have arrived, will carry liquor under seal into American territorial waters. Why the experiment was ever attempted remains an unsolved mystery. The steamship companies must have known that the law of the case was settled for us by the Supreme Court decision. Their own lawyers must have given them advice in line with the statement of Prime Minister BALDWIN in the House of Commons, that the United States were acting within their legal right, and that no ground existed for protest by the Foreign Office. It may be that the venture of the steamship companies was undertaken in the thought, or hope, that somehow our Government would relax its regulations if it came to a question of breaking British customs seals. How that was to be done did not appear. Perhaps the trusting Englishmen thought that President HARDING could do it by an Order in Council! Anyhow, they have now found out what is the attitude of our Government, though about the only satisfaction they can get out of it is like that of the Irishman whose pig jumped through the window-pane and who said, to comfort his grieving wife: "Now we know the size of the baste."

The fact that the British steamship companies blundered in their effort to get around American laws does not in the least lessen the awkwardness and folly of the particular statute in question. When the Volstead act was passed no one foresaw the complication into which it would get us with foreign shipping. We should have heeded the wise saying that it is "always impolitic to irritate great Powers with small matters." This special irritation was not intended, but it is complete, and is having unpleasant results. It is already seen to be hampering our diplomatic approaches to Great Britain in the matter of conceding to us, for a consideration, the right to search and seize liquor in "rum-runners" up to twelve miles off our shores. What we have done in due execution of the Volstead law, as interpreted by the Supreme Court, leads to such sardonic comment on our conduct as this from The London Morning Post:

> American teetotalism must be so unspotted to the world that even the presence of liquor under seal in American harbors becomes intolerable. But outraged virtue has its price. The moralist is willing to do a deal. They will consent to the presence of the shameful thing if we, on our side, will agree to extend the three-mile limit to a twelve-mile limit.

We shall be continuously exposed to sneers of that kind until Congress meets and modifies the Volstead act so as not to make it flout the comity of nations. Until then we shall have to grin and bear it.

FROM RAILROADS TO COAL.

It did not need the strong dissent of four members of the Interstate Commerce Commission to show how unusual is the order which it has just issued regarding the allocation of coal cars. Preference is hereafter to be given to commercial mines. Fuel for the use of the railroads, with coal shipped from mines that own their own cars, is to be secondary. It is admitted that this new regulation goes counter to the rules which have been established by the commission itself for fifteen years, and which have been upheld by the Supreme Court. The practical effect may not be serious immediately, but at any time when the railroads are in danger of a shortage of coal for their own use the harmfulness of the order will become apparent. If the roads cannot get coal to move their own trains, they certainly cannot transport coal coming from the favored mines. Shipment of all other commodities would at the same time be interfered with. In an emergency, and as a choice between evils, it is fundamental that the railroads must have an adequate supply of coal even if some industries temporarily have to go short.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has now filed its opinion in the matter of the Virginian Railway. It has forbidden that company to lay a track a mile and a quarter long to some coal mines in process of development, giving the general reason that there are already too many coal mines. Specifically, it is of the opinion that the Virginian Railway could not transport the added coal because it has not sufficient equipment. The commission points out that in various weekly periods after July, 1922, the railway company was able to provide only about 70 per cent. of the cars required. But the commission omits to state that this was the period of the coal strike, when traffic on the Virginian Railway was enormously increased because the mines which shipped coal over it were working. Turning back to the annual report of the Virginian Railway Company for 1920, we find that in that year it added no less than one thousand steel coal cars of 120 tons capacity and six of the big Pacific type of locomotives to its rolling stock. Over a period of years it has spent an average of fully $2,500,000 on equipment. What reason has the Interstate Commerce Commission to suppose that the company could not now add to its car supply so as to take care of the increase in traffic which it contemplates?

The technical questions are for experts to work out. Probably they will be taken into the courts. But what even the wayfaring man can see is that the Interstate Commerce Commission is going far beyond its function as a regulator of commerce between the States and is undertaking to regulate industry. It is now proposing to deal with the production of coal rather than its transportation. It is setting up its own theories as to what mines should be worked, what mines closed, and what new mines if should be forbidden to exploit. To this radical departure from the statutory activities of the commission there is vigorous dissent within its own membership, and there is certain to be even sharper dissent by those who dread the blundering hand of Government laid on free enterprise.

WISDOM FROM WESTERVILLE.

Twelve miles north by east of Columbus, Ohio, is the centre of American morality, the real capital of the Government of the United States. Persepolis, Babylon, Rome, Athens, Alexandria, Westerville — westward the course of empire takes its way. There beats the strong heart of the Anti-Saloon League. There forty of its State Superintendents and ten other of its officers, high in place and pay, are sitting in a three-day "council of war," determining political destiny. In 1924 they are going to stump all the States, every district, and elect a Congress at least 90 per cent. dry. If they are not astonished by their moderation, everybody else may be. They are going to keep the wine and beer plank out of the next Democratic national platform. That won't be a hard job. General Superintendent BAKER says: "We know a real fight confronts us when the Legislatures meet again. We are prepared to match their strength, dollar for dollar, and not let up until the opposition is effectually whipped."

The "dollar for dollar" clause is encouraging. It shows that collections are still good. Westerville congratulates Mr. HARDING on his lawenforcement speech at Denver, and especially your illuminating characterization of the abandonment of States' rights, so justly applicable to the nullificationists of New York." His theory of a State nullifying its own rights is perhaps less illuminating than ingenious. But he deserves the good word of the prohibitionists. It has been evident for some time that the Republicans have determined to pose as the special friends of prohibition enforcement; but there are multitudes of wet Republicans, and it will be very curious if the next Democratic National Convention doesn't show itself as "flat-footed" for prohibition as the Republican.

Mr. ORVILLE POLAND, counsel of the New York Anti-Saloon League, sends to Mr. MORRIS, Chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, a telegram radiant with that self-restraint for which the League is noted. The Westerville Conciliabulum professes to speak for "a large number of the voters of New York State who are 'dry' and are also Republicans." Does the committee side with the President unqualifiedly or does it truckle to the wet minority and remain out of harmony with its national leadership as well as in de facto alliance with Tammany? Evidently Mr. POLAND thinks that things are as they were, and that the hour of successful bulldozing hasn't passed. The New York drys can get nothing from the Democrats, so they courteously club the Republicans.

They are entitled to their notions of political strategy. Mr. POLAND says that the League will seek to pledge candidates for the Assembly next Fall, to those familiar and hitherto unfortunate figures, the "Anti-Saloon League Triplets," bills for local enforcement. What good will that "pledging" do, even if a majority of pledged Assemblymen could be elected? The Senate will remain wickedly wet and Governor SMITH, the "nullifier," can hardly be removed from office by a joint address of the State Superintendents and the other officers of the Anti-Saloon League. "We must bring New York back into the Union," says Mr. WAYNE B. WHEELER. That sort of talk is bracing in Westerville; in New York it induces fatigue.

KEYNOTE OF MAGNUS.

Mr. MAGNUS JOHNSON, the Farmer-Labor nominee for United States Senator from Minnesota, has "struck the keynote" at a place melodiously named Isanti. Mr. JOHNSON fearlessly declares that farm prices must be stabilized, but left the ways and means of stabilization obscure. Less radical than some of his friends, he won't insist on abolishing the Federal Reserve system. He will content himself with imposing upon it a policy more specially kind to farmer-laborers. He smote "deflation" with true agrarian vigor. As a friend of economy and the "soldier vote" he loves the bonus. That is a matter of only a few billions, a bagatelle to a statesman of the magnitude of MAGNUS, who cries for Government ownership of the railroads.

One eye on Mr. BORAH and one on Mr. LA FOLLETTE, he would restrict the powers of the Supreme Court to the mere interpretation of acts of Congress; at least, a unanimous decision should be necessary to declare a law unconstitutional. On foreign and international relations he said delicious things:

> The best thing that the peoples of the world can do is to develop progressive Governments in their respective countries. A reactionary imperialistic Government at home is the same abroad, and an international court of justice, so called, organized by such Governments, will of necessity be imperialistic also. As to details of immediate foreign policies, I shall necessarily have to be guided largely by my progressive colleagues in the Senate, several of whom have been to Europe this Summer.

This last sentence is alone worth the price of admission. "It is the "failure of officeholders of the Kellogg-Preus type," says Mr. JOHNSON, "to protect the incomes and "homes of the people that brings me "here today." Doubtless those incomes will be larger and not so much taxed, those homes naked of mortgages when little money-saving schemes like Government ownership of railroads have become fact. It is instructive to notice that of the Executive Committee of seven members managing Mr. JOHNSON'S campaign, not one is a farmer. Three are lawyers; four live in St. Paul, two in Minneapolis. This is as it should be. Indeed, it couldn't well be otherwise.

NEW JERSEY'S WATER RESOURCES.

In communities in Northeastern New Jersey where the automobile-owning householder gives his car a daily bath and it is a religious rite on some premises to use the hose by the hour on garden and lawn the water supply is naturally running short in this driest of Junes. What is called a water "famine" exists. Reservoirs that should hold eighteen feet become as bare as Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard, and water is borrowed from towns that are better off. Artesian wells are used to eke out the failing supply. To thwart the "water hog" it may be necessary to cut the water off altogether during the evening hours that he reserves for drenching his grass and flower beds. It is estimated by the East Orange authorities that 1,500,000 gallons of water were used in that way between 4 and 7 o'clock P. M. last Saturday. While the water wasters are numerous, there are people in every neighborhood who let their lawns burn up rather than stand on their meter rights.

The water problem grows perplexing all over New Jersey, in spite of the assurance in a report of engineers of the State Department of Conservation that in the watersheds, lakes and swamps there is an abundant supply for future needs. When the report was made in March, 1922, publicly owned systems furnished 13,060,000 gallons daily to 983,335 people, and privately owned works provided 107,546,000 gallons a day to 1,087,147 persons. It was admitted that in a protracted dry season there would be an embarrassing scarcity of water in some localities. At the present time the Plainfield Union Water Company is put to it to supply the towns dependent on its reservoir of 9,000,000 gallons at Jerseyland, which is filled in part by the Netherwood artesian wells. The Mayor has asked that the hose for sprinkling lawns and gardens be laid aside. Every night the Netherwood pumps are working to relieve the necessities of inhabitants of Plainfield, Westfield, Cranford, Roselle, El Mora and other places. If the drought continues much longer, industrial plants will have to go without water altogether and households will be rationed.

Surveyors who have gone about the State to inspect watersheds and recommend developments for future needs see in the damming of the Passaic River at Little Falls a supply of 510,000,000 gallons a day. A reservoir in the great swamp area near Millington would afford storage on a large scale. There are other resources available in the Black River, Raritan, Musconetcong, Pequest and Paulins. The time is coming when every stream of volume must be reserved. Most of the lakes of New Jersey have been commandeered. Those now reserved for estates and pleasure clubs must be acquired ultimately for municipalities. The upper Delaware will have to be laid under contribution, but as that river flows past New York and Pennsylvania as well as by New Jersey territory, apportionment by interstate commissions will have to be made. How keen is the competition for water sources in New Jersey litigation between cities indicates. It is evident that a body to "pool" supplies, both existing and to be developed, and to ration them among communities according to their necessities, must be created some day to solve the water problem. If there is water enough for all, none should suffer for the want of it.

THE "BLOCK PARTY" IN TROUBLE.

Once more the "block party" has come to grief. Two years ago Jersey City reformers viewed with alarm its awful degeneration from its original high level of a community "get-together" to a sort of unlicensed dance hall. Commissioner COLER is so distressed at the trend that he is thinking of calling upon the American Legion to come to the rescue and lend tone to the gatherings. He speaks of gambling, and even worse things, and hints of bootleggers who are conscienceless enough to peddle their wares at such gatherings.

The first idea of the community party was admirable. As carried out on various occasions—the recent parties supervised at St. Mark's-in-the Bouwerie are notable examples—they have had real value. The ideal was to encourage the spirit of "neighborliness" and to try to break down some of the inhibitions which keep people in a big city from association with those who live next to them. In the proverbial small town it is easy for every one to know or to know about every one else. But a great city is filled with invisible walls and back fences, higher than those in villages and harder to batter down.

BACON, in his essay on friendship, quotes a Latin adage, magna civitas, magna solitudo, which he translates: "In a great Towne, Friends are scatter"ed: So that there is not that Fel"lowship, for the most part, which "is in lesse Neighborhoods." One has only to look into his own experience to confirm the accuracy of this. What was true in the small town that was Rome two thousand years ago, or in the London of the time of SHAKESPEARE and BACON, is all the more true in the Greater New York of today. The community spirit is not indigenous here.

This fact has long been the stumbling-block of idealists anxious to bring innocent pleasures to the young people of the cities in the hope of thereby keeping them away from less wholesome distractions. Under proper inspiration and supervision, this can be done. It is unlikely, however, that a purely geographic basis, as a city block, furnishes a proper medium. Certain classes in a given neighborhood may sometimes be induced to join in some community activity. But the town spirit is not the city spirit and it is possible to live in a city block for a dozen years and never know more than a handful of the neighbors. It is, of course, desirable to do everything possible to bring the members of a community into closer touch. But under the present circumstances it is idle to expect too much from such efforts. In particular is it foolish to be surprised that "block parties" should not have escaped the despoiler.

ANOTHER COUNTER-REVOLUTION.

Strange and ominous ideas are stirring in literary and publishing circles. In London the other day two ladies, both novelists, both, of course, the highest kind of authority on "sex," publicly debated the question, "Is "There Any Alternative to the Sex "Novel?" This is almost a confession that many readers are crying out for such an alternative. Miss SHEILA KAYE-SMITH did not hold out much hope for them. But this was because she identified the sex novel with the love story. The latter, she believes, will last as long as fiction is written at all. She admits, for our comfort, that there is now a pronounced drift away from the sex novel produced by those who do not look into their hearts and write, but look into Professor FREUD and speculate.

On the other hand, Miss REBECCA WEST did not conceive that the sex novel, as such, could be considered a work of art at all. Human nature cannot be classified according to instinct, especially when we undertake to explain everything by a single instinct; and if we are going to develop the novel and maintain its position in literature we must widely extend its theme. Yet Miss WEST rather perversely contended that novels are made much too easy to read, and favored refining their style until they become subjects of profound analytic study. On this point, Mr. J. C. SQUIRE, who acted as second for the lady duelists, declared that if people had to take two months to read a novel and then felt it a duty to read it ten times over in order to find out what was its precise artistic merit, it might possibly be good for the reader, but it would certainly "knock the bottom out of the fiction market."

Other signs of a revolt against the revellers in fiction and in poetry are discernible to the close observer. It is even said that there is an impending lurch back to Victorianism, or at least to that somewhat less dreadful thing, "post-Victorianism." Young ladies are actually seen reading Tennyson. Moreover, some of them have left off thinking of their fathers and mothers as tyrannical obscurantists. This does not mean that parental ways of looking at life are approved of, but at any rate they are tolerantly thought of as interesting because as "quaint." One bold English critic describes the counter-revolution as having reached the point where "the "wicked parent is acquiring a halo "of benevolence." Then he makes the audacious prediction: "Very "soon revolutionary young women of "the fashionable sort will put away "their Oriental divans, and, leaning "their heads against antique anti"macassars, will read the 'Idylls of "the King.'" This is a horrifying prospect.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Canada Can Set an Example.

Should the Canadian Parliament take the action which the Canadian Premier, MACKENZIE KING, has announced the intention to propose, and award to Dr. F. G. BANTING, the discoverer of "insulin," a life annuity of $7,500, it will be an event of importance both in itself and as an example for other nations. Incidentally, it will give convincing proof that the Canadian lawmakers have an intelligent appreciation of a service to the world such as has been rendered by the Toronto physician and an equally intelligent understanding of the best way to reward that service.

Professional ethics as understood among the English-speaking peoples, and most others except the Germans, will prevent Dr. BANTING from exploiting the large commercial possibilities of his remedy, and the fame acquired from his achievement will be confined rather closely to his colleagues and will not pay grocers' bills. It is therefore the wisest of generosity for Canada to give to the son whose honors she shares enough to permit the devotion, without material anxieties, of the rest of his life to the form of research for which he has demonstrated his competence. Even though he never should find another specific for one of humanity's scourges, his work is sure to increase the general stock of medical knowledge.

The amount suggested as his honorarium seems large only because such appropriations of public funds are so rare. After all, it is only the interest on $150,000, and, compared with the fortunes made by other inventors—the Fords, the Edisons, the McCormicks and their like—it seems absurdly small. But it is enough, for the needs of the scientific investigator are small and, assured for himself and his family against the necessity of earning a livelihood by immediately profitable work, he will be content—will count himself, indeed, among the luckiest of mortals.

An Excellent Use for Public Money.

That the action of Canada in the case of Dr. BANTING, if taken, will be exemplary, is not too much to hope. It will call world-wide attention to the fact that there are discoveries and inventions which should not be made the basis of a monopoly by the issuance of a patent or copyright, though, on the other hand, they should not be allowed to go unrewarded.

National governments have a duty in this matter, and one which they rarely have recognized. For the most part they have left the maintenance of scientific research to the generosity of individuals or of the few private corporations which have arrived at realization of what "pure science" can do for them. This, however, implies either the acceptance of something very much like charity—the taking of favors for which thanks must be given—or the receipt of a salary that at any moment may cease.

A government, if conducted with sufficient intelligence, would change all this. It would establish facilities for determining just what men had rendered or were likely to render services so widely beneficial that everybody should be expected to pay for them. Then it should make due provision for acquiring a discovery or invention of general benefit and offering it freely to anybody in the country, or in the world, who wants to use it.

Once, at least, our own Congress did just this—it appropriated what it considered a sufficient amount to pay the inventor of "babbitt metal" what that excellent alloy was worth, made its manufacture and use free to all, and so prevented the imposition on all users of a tax continuing as long as a patent would run. If more of this wisdom were displayed, fewer enormous fortunes would be made, perhaps, but that would be no great calamity.

To Keep the Chauffeurs in Control.

Chief City Magistrate MCADOO, who so often has shown his interest in the solution of the city's traffic problems, has reported the conclusions reached by a committee appointed by Mayor HYLAN to make suggestions in regard to the licensing of taxicab drivers. The particular exercise of municipal power, as everybody knows, has been and is done in an unsatisfactory manner—a manner which is far from confining the extension of the privilege thus to serve the public to men with the manners and the morals to make them worthy of it.

That many of the drivers are honest and competent men is a fact that cannot be denied, but that too many of them are ruthless exploiters of their unfortunate patrons, and that some of them are little or not at all better than the bandits whom they are ready to serve—that also is revealed almost daily by the press and in the police courts.

Underlying these troubles, according to Magistrate MCADOO, is the fact that the chauffeurs applying for licenses are under no effective compulsion to answer truthfully the questions asked by the examining official and no real investigation of their records can be made under the present system. That is an evil which should not be irremediable, and the Mayor's committee has made several suggestions for reform all along the line of refusing licenses to those whose behavior in the past has shown them to be untrustworthy or criminal, and of abrogating the licenses, immediately and permanently, when conduct is reprehensible. The public also is asked to help by reporting unpleasant experiences, especially overcharging and refusal to make short journeys.

All this is good advice, but somehow it does not seem likely to end troubles that are perhaps inherent in the business. The driver of motor vehicles is the direct descendant of him who drove horses in other days, and never did the members of this class of public servitors have a reputation either for disinterested benevolence or a tender regard for established rates. Moralists long ago observed the demoralizing effect on human character of too close association with that noble animal, the horse, and the internal combustion engine apparently exerts an influence equally deleterious.

A Grievance Stated Inaccurately.

If they are teaching the girl pupils in the Baltimore high school that "Adam and Eve were merely the names of a couple of monkeys from which we are all descended," then more than the "fundamentalists" have a right to find fault with its educational authorities. It is a fairly safe assumption, however, that Darwinism and the evolutionary theory are not summarized in exactly this way in Baltimore or elsewhere—not by the teachers of them, that is.

Darwin himself would have disliked that statement extremely and would have insisted on various emendations and qualifications. His latter-day followers certainly do not think that Adam and Eve were monkeys, or even that men and monkeys are related by more than the remotest of cousinship through a common ancestor enormously remote.

MR. GARY'S LETTER.

Denial That He Had Written to Mr. Bowlby Due to Misunderstanding.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am distressed by publication in THE TIMES of today of an article with headline "Gary and Bowlby Clash Over Letter."

'Last evening a reporter for THE TIMES, whose name I do not remember, if I heard it, called on my house telephone and said, as I understood him, a gentleman from the Cunard Line stated that he had a letter from me concerning the twelve-hour day, and inquired if I would verify it. I told him, in substance, that I had written no such letter, that I had had no letter from any one from the Cunard Line, and that I probably would not remember the name of the gentleman with whom he had been talking if I should hear it. He then said: "Do you deny the statement?" and I said: "As you give it to me, certainly." That was the substance of all that took place.

I did write the letter as published, and a little more. As the letter to me referred only to the "seven-day week" I had forgotten that anything had voluntarily been added by me in regard to the twelve-hour day. Besides, I was misled by the statement that the gentleman referred to was connected with the Cunard Line. I shall see the Rev. Mr. Bowlby and apologize to him.

From Mr. Bowlby.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was naturally quite surprised last night when one of your correspondents called me a second time on the telephone and informed me that a telephone communication with Judge Gary at his home last night brought a denial of Judge Gary's letter to me, two paragraphs of which I had quoted in a statement given out to the press.

I very frankly told your correspondent last evening that I felt there must certainly be a mistake somewhere; for I could not see how Mr. Gary could deny what I had taken verbatim from his letter, and that therefore I would have to stand by what I had given out to the press, or, as I said, "stand by my guns." The correspondent colored up when I had to say and put parts of it into phraseology which I must disclaim.

I called Mr. Gary's office this morning upon reaching my office and his secretary confirmed the authenticity of Mr. Gary's letter to me. A little later I was asked to come down and see Mr. Gary. When I called at his office Mr. Gary not only made a most acceptable explanation of the situation, but also apologized to me for the misunderstanding. I remarked to Mr. Gary—and I feel that I should say it to you—that I thought the real apology should come from THE TIMES or its correspondent, as in my judgment insufficient care was exercised to see that so eminent a gentleman as Mr. Gary was in every way correctly quoted. As he points out, "probably it is a mistake to give any interviews by phone."

Mr. Gary's answer to my letter of June 22 was in every way pleasing to us, and we are not only delighted to know that the United States Steel Corporation is fully operating on the basis of the six-day working week, but that it is also opposed to the twelve-hour day.

I am sure that you will make it perfectly clear to the readers of THE TIMES that there is no clash between Mr. Gary and myself, and for that matter never has been any, but that every inquiry we have made of the corporation he represents has received a courteous and most satisfactory answer.

H. L. BOWLBY,
General Secretary.

Signs on the Library.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the city's silver jubilee has been brought to a successful conclusion with a splendid exposition of the city's work, for which Commissioner Whalen should be given great credit, may I call your attention to the fact that many public properties, including the terrace in front of the New York Public Library, the lawn at Hunter College, among others, were used for large signs and placards advertising the jubilee?

In view of that fact, at the last meeting of the Board of Directors of this society it was

"Resolved, That the Directors of the Municipal Art Society of New York are entirely opposed to this mode of advertising any city project in time of peace. J. R. KEEN.
Secretary Municipal Art Society of New York.

A BRIAR ROSE.

A Briar Rose that was sweet and pink
Was growing down by the River's brink,
And there the water that flowed along
Would sing the words of the River Song.

And that was all that she ever heard,
Save buzzing bees and a passing bird.
The only World she had ever seen
Was azure sky o'er a patch of green.

And Day was only a Shining Sun
With Stars and Moon when the Day was done.
And Love was only a Butterfly
That touched her lips as he hurried by.

The Summertime of her life was spent
In lovely peace and a deep content,
Till Some One came, and he saw her there
And picked the Rose for a Boutonniere.

As fair a flower as ever grew,
With painted petals of perfect hue—
A Briar Rose from a mossy dell—

There was a pleasant ceremony at the exhibition of paintings and sculpture in the new Grand Central Art Galleries last evening at the first drawing for the work of the artist contributors by the lay members whose contributions of money made the opening of the gallery possible. The plan of the galleries is that 100 members contributing $600 each for three years gives an income of $60,000 for each of those three years and a corresponding number of artists give each a picture or a piece of sculpture which goes to the lay members. The latter give their money and get a work of art and the artist gets the use of a fine gallery for exhibition and sales purposes.

There was a gathering of some 130 prominent lay members and artists last evening. Walter L. Clark, the President, presided. A pretty little girl, Miss Mildred Travers, drew the names of the lay members from a vase, each to chose a work of art in the order of the drawing, and Miss Mabel Choate read the names while people jotted them down in the big illustrated catalogue printed for the occasion.

All the lay members not being present the choosing was tied up and will be done later. The first name called was that of R. T. Crane Jr. of Chicago, but Mr. Crane was not present, and Wallace D. Simmons of St. Louis, whose name came second and who was present, could not make his selection. The held-up ran along the line. Some of those who were not able to be present had sent substitutes, as Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, who, being abroad, sent Renée Prahar, the sculptor, who is among the art contributors. The lay members were obliged to content themselves with making tentative lists from which they may be able to make actual selections later.

President Clark in his opening remarks spoke of the disadvantage under which the artist was placed with a large production of art work and no representation in advertising or salesmanship that would be considered in any other business. He said he did not believe there was an overproduction in art, but that people did not know how to buy, felt that with the development of ideas in the minds of those working in the interests of this organization that difficulty would be overcome.

In the gathering there were representatives among the laymen from Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Washington, D. C. Chicago had half a dozen representatives, including Harold F. Swift; and Dubuque, Iowa, and Duluth, Minn., were represented. From New York were John G. Agar, John Mead Bowman, Daniel Chester French, who is represented both as lay member and artist; Joseph P. Grace, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, Louis C. Tiffany and Mrs. Paul Warburg, among others. Edmund Greacen, John Nobel, Malvina Hoffman, Jerome Myers and Putnam Brinley were a few of the artists present.

AMERICAN RABBIS MEET.

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 27.—At the afternoon session of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Central Conference of American rabbis President Edward N. Calisch of Richmond, Va., was in the chair. Dr. Leo M. Franklin of Detorit offered a report of the Committee on Religious Work in Universities, showing that almost every institution of higher learning in the United States was being reached by the various rabbis and that in many student congregations had been organized.

The evening session was opened with prayer by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, after which President Calisch presented his message, dealing with important problems of present-day life in the United States. He urged that renewed efforts be made to reclaim the thousands of unaffiliated Jews and to reach both the children and the adults effectively.

$50,000 FOR SALVATIONISTS.

Laura Spelman Rockefeller Fund Aids Army's 1923 Budget.

The Salvation Army, through Thomas Estill, head of its operations in the East, announced the receipt of a gift of $50,000 yesterday from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund for the army's 1923 budget. Dr. Beardsley Rumi, director of the Memorial Fund, in a letter accompanying the gift said that the gift was to be applied to the Home Service Fund, for which the army conducted its annual drive during May.

This is the largest gift toward the 1923 budget of the Salvation Army. The second largest was a contribution of $10,000 from Edwin Gould. The fund for which the May campaign was conducted almost has reached the $400,000 mark, the bulk of which was made up of thousands of small contributions. Examination of the campaign returns shows a remarkable variety of contributors, including all creeds, parties, nationalities and classes.

HULL SAYS HARDING TOOK WILSON CREDIT

SEES ERROR IN UTAH SPEECH

WASHINGTON, June 27.—That President Harding at Salt Lake City yesterday "modestly assumed credit for $2,500,000,000 that the Wilson Administration paid off on the national debt," was the assertion made this afternoon by Cordell Hull, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

To characterize the claims made by the President in Salt Lake City as "grossly misleading," added Chairman Hull, is to use "the mildest possible language." The President, said Mr. Hull, is disguising "a political journey" as a "business trip to Alaska."

"In his Utah speech," said Chairman Hull, "President Harding, who in the transparent disguise of a business trip to Alaska is now strenuously campaigning both for his renomination and reelection, said that since 1920 the cost of the Federal Government had been reduced more than one-half below the cost for 1919 and 1920.

"He also said that Federal taxes for 1923 would be considerably less than half as much as in 1920. He further asserted that 'we have reduced the national debt to $22,400,000,000 from its peak of $26,596,000,000 on Aug. 31, 1919.' The President then modestly assumes entire credit for his Administration.

"In the first place, the Democratic Administration paid off $2,800,000,000 of the national debt during the eighteen months prior to March 4, 1921, at the rate of $1,650,000,000 a year. The Harding Administration then assumed control, and during the last twenty-eight months has only paid off $1,600,000,000 of the national debt, or at the rate of $685,000,000 a year. It now proposes hereafter to reduce it $500,000,000 a year. The full facts thus reveal an entirely different story.

"Secondly, as to the President's claims of tax reductions, omitting the repeal of a few small miscellaneous taxes, the Harding Administration through its internal tax revision law has only reduced taxes in the estimated amount of $600,000,000. These reductions comprise the repeal of the remnant of the excess profits tax, $450,000,000; reduction of high income surtax rates, both resting upon the very rich, $61,000,000, and a reduction to the smaller income taxpayers of $90,000,000.

"It is true that the Government's revenues for 1920 were $6,695,000,000, whereas they have fallen to $4,795,000,000 for the fiscal year 1923, or a reduction of $1,900,000,000. But the income and profits taxes for 1920 were $3,664,000,000 and for 1923 they are $1,650,000,000.

Panic Wiped Out Incomes and Taxes.

"The fact is here revealed that near $1,000,000,000 of this tax reduction was not effected by statute, but by the Republican industrial panic of 1921 and 1922. During the panic incomes were wiped out and taxes correspondingly wiped out.

"It is thus seen that after all credit for the reduction of $600,000,000 in income and profits taxes by statute is given, further reduction of over $1,000,000,000 has occurred as a result of the Republican panic. The President is welcome to all the credit for these panic reductions of both incomes and taxes.

"The fact also should be emphasized that the income and profits taxes for the given year, 1919 for example, were paid during 1920, and so on. The Republican claim of tax relief is still more confounded when we consider the mountain of new tariff taxes heaped on the people with the direct result that enterprises high prices segregating billions must be borne by the masses.

"The President's third claim that the cost of Government has been reduced more than one half below the cost during the two years immediately following the war is bound up with his claim for a reduction in taxes and is equally wholly misleading figures. The President attempts to compare, in part, the cost of government at the very peak of our maximum war activities, war costs which reflect the fiscal years ending June 30, 1919, with the cost of government in 1922 and 1923, three and four years after the war ended.

"I am astonished that the President, even for the purpose of partisan advantage, would attempt to make a comparison so manifestly unfair. The fairest and most accurate test of how much the Harding Administration reduced the cost of government is by a comparison of total expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, with those for the year 1922.

Costs Cut Only $65,000,000 In Year.

"Treasury officials show total expenditures of $3,795,000,000 for 1923 and $3,730,000,000 for 1922, or a total reduction of all expenditures of only $65,000,000. It is upon this paltry reduction of $65,000,000 that Republican politicians hang all their present loud and loose talk to the effect that the Harding Administration has wiped out a huge deficit of $683,000,000 and created in lieu a surplus of $600,000,000.

"The country has already learned that no actual deficit in any amount has existed during the last fiscal year, but only an imaginary one, and that the surplus now claimed has not been created by any administrative economies.

"No one knows better than the President that it is the history of all wars including

ROSE PAGEANT GIVEN FOR GARDEN CLUB

Mrs. Arthur C. James Entertains Newport Convention Delegates at Beacon Hill House.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 27.—The officers and the delegates from the fifty-seven units that make up the Garden Club of America, who are attending the annual convention of the club, had a busy time today. It required more than 200 automobiles to transport the delegates on their tours of the city.

The first business meeting of the convention took place at Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss's home this morning. This was a conference of the Presidents of the clubs. Later Mrs. Auchincloss was hostess at luncheon for the whole group of delegates.

In the afternoon after luncheon the group was divided into two parts, and while they took different routes, all visited the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Vos, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mr. and Mrs. John Aspegren, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, Mrs. Richard Gambrill, Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore and Mrs. Vanderbilt. One of the groups stopped at the Breakers, where Mrs. Vanderbilt was hostess at tea, and the other group stopped at Whitehouse, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs, for tea.

Tonight the visitors were again guests of Mr. Arthur Curtiss James at Beacon Hill House for an entertainment followed by supper. This was one of the chief features of the day. It was given in the rose garden and marked the opening of the rose theatre, with a rose pageant arranged and staged by Joseph Lindon Smith. It was one of the prettiest affairs of the kind ever given in Newport. The garden was illuminated and the pageant was participated in by a group of dancers who had been brought from Boston with an orchestra.

Prior to the entertainment at Mrs. James's many of the officers and delegates were guests at dinner parties. At all of these the floral table decorations had been made a special feature, and chief among them was that used by Mr. and Mrs. John Aspegren at Aspen Hall, where, in the centre of the large table was a miniature rose garden.

Among the others who gave dinners were Mr. and Mrs. Marion Epoley, Mrs. Auchincloss, Mrs. T. Shaw Safe, Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Gibson Fannestock, Mrs. Stuart Duncan, Mrs. James S. Cushman, former Governor R. Livingston Beeckman, Mrs. Henry Parish and Mrs. I. Townsend Spencer.

On behalf of New York City, a committee recommended the location of the memorial as an adjunct of the present Museum of Natural History. The plan calls for erection of a building facing Central Park West, connected by a pathway with the Museum building.

No decision was reached yesterday. The commission will consult State and city officials and make a definite decision at its next meeting, in time to present a bill before the Legislature in January.

AMBULANCE MEETS OLYMPIC AT PIER

When the White Star liner Olympic reached her pier at the foot of West Eighteenth Street yesterday an ambulance from St. Vincent's Hospital was waiting for Ben Roberts, a wealthy merchant of Chicago, 64 years old, who suffered a heart attack forty-eight hours previously. Dr. M. Prior, the ship's surgeon, said that Mr. Roberts was ill when he boarded the liner at Southampton with his wife, that his illness increased to such an extent that on Monday night he feared death was imminent.

Mr. Roberts was carried down the gangway on a stretcher to the ambulance and late last night was said to be resting comfortably and there was hope that he would recover.

The Olympic would have docked on Tuesday evening if she had not been delayed several hours by fog. Among the notables on the liner was Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, who was gowned in a black Parisian traveling frock with black hat and feather and two strings of pearls round her neck. She was accompanied by her daughter, Consuelo.

Their customs declaration was made out in full detail, giving particulars of every article purchased abroad, and after getting to the end of the pier Mrs. Vanderbilt went back to declare a coral comb studded with gold which she had forgotten.

Miss Neysa McMein, whose marriage to John G. Baragwanath on May 30 before she sailed abroad on the Olympic has only just become known, returned yesterday on the liner and said that she would go to work at once on magazine covers.

"I am going to have my honeymoon working," she said, "and intend to keep my own name, which I thought was the most unmusical I had ever heard until I met my husband a year ago at a party given by Irene Castle Treman."

EINSTEIN ATTACKS LEAGUE.

Explains Resignation, but Hopes It May Prove Him a Liar.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 27.—Professor Einstein expresses the fervent hope that the League of Nations may prove him to be a liar in a temperamental letter to the Berlin pacifist organ, the Friedenswarte, explaining his resignation from the League of Nations Committee for Intellectual Co-operation.

"I did so because the activities of the League so far had convinced me," he said, "that there appeared to be no action, no matter how basic, committed by the present power group against which the League could take a stand. I withdrew because the League of Nations, as it functions at present, not only does not embody the ideal of an international organization, but actually discredits such an ideal.

"I did it, however, with inner reluctance, because the hope had not quite died in me that into this shell of a League of Nations a better content might yet grow in time. I am comforted by the thought that in my place one of the cleanest, finest men was elected, Professor Lorentz of Haarlem, whereat nobody could be happier than I. May the League in the future prove my harsh words to have been false."

Best Results From The Times

THE NEW YORK TIMES:

In my years of experience in advertising apartments I have tried all the newspapers. The best results by far for finding better class tenants have come through The New York Times. A single three line advertisement appearing in The Times on a recent Sunday brought twenty prospects, and the apartment, which is located on 86th Street, was rented by my agent on the premises at 11 A. M. of that day.

HELD AS POOR-BOX ROBBER.

Police Think Boy's Arrest Solves Thefts in Queens Churches.

Through the arrest of William Arhens, 16 years old, of 814 Prospect Avenue, Ridgewood, the police of the Glendale Station believe that they have solved the mystery of a series of poor-box robberies in Roman Catholic Churches of Queens. Arhens was arraigned before Magistrate Miller in the Ridgewood Court yesterday and held in $500 bail on a charge of larceny on the complaint of the Rev. John C. York, rector of St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church, Ridgewood.

It was alleged by the police that Arhens was caught early yesterday morning attempting to break open the poor box in St. Pancras' Roman Catholic Church, Myrtle Avenue, Glendale. Arhens, it was said by the police, was recognized as being the same lad who broke open the poor box of this church last August.

DOLLAR GAS HELD UP BY BROOKLYN COURT

CONSOLIDATED CASE NEXT

Unanimous Decision Provides for Bond to Protect Consumers if Law is Held Valid.

Temporary injunctions were granted yesterday by a statutory court sitting in Brooklyn, restraining the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General from attempting to enforce the provisions of the law fixing the price of gas in this city at not more than $1 per 1,000 cubic feet. The application for the restraining order was made by the Brooklyn Union Gas Company for itself and its subsidiaries—Kings County Lighting Company, Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, Queensboro Gas and Electric Company, and the New York and Richmond Gas Company.

The contention of the companies was that the law was unconstitutional. Circuit Court Judge Mayer, who sat with District Judges Campbell and Garvin, indicated by questions early in the proceedings that the companies would get what they asked for. The decision of the court probably will be duplicated by a statutory court sitting tomorrow in this district to hear arguments on similar applications made by the Consolidated Gas Company and its subsidiaries.

If this happens and the usual methods are followed, special masters will be appointed to take testimony and to submit to the court recommendations on the question of making the injunctions permanent. This task will take about a year, and in the meantime the present rates, fixed by the Public Service Commission, will continue. The decision of the court contained stipulation that the companies shall file with the court a bond as surety, that if the courts finally sustain the constitutionality of the Dollar Gas law all money collected from consumers in excess of this sum shall be refunded.

Court Opinion Unanimous.

During the argument of James A. Donnelly, Special Deputy Attorney General, representing the State, and Jackson A. Dykman, for the Brooklyn Union Company, the judges asked many questions, and when Mr. Donnelly stated his conviction that the legislature knew what it was about when it passed the law, Judge Mayer said:

"The records of the Legislature fail to show that any investigation of the situation was made before the bill was considered. That produces a peculiar situation. Your presumption that the law is sound and well founded is only a collection of words and not of substance."

"Unless and until it is proved that the Legislature acted improperly," retorted Mr. Donnelly, "the presumption must be that the law is valid."

Judge Mayer responded by saying that only documentary evidence could be considered, and that there was no evidence of this character to show that the Legislature had made any investigation of the subject prior to passing the law, and that it must be presumed therefore that no such inquiry was made.

At the conclusion of the arguments Judge Mayer said that it was the unanimous opinion of the Court that the dollar gas law was unconstitutional; that he judges had taken time to consider every phase of the matter, and had read affidavits presented by the Public Service Commission and the Attorney General, and that the rates fixed by the commission had followed a thorough inquiry into the matter. He said that the judges, sitting as a court of equity, felt that irreparable injury would follow the enforcement of the law, and that the plaintiffs had apparently made it clear that confiscation of their property would follow enforcement.

After stating that a prompt decision should be rendered to the end that the business of the plaintiffs might not be interfered with, Judge Mayer said:

"We assume that the Public Service Commission has done its duty as a commission, and it is not for us to inquire as to whether the precise figures found by that commission are subject to modification at some future time as future developments may indicate."

Sees Irreparable Damage.

Then Judge Mayer announced that the rate orders issued by the commission, becoming operative on Oct. 1 last, should continue for one year, and that at the time the rates were made the commission declared them to be fair and reasonable in view of all the facts gathered up to the end of last August. He said:

"We see nothing whatever which controverts the assertions as to facts and figures set forth in the various papers submitted by the complainants. In such circumstances we feel that the Court must not speculate upon what some variations of the future may indicate. We are dealing with what is before us, and we are unanimously of the opinion that the showing by the complainants is of a character that indicates that if this statute were enforced, both as to rates and as to the British thermal unit standard, without making appropriate changes, great and irreparable damages might well occur to these various complainants."

The Court held that the complainants had seemingly made out a case and that when the time comes to take proof these facts of others may be established, and that in the meantime temporary injunctions should issue. Concerning the stipulation as to the refunding of any overcharges if the constitutionality of the law should be sustained the decision said:

"We feel that the companies, and the consumers in the last analysis, should not not be burdened by the expense which would be inherent on the requiring either of a deposit of the excess between the dollar and the rates which the Public Service Commission has established, nor should they be burdened by paying to surety companies substantial premiums which would be required in the case of a bond. We shall therefore take the bond of the companies."

The prices for gas now charged by the companies involved in the proceedings range from $1.15 up to $1.30.

SAYS GARVAN CALLED METZ A 'TRAITOR'

DEETERS SENT WARNING

COURT GIVES VIEW OF CASE

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 27.—In a memorandum produced today by the defense in the Government suit to cancel the Chemical Foundation's acquisition of 4,800 seized German patents, Herman A. Metz was denounced by Francis P. Garvan, President of the Foundation, as "a traitor to his country, working heart and soul for Germany."

Though acknowledging receipt of this memorandum from E. W. Deeters, Mr. Metz, who is accused by the defense of having instigated the present action in the hope of procuring the return of the patents to their original German owners, insisted he was not responsible for what Deeters wrote to him.

The memorandum was contained in a letter sent from Washington three months ago in which Deeters, once an employe of the Chemical Warfare Service, warned Mr. Metz that Mr. Garvan and others were in the capital interviewing a man who had made an affidavit against the Foundation.

The Government closed its case today and the defense will open tomorrow, probably with A. Mitchell Palmer as the first witness.

The Deeters letter to Mr. Metz said:

"Your friends from New York have been in Washington several days, made several persistent calls on one of the parties who made the affidavit and were rather persistent in getting the information from said party, and were even so bold as to state that they would subpoena him to Wilmington to testify if they did not get such information. The DuPonts have employed several members of the Chemical Warfare Service in hope of gaining information which may be available to them. I enclose copy of all information which I hope you may find of use at Wilmington."

Enclosed was this typewritten memorandum, unsigned and unaddressed:

"During said conversation between Francis P. Garvan and Morris R. Pouchers the statement was made by Garvan that H. A. Metz bribed one of the Chemical Foundation chemists, and gave this chemist a position for one month. During that period he tried to get information relating to Garvan and others who were connected with the custodian's office at the time Garvan transferred the patents to himself.

"Statements were made by the same gentleman that H. A. Metz was a traitor to his country and that he had information in writing to prove he was working heart and soul for Germany and that he, Garvan, has stopped all shipments from Germany by order of the French Government. Furthermore, that he, Garvan, had all the information connected with the activities of C. C. Bennett and Gaskin B. Means (alleged German spy) relating to the information they were collecting for the Bosch Magneto Company and the Chemical Foundation relating to the cases which the Department of Justice has now under investigation at Wilmington. They have copies of checks of C. C. Bennett for telephone calls and other expenditures in Senator Moses's office. They are trying to Dunn the machine gun on you. Don't let them catch you barefaced."

Expressing a problem that has been in his mind and emphasizing that he was not rendering a decision, Judge Morris said:

"I am not clear on whether the Foundation can be construed as a monopoly. Unless you show its practices are illegal, how can the practices of some other association which might have been illegal be pertinent to the issues here? Unless you can show that the Chemical Foundation carries out the unlawful purposes of the Trading with the enemy act, which refers, it seems to me those unlawful purposes, if they were unlawful, must be dropped by the wayside and we must forget them.

"Another difficulty presented is this: That although one person might have acquired all the patents by purchase yet, I understand the necessary and inevitable consequences of the Government's proposition, it is that the more numerous the persons who became interested in the Foundation the more ominous (and I say that probably that is not the exact term) was the act. If a company had purchased them it might not have been a conspiracy. It might have been the highest bidder at a public sale and I take it such acquisition would not have been in violation of the monopolistic statutes."

Judge Morris made it clear that he has not decided and will not, until all the evidence is in, the question of the President's power to authorize the sale. As to this the court said:

"That is a matter lying at the foundation of the suit and I am not going to try to determine that until the whole case is in. As I see it now, the Government denies the contention of the defendant that the terms of the conditions of the acquisition of patents and trade marks by the foundation were such as contended by the defendant. I understand that the Government does not deny that is those terms and conditions were as contended by the defendant the price paid by the foundation was at all inadequate.

"If I am right in those two statements I take it that the only questions open here are the ascertainment of the terms and conditions under which the rights acquired by the foundation were so acquired by it, and if they were acquired under the terms and conditions contended for by the foundation then the only question remaining is the power of the Executive Department to make such sales under those terms and conditions.

"I take it that you are not suggesting that the Judicial Department has power to review the acts, the discretion or wisdom of the acts of the Executive Department, if acts they were, with respect to the dye industry, particularly in view of the American situation pertaining thereto."

Twenty-eight letters were filed by the Government, to show that patents belonging to Ferdinand Max Eugen Blass, naturalized American, were seized by the custodian after he had given notice that he was an American. These patents were sold to the Foundation. Mr. Kresel said this episode would be explained by the defense.

Judge Morris denied Mr. Kresel's motion to strike out the testimony of Carl Holderman, representative of a German chemical house, who several weeks ago valued at $17,000,000 a series of American patents. The Foundation attorney argued that Holderman could not qualify to testify as an expert on the value of the patents in this country under the circumstances by which they were effected. Judge Morris said that his denial did not mean his ruling was final.

Hirshfield Eulogizes Hylan; Report Lauds 'Heroic' Fights

A report of the Hylan administration up to 1921 was turned in to the Mayor yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, who blamed the recent Meyer Committee and the Citizens' Union for the delay.

In a letter to the Mayor accompanying the report the Commissioner declared that the Meyer Committee seized papers in his office which were never returned and characterized the seizure as "piracy."

Much of the report of 118 typewritten pages eulogizes the Mayor and denounces his critics. According to Mr. Hirshfield, the Mayor took office with "devotional sincerity" and heroically withstood the onslaughts of the "unholy alliance of Wall Street and the traction magnates, aided by the controlled press and the gambling fraternity."

N. Y. CENTRAL WINS IN CHICAGO FIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The right of the New York Central Railroad to maintain possession and operation of the Chicago River & Indiana Railroad with the Chicago Junction Railroad, connecting the stock yards with outside lines, was upheld in the Federal court here today.

The New York Central acquired the property under authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Circuit Judge Baker and Judges Wilkerson and Carpenter of the District Court, who sat in the cases, dismissed the suit for lack of right in equity.

The Judges held that the Pennsylvania System, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, Grand Trunk Western, Chicago & Erie, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Wabash and Monon Railroads, which brought the suit, had no right to interfere.

The plaintiffs charged that the commission's order authorizing the purchase gave the New York Central a virtual monopoly on switching facilities in the stock yards and adjacent territory. They contended that the order allowed virtually a consolidation of the properties with the New York Central Lines, and that it had no power to permit a lease of this character.

The Court, however, said the law vested the commission with such power.

The plaintiff's claim that business would be diverted to the New York Central was held to be of no value as showing that they had suffered any loss for which they were entitled to protection in court.

The Chicago River & Indiana Railroad is three miles long and holds a ninety-nine-year lease on the Chicago Junction Railroad, which controls most of the stock yards switching facilities.

Regarding the decision of the United States Court at Chicago dismissing the suit for an injunction which aimed to void the acquisition by the New York Central Railroad Company of the "inner-belt" rail lines serving the great central manufacturing district and Union Stock Yards of Chicago without requiring evidence from the respondent, the following statement was made here yesterday by Robert J. Cary, general counsel of the New York Central:

"The New York Central Railroad Company, impleaded with the United States, was successful today in the proceeding brought by a number of railroad companies, competitors of the New York Central, to annul the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission entered on May 16, 1922, authorizing the New York Central to acquire control of the Chicago Junction Railway property. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company, the Chicago & Erie Railroad Company, the Grand Trunk Western Railway Company, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company and the Wabash Railway Company filed a bill in the Federal Court in April to annul the order of the commission and to set aside the stock purchase and the lease whereby the New York Central acquired control of the Junction property. The United States was made a party defendant as representing the commission.

"The contention was made by the plaintiff that the order of the commission was void, because the permission granted by it to the New York Central to lease the junction property amounted virtually to a consolidation of such properties with the New York Central system, and that until the Interstate Commerce Commission had announced its final plan for the grouping of railroads, it had no power to permit a lease of the character above mentioned. The case was dismissed without passing upon this point upon the ground that the plaintiff showed no right in equity.

"The claim that the control of the Junction property would divert business to the New York Central lines against their lines was held to be of no value as showing that they had suffered any loss for which they were entitled to the protection of the court. In other words, it simply amounted to a claim of a competitor that a rival, through its own enterprise, was fairly taking the business of the competitor.

"Counsel for the plaintiff disclaimed any charge that the New York Central, in operating the Junction property, was violating the Interstate Commerce law in any respect. His contention was of a prospective character based solely upon the proposition that the New York Central lines would develop business at the expense of their competitors. The court directed that an order be entered denying the motion of the plaintiffs for a temporary injunction and dismissing their bill for want of equity."

ONE PHONE UNION STICKS.

Leader Calls New England Strike a "Misguided Failure."

BOSTON, June 27.—Except in the city of Providence service was maintained in whole or in part by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company throughout its territory today, in spite of the strike of operators which began yesterday morning. In Providence the telephone system was almost completely tied up.

Tonight Local 1A, which is neutral in the strike, met in Tremont Temple in a session open alike to strikers and non-strikers, but Miss Anna Molloy, its President, denied reports that her union was to amalgamate with the one on strike. She said she had a message from the strikers inviting Local 1A to join them and referred to it as a belated invitation to join the misguided movement which has proved an utter failure.

In the Boston metropolitan district, where about half of the 12,000 operators of the company are employed, there was an improvement in some of the exchanges which suffered most heavily from the walkout.

FAST FLIGHT OPENS NEWPORT AIR LINE

MAYORS SEND GREETINGS

Carrying copies of the late city edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES, the seaplane de luxe Graylark yesterday inaugurated the commercial flying of the New York-Newport Air Service, Inc., by traveling to the Rhode Island Summer resort, an air distance of 149 miles, in 80 minutes. The return journey against an adverse wind was made in 1 hour and 52 minutes.

The company, which is subsidized by prominent residents of this city and Newport, will maintain a scheduled week-end service between the two places. Planes will leave the airport at the foot of Thirty-first Street, East River, at 2:30 and 3 o'clock Friday afternoons and at noon on Saturdays. The return schedule calls for flights at 6 o'clock Sunday evenings and 9 and 9:30 Monday morning.

The Graylark, piloted by George Rummil, a former naval aviator, left New York with Grover A. Loening, President of the company, and three newspaper men, at 10:07 o'clock yesterday morning, reaching Newport at 11:27, so much ahead of anticipation that the welcoming committee was not on the scene when the airplane arrived. The copies of THE TIMES were addressed to Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan, Major General Robert Lee Bullard, Mrs. T. Suffern Taller and others of the Newport colony.

Greeting From Mayor Hylan.

Hon. Mortimer A. Sullivan, Mayor, City of Newport, R. I.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permit me to extend cordial greetings to you and to the people of Newport, via a new air service designed to reduce the time distance between your city and New York by five and a half hours.

The men of vision and enterprise who are mapping out air routes and linking the cities of America closer together are contributing to national solidarity. They are deserving of encouragement and moral support, particularly when we recall that similar development of transportation on land required the gift by the Federal Government of thousands of square miles of territory to the railroad companies.

With best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Mayor Sullivan's Response.

June 27, 1923.

Hon. John F. Hylan,
Mayor of New York, New York.

My dear Mayor Hylan:

Thank you for your cordial greetings to the people of Newport, and to me, sent via the New York-Newport Air Service, Inc., today. Newport is fortunate to be congratulated on the inauguration of this service between our city and the greatest metropolis of the world.

We feel, that with this method of transportation developed, a new era has dawned for the City of Newport, which will further establish the people of New York as our nearer neighbors and firmer friends.

With assurances of our appreciation of your kind message and with my highest personal regards, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
MORTIMER A. SULLIVAN,
Mayor.

Loening Tells of Time Saving.

In commenting on the flight Mr. Loening said:

"If one wished to dine in Newport he would have to leave New York at 10 o'clock in the morning by train in order to arrive in time. By plane he may start his journey at 4:30 in the afternoon and reach there at the same time. This is an epoch-making venture in the history of flying, the example of which should be followed by other cities.

"Under the leadership of T. Suffern Taller and Vincent Astor, who is Vice President of the company, a subsidy was provided to start the line. They have thus accomplished what Governments have done in that direction. It may be the American way of providing support for aeronautics."

The airplane fare between the two cities is $30, with the privilege of taking hand luggage and golf bags and sticks. According to Mr. Loening, the company has heavy booking throughout the Summer.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 27.—THE NEW YORK TIMES is the first newspaper to be delivered in this city by an air route. Copies of the last edition this morning were delivered here at noon, having come by the New York-Newport air line.

Upon the arrival of the airplane Mr. Loening, the President of the line, transferred the copies for delivery. One directed to Major Gen. Bullard was handed to him promptly. Opening it, he said:

"Oh, THE TIMES. Good! I always read it, but, having been in a great hurry this morning I have not been able to find one. I am glad to get it."

Another directed to T. Suffern Taller was handed to him, and he said that he believed it to be a forerunner of things soon to come. He believed that in a short time THE NEW YORK TIMES would reach him before the line had done.

Other copies were handed to Mayor Sullivan and Captain Frank Taylor Evans, U. S. N., and they too expressed their thanks for the early delivery of the paper.

'FRAME-UP' CHARGED IN DAVIDSON DIVORCE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 27.—The retrial of the suit of Robert C. Davidson, former Mayor of Baltimore and former President of the Baltimore Trust Company, for absolute divorce from Mrs. Laura Noyes Davidson, a sister of Miss Clara Noyes, President of the American Red Cross, began here today before Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor Jr., and a jury. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and the alleged corespondent, named for the first time today as William R. Morris, a druggist of Irvington-on-Hudson, appeared in court. Mr. Davidson is a wealthy resident of Hastings-on-Hudson.

Attorney Charles Edward Long, for Mrs. Davidson, announced in opening his case that he would prove that his client was the victim of a "frame-up," and was to amalgamate with the one on strike. She said she had a message from the strikers inviting Local 1A to join them and referred to it as a belated invitation to join the misguided movement which has proved an utter failure.

Miss Nellie E. Carter, a woman detective, of New York City, testified today that she had seen the defendant and Mr. Morris in Mrs. Davidson's apartment in Tarrytown. She said she had looked through a window from a position on a hill in the rear of the building. She said that on May 16, 1922, Morris had left the apartment at midnight.

Miss Carter said she had followed Mrs. Davidson for about twelve weeks last Spring and Summer at the instigation of Mr. Davidson.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 27.—Members of the Scottish contingent of the Labor Party broke loose from disciplinary control in the House of Commons this evening and once more demonstrated their disregard of parliamentary conventions by breaches of order that led to angry scenes and the suspension of four of them.

The disturbance arose in the Committee on the Scottish Estimates. Captain Elliot, Secretary to the Scottish Board of Health, had moved the vote for that department, reducing the appropriation for child welfare, and several of the members for Glasgow devoted their remarks to attacks upon the board for its alleged neglect of housing and social work generally. James Maxton, member for Bridgeton, did not mince his words in condemning not only the board, but every one who defended it. He declared they were guilty of the blood of infants—"a cool, callous, deliberate crime." To save money, he said, they were prepared to destroy children, to put children in the fighting line.

This violent language set the House in an uproar, and Sir Frederick Banbury asked Captain Fitzroy, Chairman of the committee: "Is it in order for the Honorable Member to call other Honorable Members murderers?"

"It is true!" shouted several Labor members.

Mr. Maxton, despite the Chairman's appeal, refused to withdraw the expression, which he declared he had used deliberately, and added that it applied especially to Sir Frederick.

J. Wheatley, another Glasgow Laborite member, then supported Mr. Maxton in the use of the objectionable expression. Sir Frederick was insistent that the two offenders should withdraw their expression and apologize. Thereupon Duncan Graham, an Edinburgh Laborite member, declared that if the two members were suspended, the Chairman would be faced with the question of turning out all the Glasgow Labor members, because they held the same views as Messrs Maxton and Wheatley.

Sir W. Joynson-Hicks tried to pour oil on the troubled waters, but without success. Mr. Wheatley, who was getting very much excited, said that, as he understood the law, if a person committed an act calculated to kill another person even though he did not intend to commit murder, that person was regarded as a murderer, and in that connection he believed Sir Frederick to be a murderer, and he repeated the charge.

"Bring back the lives of the Scottish infants," he exclaimed, "and I will withdraw the expression."

The Chairman again intervened. He said the application of the word "murderer" might be justified if applied to a party as a whole, but it could not be allowed to be applied to individual members.

Both Mr. Maxton and Mr. Wheatley resolutely refused to withdraw their words, whereupon the Sergeant-at-Arms requested them to leave the House. They refused to move, and finally the Home Secretary put a motion that they be suspended. The motion was carried by 256 to 70 votes. Messrs. Maxton and Wheatley then quietly left the House.

The Rev. Campbell Stephen, another Scottish Laborite member, next arose and repeated the charge, using the word "murderers," and he, too, was suspended on motion. Later a fourth Scottish Laborite, G. Buchanan, was also suspended.

FIRE ENGINE STRIKES AUTO

Twenty persons, seven of them women, were injured last evening when a motor truck ran into a surface car at Fulton and Hoyt Streets, Brooklyn. The injured were passengers on the street car. They were attended by ambulance surgeons, but only one had to be taken to a hospital. He was Harry Halpern of 74 Kenilworth Street, who received a fracture of the right leg and was taken to Cumberland Street Hospital.

According to the police the surface car, operated by Michael Murphy of 1,689 East Forty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, was going east on Fulton Street when the motor truck, driven by Frank Toponia of 199 Boerum Street, ran into it as the driver started to turn into Hoyt Street. The accident happened at a time when thousands of persons were on their way to nearby theatres. The police reserves had to be called before traffic could be cleared. Toponia was served with a summons to appear in Traffic Court this morning.

Mrs. Anna Shade, 50 years old, of 421 East Sixteenth Street, was killed by a surface car when she was crossing Second Avenue and Sixteenth Street in the afternoon. Paul Bohn, motorman, of 209 East Ninety-fourth Street, was not arrested.

Emil Ranty and his wife of 231 East Thirty-second Street, were thrown from their motorcycle at Third Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, when it was struck by a motor truck. The driver of the truck escaped before the arrival of Policeman Kubiseck, who commandeered a taxicab and took the couple to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said that Ranty's right lung had been punctured, his wife's collar bone fractured. A burglar chain. He said whenever a salesman was in the place he put on the chain, fearing somebody would come in and hold him up, but that yesterday he forgot to take this precaution. He said that when the robbers were leaving one of them said: "We have been trying to get this place for seven months." Edison gave the police a good description of one of the men.

BOY'S HOME INQUIRY SOUGHT

TRENTON, N. J., June 27.—Charging officers with mistreatment of inmates of the Jamesburg Boys' Home for Truancy, Postmaster James Donnelly of Passaic, has requested Governor Silzer to investigate the Parole and Domestic Relations Division of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, of which Commissioner Burdette G. Lewis is the Director.

Donnelly charged that the Chief of the Parole Department "farmed out" Andrew Bartes, 17, of Passaic, who was committed to the Jamesburg Home, for $4 a week.

Complaints regarding the treatment of other boys also have been filed with the Governor. Commissioner Lewis refused to make any statement.

HOLD UP JEWELER, GET $60,000 GEMS

THREATEN THEM AND FLEE

Two armed men entered the wholesale jewelry establishment of Louis Edison, at 58 Ludlow Street, yesterday afternoon, and, after binding and gagging the proprietor, his daughter and three salesmen, made off with $60,000 worth of jewelry and diamonds.

The establishment is on the second floor in the rear of a tenement house. Edison was talking to Max Kagin of the A. K. S. Jewelry Company of 64 Fulton Street, Samuel Saperstein of Maiden Lane and George Stern of 787 East Tremont Avenue. The door opened, two men with guns entered and ordered "hands up." While one of the hold-up men covered the group, the other bound them with rope and picklies which they took from their victims. Fannie Edison, the proprietor's daughter, who entered the room at this stage of the holdup, was told to sit down. She also was bound and gagged.

The hold-up men then searched their victims and got about $18,000 worth of jewelry. Stern managed to slip $500 in cash down his collar. Going to the safe the robbers took all the diamonds, which Edison estimates to be worth $40,000. The men gave them until warning, "Make no noise or we'll shoot," and walked out.

Edison, after working ten minutes, finally loosened the rope and, grasping a chair, crashed it through a window. Bystanders thought there was a fire and turned in an alarm.

Kagin told the police he lost $8,000 in jewelry, Saperstein's loss was $10,000, while five diamonds, valued at $270, were taken from Stern. According to the police, all the jewelry is insured.

Edison told the detectives that he had two locks on the door, one of them with a burglar chain. He said whenever a salesman was in the place he put on the chain, fearing somebody would come in and hold him up, but that yesterday he forgot to take this precaution. He said that when the robbers were leaving one of them said: "We have been trying to get this place for seven months." Edison gave the police a good description of one of the men.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 27.—Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John B. They had been in the air slightly less than six hours.

MANY SEEK CAUSE OF ELEVATED WRECK

OFFICIALS INSPECT SYSTEM

McAneny Denies Referring to Disaster as an "Act of God"—Hylan Attacks Critics.

Careful examination of the B. M. T. elevated system is being made by the company to determine if there are other places on the lines where ties or guard rails are so defective that Monday's disaster in which seven persons were killed, might be repeated. William S. Mendan, President of the company, said yesterday that the system as a whole was in pretty good shape, and that "the condition of the woodwork on other lines was equal to, if not better" than that on the Fifth Avenue line, where the accident occurred.

Nothing will be left undone to assure the safety of passengers, said Gerhard Dahl, Chairman of the Executive Committee, who deprecated the suggestion that there were sufficient defects in the wooden part of the Fifth Avenue structure to warrant suspended traffic on the line.

George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, also said there was no reason to suspect that the elevated structures in Brooklyn were unsafe, and repeated his statement that the accident was of the kind impossible to guard against, as the equipment of the wrecked cars, with the exception of the missing brake bolt, had been found to be in perfect condition.

Find Last Car Fell First.

Reports made by engineers of the Transit Commission indicate that the rear truck of the second car was the only one to leave the rails and drag along the ties and guard rail. The marks of only one truck were found on the structure, and when this twisted across the tracks the wrench is believed to have twisted the second car from the truck, toppling it into the street, front end down, and dragging the first car down with it. What threw that truck off may never be known, it was said, although the probability that it was a brake shoe bolt is supported by the motorman's statement that his emergency brake would not work when he applied it.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd said yesterday that he was still waiting for reports from the Transit Commission on the condition of the structure at the place where the accident occurred. Mr. McAneny said that the annual inspection and quarterly inspection had revealed some imperfections in the Fifth Avenue line, but no serious ones which would have required immediate attention. Only three guard beams in the section where the accident occurred were found to need replacement.

Mr. Dodd said that defective guard rails were one of the causes of the accident, and he said that if other guards were in bad condition, so as to make service dangerous, the service should be suspended. He would not say that he thought the service should be suspended at once. The power to order suspension apparently rests in the Transit Commission.

No Suspension, Says McAneny.

"Deplorable as Monday's accident was," said Mr. McAneny, "it will be again deplorable if the impression is given that the structures of the Brooklyn elevated system are themselves in an unsafe condition, or that any need exists for any suspension of service, temporary or otherwise.

"It is already fairly clear from the reports made to the Transit Commission by its engineers and inspectors that the accident occurred through some breakage or failure of the equipment of the derailed cars, and that the propulsion of the cars to the street was in no possibility the result of a failure of the timber guards to hold the trucks, but of the wrenching of the car bodies from the trucks with such force that the guards could not have checked their fall. For if there is anything in the reports at present in hand to show that the timber guards at the point at which the wreck occurred would have been incapable of serving the protective purpose for which they were installed had the responsibility actually fallen upon them.

"If it proves that there has been culpability of any description on the part of the company or its officers, the Transit Commission will join emphatically with the other public authorities in holding accountable those who may be to blame.

"One or two statements have been printed to the effect that the Commission considered it 'an act of God' in the sense in which that term is sometimes employed. The commission in its communications used no such terms and is not responsible for its circulation.

"There may continue to be considerable difficulty in determining what actually did occur, but beyond the theory advanced by the commission's engineers that a bolt dropped from the mechanism of one of the trucks and caused the derailment, there is nothing as yet that offers a definite solution.

"The commission has communicated to District Attorney Dodd today copies of various reports, and will continue to co-operate with Mr. Dodd in the fullest degree in establishing the actual facts. In the meantime it may be emphasized that the results of the commission's inspections of the Brooklyn elevated structures, both annual and routine, disclose no condition that should give alarm, and that there is no need for suspending or curtailing service at any point."

Three engineers have been appointed by the B. M. T. to make an inspection of the structure where the accident occurred in an effort to determine the cause of the wreck. They are Dwight P. Robinson, J. H. Davies and George Peagram, chief engineer of the Interborough.

Mr. Dahl would not discuss the report that the company had been notified some months ago that the guard rails on the Fifth Avenue line should be replaced, except to say that there was no recommendation with respect to guards at the point where the accident occurred.

Mayor Hylan issued a statement yesterday in which he attacked The World, Tribune and Herald for editorials in which he was criticised, asserting that these newspapers were attempting to divert attention from the accident.

"In regard to the accusation of political capital," the Mayor said, "that is absolutely false, because as far as I am concerned I am holding the last political office that I ever expect to hold. However, while I am in this office and so long as the transit corporations operate the railroads with rotten guard rails, wooden cars half a century old, and equipment not properly kept up, and all profits diverted to those connected with the transit lines, I feel it my duty to bring this condition to the attention of the people regardless of any accusation these traction agents may hurl at me.

"If Speaker Machold, the Republican leader of the House, will promise that if there is a special session of the Legislature called he will assure six or seven Republican votes to the Democratic members in the Assembly, and will aid in the passage of the Walker-Donohue bill, and a special session is called and this bill passed, I will appoint a commission who will serve the people's interests and force the companies to keep their equipment in good operating order, do away with wooden cars, lay new guard rails and perform every duty that they should perform to protect human life and give proper service."

There were forty-six victims of the wreck still in Brooklyn hospitals yesterday.

Credit Drop in Suicide Rate To General Prosperity Rise

A rise in prosperity caused the suicide rate to fall, The Spectator, insurance journal, reported yesterday. Last year the suicide rate per 100,000 went down to about 15, nearly a point decrease. A survey of seventy-six cities, with a total population of more than 27,000,000, found the suicides to number 4,088.

Self-destruction was more frequent in the Pacific Coast and Central West than in the East and South. California led with 27.0 per 100,000 inhabitants; Washington was next with 20.7, while New York reported only 13.6, with New Jersey at 13.7. Of the seventy-six cities, San Diego was the highest with 47.8, followed by Sacramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

ASKS BRICKLAYERS TO LET MORE WORK

Public Group of Building Industry Would Use Men From Trade and Y. M. C. A. Schools.

SHORTAGE OF APPRENTICES

Declare Building Is Still Hampered by Lack of Men to Meet Public Needs.

The building problem was not solved by the recent agreement under which the Mason Builders' Association granted the bricklayers $1.50 an hour or $12 a day, according to the Public Group of the Building Industry which, through R. H. Shreve, Chairman, addressed a letter embodying its views to the mason builders and the bricklayers yesterday.

"As far as we know," the letter states, "the agreement does not increase the number of men available, nor increase the production of the men, nor decrease the cost, nor contribute to the stabilization of the industry, all of which our Committee stated to you as being essential requirements if any relief from the present difficulty is to be secured for the public."

No agreement will be of any value that does not satisfy the buyer, induce him to come into the market and give the builder and bricklayer work, says Mr. Shreve. The agreement for a rate of $12 a day is made possible for the time being, he continues, only because of the urgent demand for bricklayers and their relative scarcity which is accentuated by decreased production per man, as compared with work in other years.

The mason builders and bricklayers are asked to consider other phases of the situation in which the public has a paramount interest. The Public Group suggests that employers, bricklayers and the other trades give adherence and loyal support to the Apprenticeship Plan and the work of the Apprenticeship Commission of the New York Building Congress so that the necessary number of mechanics may be trained. Neither employer nor employe, it is asserted, are now giving full support to the training of apprentices.

However, since the present apprenticeship plan will not make available trained workmen in large numbers for some years, the Public Group suggests consideration of a plan whereby bricklayers and other mechanics may be employed and permitted to work on all jobs in New York upon evidence of their ability to do the work, no matter where they are trained.

MOVE TO RUSH SCHOOL WORK.

Board of Education Resolution Provides for Two Shifts.

A plan by which it is hoped to hasten materially the school building program was passed yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Education. According to the resolution adopted it will now be possible to employ mechanics in double shift on new school buildings.

It is now the intention of the Board of Education to let contracts of two sorts, the first calling for the completion of the work in 300 consecutive working days of eight hours, and the second requiring completion of the work in 200 consecutive working days of eight hours (double shifts).

The passage of this measure was requested of the board by its architect, William H. Gompert, in a letter in which he stated that he reached the conclusion some weeks ago that something must be done to reduce the time in which school buildings are constructed, and decided that the only way this could be done would be by having the mechanics work in double shifts. After numerous conferences with Mayor Hylan and representatives of the Corporation Counsel's office a way was found whereby this plan could be legally carried out, and consequently an advertisement was drafted which has been formally submitted to the Corporation Counsel and approved.

It was learned at the Education Building yesterday that the double shift plan had been instituted in the belief that it would attract bricklayers, enabling them to make two days' pay in a 16-hour shift.

Mayor Hylan's recent request of the Board of Education that the school yards be thrown open during the Summer as playgrounds was referred to President Ryan of the Board of Education, for discussion with the Mayor, after Commissioner Arthur S. Somers had pointed out that damage suits amounting to $35,000 had accrued last Summer for alleged accidents in the school yards while used as playgrounds.

Dr. John A. Ferguson, a member of the board, took occasion to deny, at the adjournment of the meeting a statement that appeared in a Brooklyn newspaper recently citing him as endorsing the candidacy of District Superintendent James Reynolds for associate superintendent of schools.

BOY MURDERS OFFICER OF INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Then Dresses Himself in His Victim's Clothes in a Vain Attempt to Escape.

LANCASTER, Ohio, June 27.—John R. Karshner, 47, officer at the Boys' Industrial School here, died this morning at the institution as the result of an attack made upon him by Frederick C. Mills, 16, of Akron, an inmate, last night.

Karshner received a compound fracture of the skull when Mills struck him over the head with an iron bar as the two were engaged in gathering eggs.

Following the assault Mills stripped the officer's body of clothing and dressing himself in it made his escape. He was captured four hours later by officers of the school and Juvenile Judge Van A. Snyder held him in $10,000 bonds for Grand Jury action.

The attack is said by officials to have been premeditated and was solely for the purpose of escape. Mills was received last April from Akron upon conviction of auto stealing and carrying concealed weapons.

Scene of Historic Turf and Motor Contests to Yield to the Demands of Homeseekers.

The Sheepshead Bay race track property in Brooklyn, once famous as the scene of historic contests between American thoroughbreds, was sold yesterday by the owners, the Harkness Estate Company and other interests, to Max N. Natanson. Not only the race track and motordrome property, but sixty cottages, bungalows and Plum Beach Island in Sheepshead Bay, together with other valuable acreage were included in the deal. The transaction, which was negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes Company, will involve eventually more than $20,000,000.

By his purchase, Mr. Natanson obtains complete ownership of nearly 650 acres of land in the vicinity of Sheepshead Bay, with a bay frontage of approximately 4,000 feet and an additional water frontage on Emmons Avenue; more than twenty blocks of property on Gravesend Road, and more than 5,000 feet on Ocean Avenue at the foot of which is the bridge over Sheepshead Bay to Manhattan Beach. More than 6,000 lots are involved.

The Sheepshead Bay race track was sold by the Coney Island Jockey Club in April, 1915, to a syndicate of automobile manufacturers and Wall Street men for the purpose of building a motordrome. The late Harry S. Harkness was president of the purchasing company, the Sheepshead Bay Speedway Corporation, and Everard Thompson, formerly director of the Yale Bowl, Charles E. Danforth, Percy R. Pyne 2d, Horace M. Kilborn and Blaine H. Miller were interested. The entire cost of the project, it was announced, would be $3,500,000. The first great contest held on the new speedway was the Astor Cup Race, on Oct. 3, 1915.

Early in 1917 judgment for $2,040,000 was entered in favor of the Coney Island Jockey Club against the Sheepshead Bay Speedway Corporation, and shortly afterward the property was taken over by Mr. Harkness. Since that time the future of the property has been in doubt. Various proposals for its use were made, but nothing definite was accomplished, principally because of the desire of the Harkness estate to sell the property for all cash. Meantime, the Police Department has held its annual Field Day on the ground, and other exhibitions have been staged there.

In discussing the deal by which he has become the owner of the property, Mr. Natanson said:

"The transaction has been under negotiation for many months. The final closing was deferred until yesterday because of title conditions and the necessity for acquiring contiguous properties. My principal reason for acquiring this extensive property is that it is generally conceded to be the finest unimproved tract in the metropolitan district. It is within the ten-mile zone and less than thirty minutes from City Hall or Fortysecond Street. The property within the city has better transportation facilities, and while part of the Brooklyn mainland, it has the advantage of being swept by ocean breezes. With its improvement the entire Sheepshead Bay neighborhood will be immensely benefited and real estate values, I think, greatly stimulated."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

A further decline on the Stock Exchange, of much the same scope as Tuesday's, again indicated yesterday the absence of support to the market. To what extent it also indicated anything like "forced selling" was a matter of dispute in Wall Street. So considerable a fall in prices as has lately occurred—even the "averages" showed yesterday a decline of 3¼ points since Saturday, and of 7¾ from the best figure touched on the month's early recovery—will always reach the limit of "margins" for some speculators and use up the banking accommodation of some others. But the really essential consideration was still the attitude of larger investment interests and of the general public.

With the public, at any rate, the position is now plainly enough what Wall Street calls "psychological." That was clearly enough demonstrated yesterday by the emphasis which was laid again on the change of attitude by professional advisers of speculative policies as an influence in the market. This kind of psychology has of late years not been very familiar on the side of falling prices, though most people will remember how it used to dominate markets in the palmy Wall Street days of Thomas W. Lawson. It is plausible enough as a theory to assume that the financial public, having listened last Spring to the warnings of "another 1920," has now begun to imagine that another such sweeping deflation of credit and prices is now under way. In so far as this idea had penetrated its mind, the outside public would naturally either shun the stock market or perhaps sell part of its present holdings.

This is more or less conjecture; if it were the correct and complete explanation, it would give an aspect of unreality to the present market, for the tangible signs of the day differ in nearly all essential particulars from those of the early part of 1920. Declining prices are indeed in evidence, in the commodity markets as on the Stock Exchange. But the overstocking with goods by producers and merchants, the duplicating and pyramiding of orders and, in particular, the money stringency and the exhaustion of credit for home and foreign commercial ventures, do not exist at all. In the steel trade there is good reason to believe that production is not yet fully in line with legitimate consumption. In other industries the reports of the Federal Reserve Banks from every section of the country have agreed in testifying that such was the spirit of caution, after the trade activity slackened during April, that available stocks of merchandise are now exceptionally low for a busy season.

This is precisely the opposite report to that which came from all trade authorities in the Spring of 1920. But at present no such considerations appear to get a hearing. On the average, even the railway shares declined yesterday to the lowest since March of 1922, and this happened in the face of net earnings for May running, in the case of the companies which have thus far reported, 80 to 70 per cent. above the same month in 1922, when 4.36 per cent. was earned. It also ignored the reporting of another million-car total loading of freight for the second week of June, making the aggregate in four weeks 22½ per cent. above the corresponding period of 1922 and nearly 10 per cent. above 1920.

In due course, facts of this nature will get more reasonable consideration. Yesterday's markets were wholly under the influence of the prevalent spirit of vague pessimism, in which financial expectations were shaped by the course of prices, not the course of prices by financial expectations. Commodity markets were in the same mood as the Stock Exchange. Wheat fell 2 cents a bushel; cotton declined fractionally further, even while the cotton trade was continuing to predict a Government estimate, next Monday, such as would emphasize the shortage in supply from the growing crop. Some of the foreign exchange rates moved with the other markets. Sterling went to $4.59⅛, matching the year's low price, and marks fell to 6⅝ ten-thousandths as against Saturday's 9⅜. On the other hand, French, Belgian and Italian exchange closed moderately higher—fairly good evidence that the exchange market also was being swayed by the speculative mood, and not by actual developments in the situation.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1923.

Maximum charge for Stock Exchange call money was again 6 per cent., following opening and renewal at 6⅛. Change was reported at noon, and dealers reported active demand for accommodation, with all offerings taken. Fixed period market was likewise firm, with an advance of ¼ to ⅝ per cent. in leading banks' quotations, highest since May 25. Trades were reported at this figure, although money was quite freely bid at 5. Stiffness of market was attributed to disposition of big lending banks to hold offerings down to minimum. Commercial paper market inactive, with little prospect of improvement before turn of month and setting in of reinvestment demand; discount unchanged at 5 per cent.

Gold bullion is up at 89s 5d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation of gold would represent a price of 105 1-16 at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 104, on Jan. 30. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 108¾, on Feb. 6, 1920; the lowest, 105¾, on Feb. 2, 1923.

Beginning March 22, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1923 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

Prospects Excellent

The above epitomizes the remarkable record of a company whose common stock is now selling for only slightly over twice the present annual earnings. This is due to special conditions outlined in our analysis of the company's position.

In our opinion this common stock offers excellent prospects for a very high investment return within reasonable time and substantial market appreciation.

The cutting in half of the claims, it is said, was brought about by the co-operative efforts of the shippers, employes and managements of the railways.

Loss and damage claims filed with the railroads last year amounted to $46,-646,000. In 1921 the total was $96,736,000. In 1918 such claims amounted to $25,-000,000, but in 1920 the total was $136,-000,000.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

After several days' pressure against the French and Italian exchanges, during which Paris checks got down to the lowest point since last March, and Rome established a new low for the year to date, there was a brisk recovery in both of these remittances in yesterday's dealings, the former improving 4¾ points to 6.16 cents, and the latter moving up 10⅜ points to 4.49⅛ cents. The impetus behind the sharp advance was plainly the work of speculators who were covering previous contracts sold higher up along the road of decline.

Elsewhere the European exchanges were again quietly reactionary, sterling dropping ⅛ of a cent to $4.59⅛, which matches the previous low for the year established on May 9; German marks slipped back to 6⅝ ten-thousandths of a cent, or 150,000 for the dollar, approximately the price fixed in Berlin; Swiss declined to a new low at 17.17 cents, with irregularity in Scandinavians, Spanish and Belgian.

Far Easterns were heavy, the Chinese and Japanese rates being conspicuously weak, while South Americans were firm. Exchange on Montreal was weak at 97.56 cents, from 97.62.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

SOUND DEATHKNELL OF EXEMPT LIBERTIES

65% OF SUCH HOLDINGS HIT

Owners of Affected Securities Entitled to Convert Them Into Other Privileged Notes.

Surtax exemptions on Liberty bonds expire July 2 on more than 65 per cent. of the amount heretofore held entirely tax free. Wall Street investment houses, through their income tax departments, are calling attention to the fact with the object of saving the individual holders of these securities the annoyance and possible loss incident to solving what is admittedly a problem for most of them.

The problem arises when the holders of Liberty Loan 4¼s and 4s in amounts which bring them under the surtax exemption privilege expiring July 2 begin to figure their present year's income tax. Unless the bonds now held are sold and replaced by other Treasury issues which remain tax exempt, the holder, it is said, may find himself in much the same category as the shareholder of an enterprise unable to pay further dividends, or who finds no return for his original investment in that the return has ceased because the tax imposed offsets the interest received.

While it was pointed out that a majority of the purchasers of the Liberty Loan 4s and 4¼s were undoubtedly familiar with the terms of their purchases, an official in charge of the income tax department of a large stock exchange house said yesterday that experience had proved many such holders were ignorant of what steps to take to prevent loss on a security that has ceased to be tax exempt as to interest. It was explained that while the interest did not cease, the expiration of the surtax exemption would more than offset the return, with a resultant loss to the holder.

The terms under which these bonds were sold by the Government specify that they are entitled to limited exemptions from Federal income surtaxes and profits taxes until July 2, 1923, as follows: $80,000 of First-Second 4¼s and $126,000 in the aggregate of First 4s, First 4¼s, First-Second 4¼s, Second 4s, Second 4¼s, Third 4¼s and Fourth 4¼s.

The exemptions which expire July 2 apply on $105,000 par value of the bonds mentioned, and while a comparatively small item to the Government, are held of much importance to the holder.

"It is no longer necessary to be the original subscriber to the Victory notes on the Fourth Liberty Loan or any other issue in order to obtain the maximum tax exemption of $160,000 on Liberty Loan 4s and 4¼s.

"In view of the above it is now possible for one who is not a holder of any Liberty bond, to go into the open market and buy a total of $160,000 par value of Liberty Bonds, the income from which will be free of all income taxes for the following periods of time: $5,000 free for the life of the bonds, $75,000 free until July 2, 1923, $50,000 free until July 2, 1926, $30,000 of First-Second 4¼s (1947) free until July 2, 1923. Total, $160,000."

The idea, it was said, was to call attention to the fact that the tax exemption features would change on July 2 and to assist bondholders in rearranging their securities so that they still might remain tax exempt. Corporations holding such bonds are not affected by the date of expiration, as under the present law they may hold any amount of Liberty bonds free of taxes. Only individuals who hold more than $55,000 par value of the Liberty Loan 4s and 4¼s are affected.

Asked if the expiration of the surtax exemption would not have the effect of causing some of the holders to convert their bonds into strictly commercial bonds or into municipal securities which are tax exempt for life, bond experts said that would be the natural thing to do, but that the patriotic motives which led to the purchase of the bonds would serve as an incentive for their replacement by other Government bonds which remain tax exempt.

IMPERIAL is the largest irrigation district in California. About 450,000 acres in the District are under intensive cultivation, and its products are marketed throughout practically the entire year. Climatic advantages coupled with a cheap water supply make Imperial one of the most prosperous agricultural communities in California.

The bonds are a direct obligation of the Imperial Irrigation District; payable out of annual assessments levied and collected under the same authority as taxes; and are secured by a tax lien, ranking ahead of first mortgages on all land in the District.

The Imperial Irrigation District land and improvements are worth approximately 7 times the bonded debt against it, and its average annual production per acre is over 10 times the annual charge per acre for water, bond interest, maintenance and retirement of bonds.

BOND PRICES OFF IN HEAVY SELLING

FOREIGN ISSUES DECLINE

Selling in the bond market, which for the last few days had been slightly in excess of buying, yesterday appeared from all sides and resulted in a reaction which carried prices of many high grade issues down from fractions to a point or more. Some bonds which are ordinarily subject to sharper movements were off 2 or more points. The biggest break occurred in the Third Avenue Railway Company's adjustment 5s, which broke 6½ points.

Weight of selling forced the average of forty domestic bonds, as computed by THE NEW YORK TIMES, to a new low for the year at 76.18. This represented a decline of .39—or nearly 2-5 of a point—as compared with the previous close. The average price of ten foreign Government bonds broke nearly ½ point, to 92.73, off .43, and carried that average to below par for the first time since last April 16. In recent trading, even during the periods when stocks were being sold liberally, the foreign Government bonds had shown strength.

The firming of rates for time money, which was quoted yesterday at 5¼ per cent. for the first time since May 23 last, was one of the important factors in the decline of bond prices, according to dealers, an adjustment in bond values naturally following increase in the money rate. The continued selling of stocks, which yesterday gave way from 1 to 3 or more points, was also explained as a factor. Many sales of bonds were said to be for the purpose of getting money with which to answer margin calls on stocks. The heavy offering of new bond issues, it was further stated, had absorbed a large amount of investment funds, and there was also reported a continued shifting of funds from some of the "old line" bonds to the newer issues.

In the market for foreign Government bonds, the issues of French description were weak. City of Lyons 6s gave way 2¾ points; Bordeaux 6s, off 1¾; Marseilles 6s, off 1⅝, and French Government 8s, off 1½. Belgian Government 8s sold off 1½ points and City of Prague 7½s were off 1 point.

In the domestic bond group the Third Avenue adjustment 5s were off 6½ points; International-Great Northern adjustment 6s, off 3; Missouri Pacific general 4s, off 2⅝; Denver & Rio Grande funding 5s, off 1¾; Southern Railway general 4s, off 1¼; Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, off 1⅜; and Erie general 4s, Illinois Steel 4½s, International Mercantile Marine 6s and New York Central refunding 4½s, each off 1 point.

The following table shows the exports and imports of gold in May, classified by countries, all countries being included from which we imported or to which we sent more than $100,000 of gold in that month:

Canada	622,094	101,326
Mexico	678,638	561,120
Colombia	254,877	.....
Peru	128,549	.....
Philippine Islands	163,905	.....
New Zealand	181,565	.....

During the eleven completed months of the fiscal year we have imported from England $140,273,904 of gold, as compared with $120,494,505 in the corresponding period a year ago. From France our gold imports in the last eleven months were $21,678,828, as compared with $128,983,454. Our exports to Mexico in the eleven months' period were $500,526, as compared with $4,-885,628 a year ago.

For July Funds And July to July Safety!

THOSE who have funds to invest this July must also consider the safety of those funds in future Julys. It is a wise investor who brings to each re-investment of his funds still more exacting demands for their safety. There are, for example, several good bonds secured by first mortgages on income-earning properties. But the Prudence Guarantee as to interest and principal makes a 5½% PRUDENCE-BOND just that much better. It means the pledge of all our resources as added security for yours.

RAIL REPORTS SHOW BIG INCOME GAINS

COAL LINES PROSPERING

Further reports of railroads for the month of May, issued yesterday, showed the same striking increases in income when compared to those of the same month last year, as was manifested in the first reports. Among the reports made public yesterday were the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, the Philadelphia & Reading, the Lehigh Valley, the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Gross incomes of twenty-three roads compiled yesterday showed a total of $172,893,748 for May this year, as compared with $162,123,173 for these roads in the same month of last year. The net incomes of these roads during May were $32,418,140, against $37,181,832 in the same month last year, an increase of more than 17 per cent.

The most favorable increases were made on the coal-hauling roads. This was due in a large measure to the fact that the revenues of 1922 show the results of the miners' strike.

The net income of the Atchison for May was $3,508,546, against $1,556,836 last year, an increase of almost 100 per cent., while the gross income for the month of May was $19,235,189, against $17,042,573 last year. This report brought the net income for five months to $13,306,881, against a net of $5,220,068 for the corresponding period of last year.

The general increase is shown on the Chesapeake & Ohio report with a net operating income for the month of May of $1,983,794, against $1,574,486 in the corresponding period of last year. The gross income for the month of May was $5,038,816, compared with $4,827,410 for the same period in 1922. For the first five months of the year the net operating income was $7,624,284, against $7,192,118 last year; and the gross income was $20,614,834, against $35,302,745.

The Lehigh Valley shows a net income of $710,988 for May, against a deficit of $121,753 in the same month of last year. This difference is largely due to the coal strike which seriously affected the earnings of the road last year. This increase brings the net operating deficit for the five months period down to $359,504.

The Delaware & Hudson is another of the roads whose income was affected by the coal strike last year, and which is doing better this year, according to the figures made public in the report for the month of May. These figures indicate a net income of $1,166,967 for the month, against a deficit of $218,730 in May 1922. The same report gives the net operating income for the year to date as $1,351,685, against $1,757,173 last year, although the gross income in the first five months of this year was $16,526,699, against $16,569,406 for the same period of 1922.

The gross income for the Philadelphia & Reading for the first five months of 1923 was $40,118,941, as compared with $35,586,628 last year. The net operating income for the same period was $13,393,923, or more than two and one half times the amount of the same period last year when it totaled $5,459,281. For the month of May the road showed a net operating income of $3,316,479, against $491,813 in May, 1922.

The report of the Central of New Jersey showed a net operating income of $554,140 for May against a deficit of $98,532 in the same month of last year.

SCOPE OF YESTERDAY'S DECLINE IN STOCKS

As a whole, the break on the Stock Exchange yesterday was the sharpest thus far in 1923. Larger breaks than were reported occurred in individual stocks in the May reaction, but yesterday's decline was more general, a total of 160 individual issues registering new low records for the year to date.

There was little in the industrial news of the day to account for the selling. Both railroad and industrial earning statements now being issued, continue favorable and in many cases the earnings reported are the largest accumulated since the boom year of 1920. There were many rumors in circulation in the financial district to account for the decline. Most of these dealt with the stranded position in which certain pools now find themselves as a result of the refusal on the part of the public in general to place buying orders, because of the lack of confidence due to the recent failures. The hardening of call money rates was also believed to be responsible for part of yesterday's steady stream of liquidation which caused the low records.

On yesterday's break, the averages compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES dropped to the lowest point for the year to date. In the case of twenty-five railroad stocks the average of 87.12, recorded at the low point yesterday, was not only a new low for this year, but it was also below the low point reached in last November's reaction, and was the lowest reported since March, 1922, when the railway average was quoted at 87.02. The average for twenty-five industrials yesterday established a new low point for this year, but it failed to drop below the low point of 101.20, reached on Nov. 27 last. The average for fifty stocks is at a new low also, below the November low, and is the lowest since July 5, 1922, when the figure was 79.36.

The low point on the average yesterday, compared with the high for the current month to date. The low point reached on May 22, following the April-May drop in stocks, together with the levels reached on other recent important swings, are given in the following table:

CURB MEMBERS CELEBRATE,

Members of the New York Curb Market Association after the close of business yesterday celebrated the second anniversary of the moving of the Curb Market from the "open air" on Broad Street to the building which it now occupies. It was just two years yesterday that the efforts of E. R. McCormick, then President of the Curb Association, were realized after several years' work.

John W. Curtis, now President of the Exchange, having succeeded Mr. McCormick after his physician ordered him to take a long rest, addressed the members from the rostrum of the Exchange. He set forth the steady progress made by the Curb Market during the last few years, particularly covering the expansion of trading since the association moved indoors. He called attention to the fact that the larger Stock Exchange houses were giving more attention to the handling of Curb Market business by increasing their memberships in the association and taking on additional tickers in order that prompt service might be had in receiving Curb quotations. Other officials spoke of the better conditions of the Curb, which was characterized as the second largest stock market in the world. The gloomy atmosphere of the market during the day was cast aside during the demonstration after the close, which was joined by all members on the floor and the officials and employes of the Exchange.

RAILROADS MAY FIGHT I. C. C. COAL CAR ORDER

Decision Draws Expression of Disappointment—Point Out Dangers in the Ruling.

Railroad officials yesterday expressed disappointment in the decision handed down Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission which forbids the carriers after Sept. 1 to allot any extra cars to soft coal mines whose product is intended for railroad fuel or to give any preference in car supply to mines which own their own cars. Under the present plan, it was pointed out, railroads may confiscate coal passing over their tracks in case of necessity, but they cannot exercise control over their own cars as in the past.

The most serious difficulty that is expected to result will be in the matter of delivering coal for commercial uses, according to E. E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, who did not, however, take such strong exception to the commission's ruling as some of the other railroad presidents with offices here. Under the new plan, Mr. Loomis suggested, manufacturers will be unable to tell during periods of shortage just when they will receive their coal.

The railroads, too, will be affected, he said, because of the difference in the price of coal that will be paid during such periods. Under the present system the carriers can buy coal at contract prices, this price not varying with the rise and fall of demand for coal. Under the new plan, the railroads, when they confiscate coal passing over their lines, will be forced to pay the coal mine operators the market prices.

Whether the railroads will carry the commission's ruling to a court test has not been decided and will not until a copy of the Interstate Commerce Commission's ruling has been studied fully by counsel. Encouragement was found in the minority report signed by Commissioners Eastman, Dahlele, Potter and Cox, which declared: "In effect, although not in intent, their (the other seven commissioners) findings subordinate the needs and interest of all others to those of the coal industry."

The next meeting of the Eastern Presidents' Conference will be held here in three weeks. The roads most seriously affected by the order are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, the New Haven and other New England roads, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Southern, the Burlington and others which use assigned cars for railway fuel at mines on their own or other lines.

NUMEROUS COMPANIES PAY EXTRA DIVIDENDS

Continental Can Recommends $1 Quarterly on Each Share of Common Stock.

The Executive Committee of the Continental Can Company, according to a statement issued by the firm yesterday, has recommended to the Board of Directors that a quarterly dividend of $1 a share be declared on the common stock payable Aug. 15, to stockholders of record Aug. 4. The Board of Directors will meet July 11, to take action on the dividend.

An extra dividend of 2 per cent. in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of the same amount was declared yesterday on the common stock of the New Jersey Zinc Company. The regular dividend is payable Aug. 10, to stockholders of record July 31, and the extra dividend is payable July 10, to stockholders of record June 30.

Directors of the Detroit Motor Bus Company, yesterday declared an extra dividend of 1 per cent. in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on the capital stock. Both dividends are payable July 15, to stockholders of record June 30.

The Alabama Company, yesterday declared a dividend of 1½% per cent. on the first preferred stock, thus settling the back dividends due on this class of security. The dividend is payable July 20, to stockholders of record July 10.

Directors of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the capital stock payable July 25, to stockholders of record July 14.

AGAIN PASS DIVIDEND ON B. & O. COMMON

DECLARE 2% ON PREFERRED

Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company decided at a meeting held in New York yesterday not to resume dividend payments on the common shares at this time. The dividend on the preferred shares, amounting to 2 per cent. for the semi-annual payment, was declared. The action was generally a surprise in the financial district, although in some quarters the hope had been entertained that, in view of the earnings for the first five months of the year, these payments would be resumed.

The Directors issued a statement after the meeting to the effect that earnings for the first six months of the year doubtless have justified the resumption of dividends, but that it had been decided to use this available surplus in further strengthening the road's physical and financial position.

No dividend has been paid on the common stock of the Baltimore & Ohio since the last half of 1919, when 4 per cent. was paid. The dividend record of the road prior to that time extended unbrokenly from 1900, and ranged from 2 per cent. in that year to 6 per cent. in 1907 and 1914. The rapid increase in earnings during the early part of the year and the probability that dividends would be resumed brought the common stock into the speculative limelight in the stock market recently. They declined 2¾ points to $44 per share when it became generally known that the dividend would not be resumed at this meeting.

"The board, after giving careful consideration to all the facts and conditions, decided unanimously that the real interests of the common shareholder would be best served at the present time by using the available surplus resulting from the first six months' operations to anticipate the final payment of $1,750,000 and to thus complete the full appropriations required under the $35,000,000 loan, and to provide also out of the half year's income for the cash payments, approximately $5,000,000, required in connection with the new equipment ordered.

"It will be remembered that the loan of July 1, 1919, above referred to, provided for the appropriation of $3,500,000 annually out of income for capital expenditures before the declaration of the dividends until the sum of $17,500,000 had been so appropriated.

"This course will enable the company to complete the appropriation of $17,500,000 for capital expenditures as required under the terms of the $35,000,000 loan, and also to complete the financing of more than $22,000,000 of new equipment. The company will, therefore enter the last half of the year with no charges against the net income ahead of the common stock, except the fixed charges for that particular period.

"The regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. upon the preferred stock for the six months ending June 30, 1923, was declared, payable Sept. 1, 1923, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 14, 1923."

WATERMELON CROP SHORT.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Extreme heat in many sections of the country increased the demand in the past week for the already scarce watermelon and carlot prices rose to $1,000 or above in New York and Pittsburgh, according to the weekly fruit and vegetable review of the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics, issued today. The price range in New York City was $456 to $1,100.

The forecast for watermelon production in nine early States gives a total of 36,000,000 melons, compared with 56,600,000 in 1922. Southern California is the only district thus far this season with shipments in excess of those for the same period last year. The week's shipments averaged 150 cars a day, against about 675 cars for the corresponding week last year.

Official estimates reduce Georgia output of 13,000 cars last year to 50 per cent. this year. At this time of year in 1922, that State had shipped 4,000 cars against only twenty marketed to date this season. Florida's movement has been only 2,600 cars, compared with 10,000 to June 24, 1922.

WOOL GROWERS ON STRIKE.

Prices Too Low for California, Montana and Wyoming Clippers.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Apathy still characterized the wool situation in the West, according to reports to the Department of Agriculture. During the two weeks ended June 23 only a few small sales were reported in Montana, where producers apparently were holding firm or making arrangements to consign.

The same period saw practically no sales of importance in California, either by growers or dealers, the former being unwilling to release holdings at the prices offered, while the latter were not active.

Reports from Wyoming indicate the existence of a practical deadlock, with buyers offering around 43 cents and growers holding for 45 cents and more. Advices from Texas report little trading at 40 to 45 cents offers.

The various reports show that approximately 18 per cent. of the Montana clip, 45 of the Wyoming, 75 of the California and practically all of the Washington, Arizona and Utah clips have been sold or shipped.

Brooklyn City Railroad Income.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company yesterday issued its statement covering operations for May. This showed net corporate income of $249,538, compared with $235,160 in the same month last year. Passenger revenue totaled $1,044,493, against $1,046,660 last year, and operating expenses and taxes $795,280, against $799,155 in 1922.

CAR LOADINGS STAY OVER MILLION MARK

The total number of cars loaded on the railroads throughout the United States for the week ended June 16 was 1,007,253, according to figures made public yesterday by the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. This is the third time that car loadings have crossed the million mark this year, and it sets a new high record for the corresponding week of any year since the records have been kept, it was announced.

But while the loadings were establishing a new record as compared with corresponding weeks in previous years, they showed a decline of 5,996 from the loadings of last week, which were 1,013,249. At the same time the merchandise and miscellaneous loadings, considered by many business men as a criterion of business conditions, showed a decrease of 3,354 cars. These declines from last week were pointed to by railroad men as verifying the predictions of the American Railway Association earlier in the year, when it was anticipated that the third week in June would show a decline as compared to the second week of this month.

Total freight loadings on June 16 exceeded the corresponding week last year by 158,506 cars, and the corresponding week of 1921 by 231,925 cars. Merchandise and miscellaneous loadings totaled 585,357 cars, an increase of 21,211 cars over the same week last year and an increase of 117,871 cars over the same week in 1921.

May 26	1,014,029	806,877	705,335

The high record of loadings for all time was for the week ended Oct. 14, 1920, when 1,018,539 cars were loaded. The peak loading of last year was made on Oct. 28 with 1,014,480 cars; the high record for this year was 1,014,029 cars for the week ended May 26.

Classified into groups, forest products, ore and coke showed increases compared with last week, while merchandise and miscellaneous, coal, grain and live stocks showed declines.

GOOD WEATHER FOR COTTON

Week's Conditions Not Bad for Wheat and Ideal for Corn.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued at Washington yesterday, in part, follows:

"Temperature averaged slightly below normal in East Gulf district, but was somewhat above normal in other sections of cotton belt. Showers were frequent, though mostly light to moderate from the Mississippi Valley eastward, but dry weather prevailed in the western and northwestern portions of belt. On the whole, week was favorable for cotton. Showers occurred in about one-third of reporting stations in Texas, and crop made fair to good progress, except some late planted, which was unfavorably affected by dryness, while weevil, grasshoppers and army worm damage is considerable locally, it is light on whole.

"Warm, dry weather was favorable in Oklahoma, where crop made fair to good advance and cultivation progressed rapidly, but many fields were still grassy. Progress was fairly good to excellent in Arkansas, except in some southern sections where further rains fell; cultivation was rushed, but there was still considerable complaint of grassy fields.

"Cotton made generally fair progress in Louisiana, and there was a decided general improvement in condition, with warm, fair weather in Tennessee. It was rather too showery in Mississippi and scattered showers were of almost daily occurrence in Alabama.

"Ideal corn weather prevailed throughout the interior Valley States and the top crop made very good to excellent progress. It was also favorable for cultivation and much field work was accomplished. During the last few weeks favorable conditions for cultivation in Iowa have enabled the farmers to overcome the weedy fields, except in the northwestern portion, while most corn was waist-high and well cultivated. Cultivation made good progress in Nebraska, but many fields were still weedy in that State; corn made excellent growth.

"Progress and condition of the crop were fair to very good in Oklahoma, but rain was beginning to be needed in some central and southwestern localities. It was too dry for corn in Texas and rain was needed in most of Middle Atlantic coast areas. Corn improved with better weather in Southeastern States. This crop was retarded in more Western and Northwestern States on account of cool weather, and in Northwest by lack of sunshine.

"Under influence of unusually warm weather, Winter wheat ripened rapidly during the week; in fact, too rapidly in some sections. Harvest was in progress northward to Maryland, South Ohio Central Illinois and in Eastern Kansas nearly to Nebraska line. This work was being accomplished throughout the interior valleys under favorable weather conditions, with little interruption from rainfall, although it was uncomfortably warm.

"Heavy rains occurred in much of Spring wheat belt, warm weather in eastern portion caused rapid development. Spring wheat was still looking well in South Dakota where it was mostly headed, and was generally good to excellent where well planted in North Dakota, but poor to only fair elsewhere in that State.

"Hot dry weather adversely affected oats in much of Ohio Valley and crop was reported as stunted and heading short in places. Oats were in critical heading stage in Iowa where damage was done by heat and drought, but conditions continued favorable in Northern Plains areas. Harvest was well under way in Oklahoma and progressing in East and northward to Virginia.

Electric Appliances Sales Gain.

Sales of household appliances for the first five months of 1923 by the gas and electric subsidiaries of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey amounted to $1,767,497, an increase of 82.44 per cent. over the same period last year, according to figures announced by the company yesterday. During the same period, 27,291 new electric customers were obtained.

The New York Cotton Exchange announced today it would adjourn business at noon Friday, July 20, and remain closed until Monday morning, July 23, when it would reopen in its new board rooms in the Cotton Exchange Building.

CROP BETTERMENT UNSETTLES COTTON

Reactionary Trend Develops on Favorable Weather Report —Losses 11 to 52 Points.

The reactionary movement in cotton made further headway yesterday under influences similar to those prevailing earlier in the week. In addition to a favorable weekly weather report indicating general crop betterment, weakness in wheat and stocks brought liquidation of contracts. October sold off half a cent, making a decline of over a cent from high levels of Saturday. With conditions outside cotton circles exerting a depressing influence on sentiment, the general public is not interested in the course of prices at the moment. It is still too early in the season for reliable indications as to either yield or consumption. Prices lost 11 to 52 points.

Early trading brought further liquidation not only in July but in new crop months. As Liverpool displayed decided resistance in July, the feature soon after the call came from active buying of July contracts here against sales abroad. There has been an impression for some time that interests holding the local stock have hedges out against cotton in the July position but are holders of July in Liverpool. As differences between the two markets widened to over 280 points, the straddle showed sufficient profits to warrant reducing the interest. Several thousand bales of July were taken the first hour, yet Liverpool held slightly below 15d without weakening. Foreign interests bought late months on a larger scale than had been witnessed recently, owing in great measure to wider differences between New York and Liverpool. October abroad sold 240 points over New York compared with only 210 points several times last week. But this demand was not sufficient to absorb all contracts for sale and the market moved steadily lower after the call. October started around 24.85 and at midday sold as low as 24.35 while January sold around 23½ cents. Liquidation came from various quarters with several local operators putting out cotton.

The weekly weather report was by far the most favorable of the season. Not only did general improvement in the condition of the plant take place, but rapid progress is being made in clearing fields of grass. In Oklahoma and Arkansas in particular the situation showed a decided gain when compared with two or three weeks ago, though grassy fields were still reported from both States. But complaints from various parts of the belts were fewer in number, and weather has now proved beneficial for two weeks. There has been less moisture, with favorable temperatures. Weather yesterday was satisfactory in most States, though Georgia had one to four inches of rain where there has already been too much this month. Temperatures in the Southwest were also higher, fifteen stations in Texas reporting 100 to 105 degrees, with several points in Oklahoma over 100. A hot wave in Oklahoma at this juncture would prove damaging, as the plant there is sappy, whereas in Texas progress throughout the season has been normal.

A recovery of 20 points or more during the afternoon was lost when stocks weakened the last hour. October sold back to 24.35, but rallied somewhat in final trading, owing to greater steadiness in July. December registered the greatest loss, closing over half a cent lower than the previous day, while July lost only 11 points.

WHEAT PRICES DROP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

CHICAGO, June 27.—Weakness in the stock market with liquidation by houses with Eastern connections carried all deliveries of wheat off to a new low for the season, and, while houses with export connections were estimated to have bought around 2,000,000 bushels of July, September and December as hedges against sales abroad for forward shipment, the close was within a fraction of the bottom, with net loses of ¾@1¼ cents.

The trade was much larger than of late, and, while statement on the whole is very bearish, with a belief that prices will break under $1 before the decline culminates, there are indications that good support will appear on all breaks, and that the downward movement will be less rapid than of late.

There is a more pronounced disposition to keep a close watch of crop conditions in the Northwest. Black rust has been found in Spring wheat in the Sioux City, Iowa territory to a small extent and this is on the Southern edge of the main Northern wheat belt.

Under usual conditions, rust is found in the Dakotas around July 1 with damage depending on weather conditions from then on. Anything that tends to delay the maturity of the grain would be regarded as bullish.

Country offerings of wheat to arrive were not large, although a house with Omaha connections sold September freely, presumably against cash grain.

Reports from Nebraska, however, suggested that farmers were disposed to hold for better prices, while in Oklahoma indications were that they would sell rather freely around 75 cents per bushel. In parts of Indiana old corn and new wheat are around 90 cents for both grains, a rather unusual condition.

The development of a big export business, estimated at 1,200,000 to 2,000,000 bushels, was not unexpected and was forecast by the buying by the seaboard the previous day. In the main the transactions represent speculative business, although Italy was reported as having been the largest buyer and taking hard Winters, durums and Manitobas for as far ahead as December shipment.

The trade paid no attention to reports of storm damage in parts of Kansas and Missouri. A Northwestern man who was here said the trade there is making some high estimates as to the yield in the four States, while conditions in the Canadian Northwest are regarded as almost perfect.

Longs were more disposed to sell corn and, with wheat and stocks weak, the close was 1/8@1¼ cents lower. Trade in the aggregate was only fair, the activity in wheat detracting from that in other grains. The Government's weekly weather and crop report was construed as bearish, and there were more claims in today from the West that the crop was up to normal for this season as the result of the recent hot and forcing weather.

The demand for cash corn was only fair, but yellow was wanted, with the basis ¼ cent better as compared with July at 3@3½ cents over the future.

July oats acted tight and gained ¼ cent, while deferred deliveries were off ½@¾ cent. Confirmation was given by the Government's weekly report of deterioration in parts of the West, due to recent hot weather, but private reports today were of a more favorable character.

Corn receipts were 544,000 bushels; week ago, 327,000; last year, 1,048,000. Shipments were 350,000 bushels; week ago, 358,000; last year, 720,000.

May sales in department and chain stores in the New York district increased in comparison with the previous May and with last April, but May sales by wholesale houses, while still above the previous May, were lower than last April, according to figures compiled by The Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions of the Federal Reserve Agent here. This report, which will appear in the July 1 issue, will show a gain of 9.4 per cent. over May, 1922, in department store sales; a gain of 3.3 per cent. in chain store sales, and a gain of 3 per cent. in wholesale trade.

The 9.4 per cent. gain is ascribed largely to increased sales of women's ready-to-wear, silk and woolen goods.

"This gain is somewhat larger than the average for the past few months," the Review will say. "For the first five months of the current year sales were 7.8 per cent. above those of the corresponding period a year ago. The gain in compared with May, 1922, was due in part to higher prices. The average sales check increased from $2.61 last May to $2.85 this year or 9 per cent. Probably not all the increase was due to higher prices as merchants report that the people are buying a somewhat better quality of merchandise this year.

"Stocks held by department stores on June 1 were 7.3 per cent. larger, measured by the selling price, than a year ago. As sales have increased more than stocks, the stock turnover is more rapid. Between May 1 and June 1 there was a small decline in stocks, a change which usually occurs at this season.

"Sales by mail order houses in May were 20 per cent. above those of May, 1922, a somewhat larger increase than in March and April.

"May sales by wholesale dealers, while well above those of May, 1920, were fewer than in March and April. This decrease was due in part to seasonal tendencies but not entirely, as the decline between April and May was larger than usual.

"In February the volume of goods sold was 10 per cent. above the estimated normal, in March it was 11 per cent. above, in April 5 per cent. and in May 3 per cent.

"In May, as in several months previous, the largest increase in sales, compared with a year ago, was reported by machine tool dealers. Sales of clothing, especially women's clothing, were also large, as retailers who underestimated Spring requirements continued to place orders for immediate shipment. The smallest gain was made by dry goods dealers because of unwillingness of buyers to make commitments for the future in view of the unsettled state of the raw cotton market.

"A continued large volume of business is indicated by reports of chain store systems for May. Sales by all types of stores were larger than in May, 1922, and the percentage of increases were somewhat larger than in April."

STEEL PRODUCTION CURTAILED BY HEAT

Full Shipments Being Made on Contracts, However, Says Trade Reports.

The hot weather of the last week has caused some curtailment of operations in the steel mills of the country, according to trade reports, particularly in the sheet and tin plate rolling mills. Buyers and sellers agree, however, with few exceptions, that full shipments are being made on contracts. Manufacturing buyers still hold their orders close to requirements and are finding that on some products earlier delivery promises are now made by the mills.

"The shut-downs planned for July 1 affect a relatively small minority of producers," says the Iron Age, "being only for necessary repairs. Most of the larger companies will continue the present scale of operations. Ingot production as a whole has not been materially affected by the heat, the sheet and tin plate curtailments, which in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts have run from 15 to 30 per cent., being made up in part by larger outputs of other materials.

"The Carnegie Steel Company's ingot output has been greater in the past week than in the week preceding, and the Illinois Steel Company's operations were at 85 per cent. of capacity.

"Indicating that some mills are catching up on orders, it is now possible to get bars in two or three weeks in the Pittsburgh district. Similar promises can be made by some plate mills, and a recent order for fifty miles of line pipe went to a Central Western mill because it was in position to make deliveries in three weeks.

"Rail buying, which is from three to four months earlier than usual, keeps up. The Illinois Central has inquired for 80,000 tons, which will be divided between Chicago district and Alabama mills. The Pere Marquette is buying 5,000 tons of rails. Of 30,000 tons for which the Norfolk & Western is in the market, half are 100-pound and half 130-pound rails, and deliveries are to run from September to April.

"Railroads do not hesitate to buy anything needed in the remainder of the year except cars, and at the same time are calling for as liberal shipments as possible against contracts."

The Iron Trade Review says in part: "Steel prices are steady and show no tendency to dip below the Steel Corporation figures or the minimum schedule, excepting in black sheets. The recent purchases of 25,000 tons of sheet bars by the Steel Corporation were above $42.50, but this buyer has been quoted such prices since.

"Iron Trade Review's composite price of fourteen iron and steel products is $46.16, as compared with $46.34 last week, $47.53 for May and $36.93 for June a year ago.

"Dumping by the French in neutral markets of large quantities of coal tar products accumulated from German operations in the Ruhr has reacted unfavorably upon conditions in this country. This interference with export demand, in conjunction with heavy operations by by-product coke works, has caused a backing up of supplies of benzol, naphthalene and sulphate of ammonia in the hands of producers, and the spot market has weakened sharply."

Shell Trading Co. Earns £4,633,160

The Shell Trading and Transport Company for last year reports total incoms of £4,938,034 and net profit of £4,633,160. Dividends paid during the year amounted to £4,073,609, leaving a profit and loss surplus of £2,020,036 on Dec. 31, 1922, against a profit and loss surplus of £2,000,595 at the close of 1921.

Sinclair Orders 80,000 Tanks.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation has placed a contract with the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works, calling for the delivery of 10 additional 80,000 barrel oil storage tanks to be erected in the Mexia field in Texas. The erection of the tanks will call for approximately 4,000 tons of steel plate.

DIRECTORS WATCHING RAILROAD STOCK DEAL

Directors and officers of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad Company expect to learn today whether or not a quarter interest in their company and possibly full control has passed to the Tuttle-Harriman group, which some time ago obtained an option on 100,000 shares of the road's common stock. Officials of the road as well as the company's stockholders have been conjecturing for two months as to the motive behind the recent activity in that stock.

The Tuttle-Harriman group is headed by C. E. Tuttle of the Tuttle Coal Corporation of Pennsylvania and W. A. Harriman & Co. of New York. This group held an option to purchase from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company 100,000 shares of the road's common stock at 46, thus insuring a virtual quarter interest in the road, which taps a rich coal-mine region in Pennsylvania. There are 308,000 shares of common stock outstanding and 91,000 preferred stock carrying a voting privilege equal to that of the common stock. Pittsburgh & West Virginia common stock has held a few points above the option price until the current week, when selling throughout the general market forced the price down to around 45, or a difference of $100,000 on the 100,000 shares as compared with the option price.

Attention was first attracted to the stock two months ago when the quotation began to advance with almost daily regularity. At that time it was reported that W. A. Harriman & Co. was buying the stock under cover for the account of the New York Central Railroad Company, which has been extending its service into the Pittsburgh territory. This theory was given considerable color because of the desirable Pittsburgh terminals of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad Company. Another report was that the buying was being done for the Van Sweringens of Cleveland. Both reports were denied by W. A. Harriman & Co., who said the operation was for an independent group and without regard to a consolidation with any other railroad.

Owing to the interest in the reported transaction, some of the officials of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia were reported to have arrived yesterday in New York City to await the meeting of the Board of Directors which will be held here today. Efforts made yesterday to learn whether the option had been taken up were unsuccessful. Attempts to reach Mr. Tuttle yesterday also failed and at the offices of W. A. Harriman & Co. it was said that that company "had no interest in the matter."

Welcomes More 'Good-Will' Tourists

PARIS, June 27.—President Millerand, receiving the latest party of "Good-Will" tourists from the United States at the Elysée Palace today, said he was beginning to get the habit of receiving such delegations, this being the third, but it was a very agreeable habit. Before shaking hands with each delegate the President expressed the hope that, if they were pleased by the trip, they would go back as "individual ambassadors for the cause of France in their particular circles."

International Paper Earnings Grow.

Philip T. Dodge, President of the International Paper Company, following the meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday said that earnings of the company were satisfactory. The consumption of newsprint, he added, shows no sign of diminution and demand keeps up at the peak. Beginning with March, he said, earnings available for dividends showed considerable improvement and that month's statement showed about $415,000 available capital stock. There has been a slight falling off since on account of wage advances.

Bielaski Sues Washington Times.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A. Bruce Bielaski, formerly Chief Special Agent of the Department of Justice, who has recently been engaged in oil projects in Mexico, filed suit today in the District Supreme Court against The Washington Times for $100,000 damages for alleged libel. Mr. Bielaski complains of alleged scandalous articles published in The Times in June, 1922, relative to his reported kidnapping by Mexican bandits.

Split of Cuba R. R. Stock Approved.

Stockholders of the Cuba Railroad at a special meeting yesterday approved the proposal of the Directors to change the capital stock of the company from 200,000 shares of $100 par value each to 1,000,000 shares of common stock without par value.

RESERVE AGENCIES PERMITTED IN CUBA

CURRENCY REFORM SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Announcement was made by the Federal Reserve Board today that permission had been granted to the reserve banks of Atlanta and Boston to open agencies in Cuba and work co-operatively.

The matter has long been under discussion and opposition to the opening of Cuban agencies was made by representatives of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and other New York banking interests. In its announcement today the board explained its position thus:

"For some time the Federal Reserve Board has been considering the matter of the use of Federal Reserve and other currency of the United States in Cuba. Our relations with Cuba are unique, because of the provisions of the Platt amendment, and also because the currency of the United States has been made legal tender by act of the Cuban Government, but no adequate machinery has ever been set up by which unfit paper currency could be sent back to the United States for redemption and replacement.

"The board has finally decided to approve a plan agreed upon by the Federal Reserve banks of Atlanta and Boston by which they are to open agencies in Havana working co-operatively along certain definite lines. It happens that a considerable part of the paper currency in Cuba consists of notes issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and the plan is expected to continue these notes in circulation.

"It is expected that currency will be presented to the agencies for the purchase of cable transfers and that the currency received will be at once sorted so that the unfit bills can be sent back to this country for replacement by new currency. The new money will then be put into circulation through the purchase by the reserve agencies of bills of exchange from the banks operating in Cuba.

"This, it is expected, will result not only in replacing unfit paper money with new currency, but will have a tendency to stabilize banking conditions. Banks operating in Cuba will be enabled to carry on their business without the necessity of holding abnormal reserves, and will be able at any time to obtain currency by selling prime bills of exchange originating in import or export transactions. The board's regulations have undertaken in some detail to safeguard these transactions.

"In upholding Attorney Gainsburg, Justice Erlanger stated that Hirsch was required by the contract to accept the goods and receipt for them, and then, after he had had a reasonable time in which to examine them, if he found that they were not according to the contract, he could return them or offer to do so. The Court told the jurors that the only question for them to determine was the amount of loss sustained by the mills after the goods had been sold to another buyer at a lower of $1.22½ a yard.

SAYS BRITAIN AND CHILE BOOST NITRATE PRICES

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A combination of British and Chilean interests is controlling prices and production of nitrate and forcing the United States, which buys half of the nitrate exported from Chile, to pay higher prices than are warranted, according to Charles J. Brand, marketing specialist of the Department of Agriculture. After a study of the situation in Europe, Mr. Brand has made a report in which he asserts that control of prices for Chilean nitrate practically rests with a London committee, made up of representatives of British nitrate houses.

"In consequence of the existence of a producers' association, controlling about 87 cents of the output, and the methods of operation pursued thereunder," says Mr. Brand, "competition which might force efficiency and economy in the production of the fertilizer is virtually eliminated, and the United States is left without any say as to the price. The present method of price-fixing affords no incentive to efficient production and thus keeps prices higher than they need be.

"Unless continued, the association will expire Jan. 10 next. It is the belief of the British trade that the life of the association will be extended. The association has performed some useful services, but the general effect of its price-fixing arrangement is injurious to nitrate consumers.

"The importance of the Chilean nitrate trade to the United States appears from the fact that its consumption for agricultural purposes alone has been as high as 300,000 tons in a single year. The total consumption by the United States last year was 733,000 tons, out of a world consumption of 1,850,000 tons.

"There is no doubt that the synthetic products will furnish strong competition to the Chilean nitrate and will act in some degree as a means of price correction. Still, it is evident that the Chilean supply will be important to the United States for many years, and that we have a great interest in having the product efficiently produced and economically marketed."

MILLS WIN NOVEL SUIT.

Because Michael Hirach, a dealer in woolens and worsteds at 225 Fourth Avenue, refused to accept delivery of goods ordered from the Greenwich Mills at Providence, R. I., a jury before Supreme Court Justice Erlanger decided yesterday, after a trial lasting seven days, that he must pay $18,438 as damages and interest on the ground that he broke the contract.

The mills sued, through I. Gainsburg as attorney, for $19,201 as the loss sustained after the entire output of 5,000 pieces of goods had been manufactured according to specifications furnished by Hirsch, asserting that the contract was silent as to the buyer's right to examine goods before accepting them. This novel question was raised for the first time, Hirsch stating to the seller that he was willing to let the courts determine his rights as to inspection.

In upholding Attorney Gainsburg, Justice Erlanger stated that Hirsch was required by the contract to accept the goods and receipt for them, and then, after he had had a reasonable time in which to examine them, if he found that they were not according to the contract, he could return them or offer to do so. The Court told the jurors that the only question for them to determine was the amount of loss sustained by the mills after the goods had been sold to another buyer at a lower of $1.22½ a yard.

TOY AND OTHER SHOWS.

These Are in the Future to Be Held in the Bush Building.

Announcement was made yesterday by George T. Keen, manager of the Hotel Imperial, that the National Toy Fair that has been held there annually since 1916 will in the future be held in the Bush Terminal Sales Building at 132 West Forty-second Street. Other exhibition enterprises of Mr. Keen, including the National Ready-to-Wear Show, the Dealers' Automobile Equipment Show and the National Housewares Show, will also be centralized in the building mentioned.

In making the announcement Mr. Keen asserted that he had taken over for a term of ten years three full floors and parts of three others in the Bush Terminal Building. The fifth floor will be put into exhibition use first, with the fourth and third following. Parts of the sixth, seventh and eighth floors will be utilized later. Possession of the space referred to will be taken on Monday next. The first show to be held in the new quarters will be the 1924 National Toy Fair, which will begin on Feb. 4.

Speaking of the project yesterday, Mr. Keen said that its object was to simplify the problem of visiting buyers of toys and other merchandise by grouping as many exhibits as possible under a single roof. He further said that the physical layout of the fair would be novel. The floor containing the larger exhibits will be so arranged with booths that each exhibitor will have a private showroom. The corridors between the booths will be like streets, with glass windows in the booths, giving them the effect of stores and permitting the exhibitor to obtain the publicity value of store windows. Privacy can be obtained, if desired, merely by drawing the shades. Two other floors will be equipped with open and semi-open booths for smaller exhibitors.

The National Toy Show was first held at the Hotel Imperial in 1916, with eighteen exhibitors. Early this year the 1923 show was held with 157 exhibitors, and it was estimated that about $5,000,000 worth of business was written. All the displays were made by domestic manufacturers, as no manufacturers' agents, jobbers or importers were permitted to show their merchandise at the fair. This rule will be adhered to strictly in the new quarters.

MANCHU RECORDS BURNED.

PEKING, June 27 (Associated Press).—Fire that destroyed several minor buildings in the Imperial City near the North Gate early today is said to have consumed a quantity of valuable ancient records of the deposed Manchu dynasty. Firemen from the Italian Legation tried to help put out the fire, but were hampered by regulations of the Republican Government prohibiting the opening of the gates to the Forbidden City.

Strike Ties Up Ithaca Trolleys.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 27.—Carrying out their threat to strike unless granted a wage increase of 8 cents an hour, employes of the Ithaca Traction Corporation failed to report for work this morning. The city is without trolley service, as the company was making no attempt to operate the cars today with substitute crews.

Millinery Style Show Changes.

Several important changes in connection with the annual Fall style show of the Retail Millinery Association of America were announced yesterday by Business Manager J. R. Bolton. The most important of these is that the display of hats by manufacturers will no longer be confined solely to those represented in the membership of the National Association of Ladies' Hatters. Applications for a place in the show may be made to the association headquarters by any manufacturer, the fitness of any and all applications being passed on by a style committee appointed for the purpose. Another change will be the abolition of the horseshoe-shaped runway, on which the living models have displayed the hats during the past several shows, in favor of the stage in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, where the exhibition will be held on Aug. 3, and a runway extending from it. This arrangement will permit of more space for the dinner tables. Additional seats will be placed in the Laurel Room of the hotel.

Offers New Embroidery Cloths.

A striking departure in the production of fabrics was described here yesterday by a representative of an embroidery house Jersey. The novelty of the business lies in the fact that the cloths are practically entirely of embroidery which are placed on a very thin base fabric. It is asserted that this is the first time that this has been successfully done. The fabrics are 38 inches wide and can be made up into entire garments by the cutters-up or sold as yard goods for similar purposes by retailers. In addition to this, the embroideries are said to be absolutely original, deriving their inspiration from a source hitherto untouched—that of the animals, totems and other designs of the Swahili tribe of Africa. The patterns are worked out in a large variety of attractive contrasting color combinations. The same embroideries have been applied to silk goods, and they are described as particularly effective for border trimmings.

Burlap Market Tone Stronger.

Although actual selling has been limited so far this week, largely due to the irregularity of quotations, a noticeably stronger undertone to the local market for burlaps is reported. Speculators who were selling short last week are now withdrawing and trying to cover. Principal holders, both here and at Calcutta, are not shading prices any, despite the number of inquiries in the market for substantial quantities at prices ranging from 5 to 20 points under the replacement cost. These bids cover all positions. Spot and afloat goods were quoted here yesterday at 5.60 and 7.45 cents, respectively, for 40-inch 8 and 10½ ounce goods and, according to a cable received by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., the same figures were quoted at Calcutta for July-September shipments.

The Manufacturer Was Unfair.

Regarding unfair returns of merchandise by retailers that are so vigorously complained of by manufacturers of women's apparel, THE TIMES yesterday received a letter from an up-State department store giving an instance in which the unfairness was shown by the manufacturer. In part, the letter says: "Through our New York office we had occasion about two weeks ago to buy from Blank & Co. a lot of coats, and when they came in we found them to be of a material which we knew our representative would not have bought for us. We returned these coats to the manufacturer and he refused to accept them. We then sent one of the garments to our representative, and he was greatly surprised to see the kind of merchandise this firm had sent out to us. Despite this, he could not make the manufacturer accept these coats, and as we were the shippers we had to take them back in order to avoid a lawsuit. The manufacturer made us an allowance of $1.50 on each garment, but we would have willingly given him $1.50 on each and not taken the coats."

Woolen Manufacturers to Meet.

The semiannual meeting of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on July 17. The meeting will be a joint one, thus differing from the ones held previous to the opening of the heavyweight lines last January, when the woolen and worsted manufacturers met separately. Shortly after this date the openings of the Spring lines are expected to take place so that questions concerned with this may come up for consideration. Secretary J. J. Nevins said yesterday, however, that the program as it stands at present will be devoted to the proposed adjustment department, the mutual adjustment bureau of the clothing and garment trades and fabric labeling. The first named proposition takes in the matter of the association forming an agency for taking care of unjust claims involved in the return of merchandise, which has hitherto been handled by public adjusters.

Lace and Embroidery League.

For the purpose of combating certain evils in the trade preliminary steps for the formation of an organization to be known as the United Lace and Embroidery League have been taken. Fifty-five manufacturers, controlling 725 Schiffli machines, are enrolled in the membership of the new body, and a campaign to enlarge this number is under way. A committee composed of Charles Bihler, Arnold Knaus, Kurt Lehmann, Joseph Lesser and Victor Edelman will meet today with representatives of the Allied Lace and Embroidery Manufacturers' Association to draw up by-laws for the new body and to proceed with its incorporation. The main evil which the league will aim to suppress will be that of design piracy, although other unfair and questionable practices will also be fought. The scope of membership will not be limited to owners of machines, but will include, as associates designers, jobbers, yarn dealers and importers of machines. E. F. Curtz is temporary secretary and manager of the league.

No Trousered Waitresses Here.

There is little chance of any American store following the example of Selfridge's in London by putting its waitresses in trousers, according to an executive of a prominent local store that includes a large restaurant among its various features. The Selfridge waitresses, according to a special cable from London that was printed in yesterday's TIMES, are garbed in a special costume, on the order of a French art student's get-up, of which white pegtop trousers with a broad black stripe are a prominent part. According to the executive in question, the thing was probably done by the English store more for publicity purposes than for speeding up service. He thought no American store would follow suit, for several reasons, one of the most important of which is that the waitresses would refuse to wear the costume.

Toy Orders Have Been Good.

Toy manufacturers will close the half-year period with a business booked that is much ahead of the same time last year. Buyers, according to a trade authority, have specified earlier shipping dates than in 1922. Reorders have come through for the variety of toys that have been suitable for Spring and Summer sale. In certain instances, largely because of local labor shortages, some manufacturers have found it necessary to work their plants overtime in order to meet their shipping dates. It is said that there is a greater tendency than ever to push toys as all-the-year-round items, and considerable success along these lines has been reported. Retailers are being urged to put a certain amount of their toys on display when they reach the store, on the theory that a larger volume of toy business can be done apart from what is considered the regular toy or holiday season.

To Discuss Neckwear Problems.

More equal distribution of tie silks as a solution of the unsettling of the men's neckwear trade through undue price cutting practices will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of tie silk mills and neckwear manufacturers to be held at the Metropolis Club on July 16. The meeting grew out of plans discussed yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Associated Men's Neckwear Industries, Inc. In furtherance of the association's plans for securing a uniform system of cost accounting for neckwear manufacturers, it was also decided to send out questionnaires immediately containing a list of the items that it is proposed to include in the system, with the request that comment be made upon them. Oct. 6-13 was decided upon as the time for the holding of Autumn Neckwear Week. During the month of October a window display contest for retailers will be held, with twenty-seven prizes totaling $1,000 to be offered.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

Little snap to trading was visible in the local gray goods market yesterday. In the princloths some trading was reported by second hands for June and July delivery, in 39-inch 68-72s at 11¼ cents and in 38½-inch 64-60s at 10⅝ cents. Sales of sheetings, which also were limited, were based on 10⅜ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods. The construction mentioned brought that figure for June-July delivery. In the specialties buyers paid 14½ cents for 39-inch 84-104, 4.20-yard sateens. The rest of the market was dull and featureless.

PARISIENNE TAKING MORE TO CLOTHES

So the French Clientele, Rather Than the American, Appeals to Couturiers.

In spite of the unsettled political conditions in France, all Paris is dressing smartly, even extravagantly, according to Mrs. Rose Amado, the style creator and importer of 13 East Forty-sixth Street, who returned yesterday on the Olympic after spending three months abroad. So important has the Parisian clientele again become that the couturiers have little time for Americans and other foreigners, she says. Once again, the creators find profit in designing for the French women, whose tastes they understand better than those of the foreigners, and with such inspiration they bid fair to produce even more interesting gowns than ever before. Already they have introduced many attractive new features, which Mrs. Amado has combined with her own ideas, and which will be shown at her opening next week.

"Amado" was the first establishment here to combine American ideas with French and carry them out in the houses of the French couturiers. For many seasons Mrs. Amado has had the co-operation of the most important French creators. She works with them there, making the models which she brings to be shown to the manufacturers here. They are never reproduced by her, but are loaned in lots of six—one gown or garment a day—during her showing, which lasts from four to six weeks.

"From the point of view of the couturiers, Paris is excessively prosperous," said Mrs. Amado. "For the first time since the war the Parisienne is buying clothes in great quantities. In fact, the French clientele has become so important that the Americans are finding it very difficult to obtain clothes without waiting some time for them. The whole attitude of the Parisienne appears to have changed. No longer does she favor sombre black, but vivid colors are shown everywhere. If some smartly dressed woman still clings to a subdued shade it is sure to be relieved with bright embroidery. Bulgarian embroidery is in favor at the moment.

"Of course, many of the plans of the creators in Paris went for naught this season because of the very cold weather. At the Grand Prix and the other fashionable racing meets it was impossible to show the new models, as is the custom, for if it was not raining it was so cold that heavy coats had to be worn. I was obliged to get an entirely new wardrobe since I had taken with me only Summer things. But, although there was little fashion display at the resorts, many smart clothes were to be seen in the Paris restaurants. They now of the hair."

serve as barometers of style. In Cha the Cafe de Paris and the Ritz it is almost impossible to find tables in the evening, and among those there are to be found a predominance of French people, with a sprinkling of foreigners. season sees the reverse of this.

"The straight silhouette is still in favor, although there is a tremendous tendency toward flounces and what might be called by us the old-fashioned trimmings. There is every indication that the old Princess is to reappear, although some of the interesting models are still belted. Any trimming is in the front, such as aprons and tunics, and the back is kept quite plain. Embroidery is every where popular than before and is used on all kinds of garments.

"While the French are showing a great preference for vivid colors in clothes and hats, they have sprinkled bright colors for footgear. No colored shoes are seen in the well-dressed women. The only really smart shoe now is the black patent leathery either with a buckle or of fancy cut. Sometimes there is a piping of color, but this is more apt to be of white, gray or some other subdued tone. Light-colored stockings are still in favor.

"Hats are very small, even those worn for evening, what they lose in size they make up for in elaborate detail, for they are made of much more handsome materials than ever before and are trimmed with valuable aigrettes and feathers, which, of course, can never be used in this country. The hats are all trimmed low at the side or have the trimming carried right to the crown. Evening hats are no longer popular, and the French women are giving more attention to the coiffure than they did last season. The coiffure is not so elaborate, but much attention is given to the care

National Merchandise Fair

By Permission of The National Merchandise Fair, Inc.

July 23 - August 3, 1923

Plenty of space; designed for individuality; excellent window display and lighting facilities—these are fundamental features of the new booths that will appeal to the garment trade and will be large factors in progressive selling by exhibitors in the Garment Division.

The booths are to be ten by twelve feet square and the window space will be seven and one quarter feet high, five and one half feet long and two and one half feet deep. The entrance to the interior of the booths will be at one side. Draperies will be placed at the entrance, shutting off the interior from the aisles. The possibilities for decorations are unlimited.

The lighting of booths has been carefully planned so that the garments can be given the best display that is electrically possible. The window display will be carried in a flood of light. The cornice around the top of the window will hide the lights from view and serve as a reflector for the display. The aisles will take on the aspects of streets of individual stores and shops.

Walton Threatens to "Enforce Law" in Four Other Counties in the State.

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 27 (Associated Press).—All except a "small force" of the Oklahoma National Guard units which arrived here this morning to enforce martial law in Okmulgee County, following Governor J. C. Walton's proclamation late yesterday, were ordered returned to their homes and demobilized, Brigadier General Alva Niles announced here this afternoon.

Instances of alleged law violations are being "rigidly investigated" and the guilty will be proceeded against through the usual agencies, General Niles's statement said. Roy Crane, speaker at an alleged anti-Catholic meeting here last night at which minor disorders are said to have occurred, was forbidden to hold a similar meeting tonight, it was announced.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 27 (Associated Press).—"Operations of lawless mobs that have been committing outrages in Okmulgee County for months," and not merely the statement of three citizens detailing alleged abuse of official authority by deputy sheriffs, prompted Governor J. C. Walton to proclaim martial law in Okmulgee County, he told the Associated Press today. He said the statement was "merely the climax."

The Governor said that four other counties in the State were threatened with the same condition as he asserted existed in Okmulgee County.

"Caddo County is on the verge of the same thing," he declared. "I am going to stamp mob rule and mob violence out of Oklahoma if I have to put every county under military law and leave them there as long as I am Governor.

"I have tried and tried to get results through the regular civil agencies without success," the Governor declared. "Local officials are too often allied with these secret, lawless mobs, and I have got no results. I am determined to get results. Okmulgee County is going to stay under martial law until I am satisfied I have sufficient enforcement there."

The Governor declared that throughout the six months that he has been in office he has received reports of mob violence in Okmulgee County.

HYLAN DECORATES CITY HONOR SQUAD

Addressing forty honor employes of the Street, Park and Public Works Departments and hundreds of others at the north end of Union Square yesterday, Mayor Hylan charged former Street Cleaning Commissioners with incompetence. The medals and prizes were awarded by the Central Mercantile Association for the most efficient city employes in the district bounded by Thirty-fourth and Canal Streets, Fourth Avenue and the North River.

"I think probably one of the best things done in some time," said the Mayor, "was my appointment of Street Cleaning Commissioner Alfred A. Taylor, who worked up from the ranks. When I came into office some people who knew more about the affairs of the city, and the newspapers, told about past administrations and the wonderful work they did. I looked about, but did not see that they had accomplished much.

"I had a Street Cleaning Commissioner who was little more than an obstructionist. At last I was obliged to appoint a practical man, experienced, from the ranks. Since then there has been wonderful progress throughout the city in this department's work."

Mayor Hylan said that during "regimes of other commissioners" he was in constant contact with Mr. Taylor, who was General Superintendent of the department before becoming its head.

"He and I," said the Mayor, "were outlining the progress of the department even under other commissioners."

The Mayor related the achievements of the department in furnishing sanitary stations for the street cleaners and said the next big step would be establishment of a central machine shop at 17th street and the East River.

Commissioner Taylor distributed the other prizes. The chairman was C. Stanley Mitchell, vice-president of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank, president of the association.

William Clark of 119 Bloomfield Street, Hoboken, was acquitted yesterday of the charge of murdering his common-law wife, Mrs. Mary Clark, by a jury in the court of County Judge Lazarus, in Jersey City. The jury was out an hour.

A murder followed by a suicide on the White Star liner Baltic a day out at sea from New York was reported yesterday by Captain John Roberts to the managers of the line at 1 Broadway. The message stated that Harry Dixon, 46 years old, a machinist of 118 North Seventeenth Street, Philadelphia, had been shot dead by Egidio Amabilo, Italian, 32 years old, dishwasher of 60 Mulberry Street, New York, who then ended his own life.

The circumstances leading to the shooting, which occurred on Tuesday afternoon, were not given in the message. The custom of the Italians to carry revolvers and knives on their person when they go abroad is well-known to the agents of the various steamship lines and, when the rush starts for the Mediterranean ports, the third class passengers are all searched before they go on board and all weapons are taken from them.

Ingram W. Dunbar of 1,727 South Fifth Street, Philadelphia, a brother-in-law of Dixon, said that he had gone to England to see his mother, who is 77 years old and lives at 23 Hanby Road, Sheffield. He could not give any reason why the Italian should have killed Dixon and declared that the man might have gone suddenly insane.

"Harry called at our home frequently," said Dunbar, "and went to see his mother because he thought she might not live much longer. He had crossed over twice before and made his last trip eleven years ago."

Dunbar added that his brother-in-law seemed to have a presentiment that something would happen to him and told his landlady so on Monday morning before leaving Philadelphia.

Dixon came to America twenty years ago and had been employed for a long time at the Disston Saw Works. Little could be learned yesterday about the Italian, Egidio Amabilo, beyond the fact that he had booked his passage from a steamship agent at 15 Mulberry Street and was the last of the 103 steerage passengers to go on board the Baltic late on Monday afternoon. He told the agent that he was going to the Province of Alessandria, Italy. He had been in the United States since 1909.

Analyze your innermost business traits in two profitable hours at home

LOOK back ten years, five years!—even in the past year, have you made the best of your natural abilities? Doubtless you have realized that an accurate measurement of your capabilities would have been a priceless benefit. But you have had no means of getting this help.

The Hoopingarner Self-Measurement Tests enable you to take your own measure—in the privacy of your home—during a couple of hours of delightful self-examination; and no other person need know what results you find in these Tests—so systematic, logical and easy to follow.

An Authoritative Business Analyst

Mr. N. L. Hoopingarner, originator of the Hoopingarner method, is a prominent business psychologist. He is a lecturer on Business Psychology and Management in New York University and in a number of New York business organizations. Mr. Hoopingarner is also well known for his work in the Carnegie Institute of Technology, selecting, training and developing executives and salesmen.

Over twelve years ago, when psychology was first being applied in a practical way to business pursuits, he began his research and experimentation in this field. He has served industrial plants throughout the United States and Canada, helping foremen and executives, as a lecturer and personal adviser; and in war times he was Personnel Adjutant, studying and grading men. Mr. Hoopingarner has devoted himself to the great task of helping men to find themselves! And the fruit of all his labor is assembled in his Self-Measurement Tests for Executive and Business Ability. The Hoopingarner method has been used by thousands of business executives.

How to Test Your Innermost Self

Based upon this foundational truth, Mr. Hoopingarner has devised a practical and scientific method of self-measurement. This method enables you to see to what degree you possess the twelve controlling executive and business traits.

These Self-Measurement Tests are arranged so that you can quickly go through from beginning to end and learn how the fundamental executive traits are combined in your make-up, recording the results of your tests step by step. This done, follow Mr. Hoopingarner's "Key to the Tests" and you easily chart your abilities.

Over night you may get a new conception of yourself, pointing out how to apply yourself for quicker and bigger results in your work. It is simply a matter of going carefully through the Tests.

Judge For Yourself!

THE Hoopingarner Tests (complete, with instructions for measuring yourself, and the Key for grading yourself) will be mailed to you promptly upon receipt of the service fee. If you desire to submit a summary of your findings to the Bureau of Business Guidance, you will be furnished, without additional cost, Mr. Hoopingarner's analysis of your vocational interests and aptitudes, and your "Vocational Pattern."

Make the test in two hours at home! If, after testing yourself, you do not feel that the service is worth many times the cost, the fee will be refunded. You shall be the sole judge! Mail the attached request!
